Ike Thinks Debt Comes Before Taxes

Holds No Hope For Tax Cut In Next 18 Months

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said Wednesday, with great earnestness, that before talking about tax cuts "we should start paying off something on this big debt of ours."

He also said he hopes this session of Congress will buckle down and pass a labor regulation bill, a new farm program and a bill to finance the big federal highway program. Once again, he held out no hope for a tax cut in the next 18 months.

Eisenhower laid down his stand on these and many other issues at a news conference attended by 224 reporters. He was subjected to a little needling for having discussed world and domestic affairs privately with a much smaller group at the White House Monday night.

Confirms Source

Eisenhower confirmed readily that he was the source of stories which came out of that dinner with White House press regulars.

"I'll probably try it again," he added cheerfully.

Those at the dinner wrote detailed stories describing Eisenhower as feeling that chances of a summit meeting of the great world powers have dimmed, and that a tax cut now seems impossible in the year and a half he has left in office. The stories were not attributed directly to Eisenhower.

On taxes, the President added Wednesday:

"It would look to be the part of wisdom to start getting the debt down a little bit, thereby creating the kind of confidence that will make a tax cut more justifiable."

Despite intense heat in the airless, tightly packed room, he wore a vest and never unbottomed the coat to his gray summer suit.

Bears Patiently

Eisenhower did have an air, a couple of times, of bearing patiently with what he regarded as silly questions, and he showed a flash of real anger once.

That once was when a reporter asked him about allegations she ascribed to a book (by Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson) saying that when Eisenhower was Army chief of staff he turned down the intercontinental ballistic missile, and that this set America's defenses back 10 years.

Eisenhower almost glared as he snapped back:

"Do you know anything truthful in any such allegations? I don't."

Seven Airmen Die In Crash

ANDOVER, N.H. (AP)—An Air Force refuelling tanker caught fire on a predawn training mission Wednesday and crashed in a hayfield. Its seven-man crew perished in a thunderous explosion of 8,000 gallons of gasoline.

The huge KC97, out of Peace Air Force Base, Portsmouth, N.H. virtually disintegrated as its tanks blew up. It was en route to refuel a bomber over central New Hampshire.

The pilot was Capt. James H. White, who lived with his wife and three children at Portsmouth. She is expecting a fourth child. White was a native of Somerville, Mass.

Other victims were: Lt. Harold G. High, Duluth, Minn.; Lt. Dean H. Holzworth, Worland, Wyo.; Sgt. Marion C. Akerman, Vevay, Ind.; Sgt. Owen Q. Combs, Bloomfield, Ind.; Sgt. Jake Schmidt, Riverton, Wyo., and Airman 3.C., Phillips K. Darst, Norman, Okla.

All were attached to the 509th Air Refueling Squadron.

Highway Plans Face Set Back Without Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Eisenhower administration warned Wednesday that it will have to call a nine-months halt in new interstate highway authorizations unless Congress acts soon to pump more money into the program.

Undersecretary of Commerce John J. Allen Jr. and Federal Highway Administrator Bertram D. Tallamy renewed the administration's plea that Congress hike gasoline taxes from 3 to 4½ cents a gallon.

They were the leadoff witnesses as the House Ways & Means Committee opened three days of hearings on the highway financing muddle.

Later President Eisenhower told a news conference that he considered the gasoline tax hike a high priority piece of legislation that Congress should enact before it recesses this summer.

Democratic congressional leaders turned thumbs down on the gasoline tax hike shortly after Eisenhower proposed it in his budget message last January.

But there have been recent signs they might seek a compromise with the administration on a smaller increase and limit the hike to one year instead of the five sought by Eisenhower.

Allen said the highway trust fund was expected to go into the red in October. By next June 30, he said, the deficit would climb to 500 million dollars unless Congress acted to stave it off.

ROME (AP) — The European Atomic Energy Agency's first research center will be set up at Ispra in northern Italy under an agreement signed Wednesday with the Italian government. By 1962 Euratom plans to invest 40 million dollars in the center, now known as the Italian Center for Nuclear studies.

ROME (AP)—Movie star Sophia Loren returned to Rome Wednesday for the first time since her Mexican proxy marriage to producer Carlo Ponti in 1957. The marriage is not recognized in Italy. Ponti did not accompany her from Vienna, where she has been making a movie.

Nixon Takes Off On Trip To Russia

Huddles With Ike, Gets Instructions On U.S. Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon took off for the Soviet Union Wednesday night vowing to be "friendly and frank" during his 11-day tour of the Soviet Union.

Nixon and his wife Pat, in an official party of 35, swept away from Friendship Airport in a sleek jetliner for the 11-hour flight to Moscow.

Nixon good-humoredly spouted some newly learned Russian phrases as he said his goodbyes to Acting Secretary of State Douglas Dillon, Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov and other dignitaries.

Waves To Throng

He waved to a police-estimated throng of 5,000 who gathered at Friendship Airport, midway between Washington and Baltimore, for the historic occasion.

Earlier in the day, Nixon received President Eisenhower's final instructions to lay it on the line in telling Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev of U.S. views on issues between the United States and the U.S.S.R.

Nixon huddled with Eisenhower and Dillon for a 45-minute briefing.

The vice president will meet Khrushchev and other top Kremlin officials after he gets to Moscow Thursday. From there he will visit Leningrad and four Siberian cities.

Nixon's official purpose is to open the U.S. national exhibit in Moscow. But he will also stop off at Leningrad and more Siberian cities in a trip that seemed likely to have its niche in the cold war annals.

Eisenhower noted at his news conference the possibility that, unofficially, the traveling vice president may be able to put in some spadework toward easing the cold war.

"Mr. Nixon will be able to, I hope, show the temper and feelings of the American people more accurately probably than a casual visitor here could do it," Eisenhower said. "He knows all about government, he knows about the attitudes, he can impart information but he is not negotiating anything."

Relates To Newsmen

As Nixon related it to newsmen following the White House talk, he thinks "it is very important that any miscalculation that he — Khrushchev—may have with respect to American strength and American unity should be dispelled."

The vice president expressed hope that through frank talk with Khrushchev he can "clear the air on some basic differences we have had with the Soviet Union."

But he made plain he does not expect to break the deadlock which has jammed the East-West foreign ministers meeting on the German crisis at Geneva.

"It is important not to anticipate that a trip like this is going to solve the world's problems," Nixon said, while adding: "There is always some potential that some yardage will be made one way or another."

Fight Wild Beasts

TOKYO (AP)—Armed peasants in the people's militia of Red China are conducting an organized campaign to exterminate dangerous wild beasts. The New China News Agency reported they have killed or captured 1,500 wild boars, leopards and tigers in the last 12 months in the mountains of Pucheng, Jukien province.

Debutante, 21, Vanishes At New Jersey Airport

NEWARK, N. J. (UPI)—A pretty, 21-year old debutante daughter of the executive vice president of Colgate Palmolive Co. vanished mysteriously Wednesday and police said they were looking for four youths with ducktail haircuts for questioning.

Police Director Joseph Weldon told newsmen that the four youths were seen on a Newark airport observation deck about the time socially - prominent Jacqueline Gay Hart disappeared after seeing her fiance off on a plane.

He said the descriptions of the four were too vague to warrant broadcasting a teletype message. But he said police had found an abandoned auto in which the four were seen speeding away from the airport at about 11:30 p.m. Tuesday. According to Weldon, airport police tried unsuccessfully to stop the auto.

"I advance no theories on this," Weldon said. However, he said "kidnap is not being considered at this time."

As authorities stepped up their investigation, acting police Inspector Charles Kelly approved a suggestion for Jacqueline's father, Ralph, to make a special radio-television appeal for his daughter's safety. A time was not immediately disclosed.

Jacqueline vanished shortly after kissing her boyfriend goodbye and walking through a door of the airport terminal. Her parents later found her empty, unlocked auto in an airport parking lot. A 13-state missing persons alarm was broadcast.

Advance Sends Living Costs To Record High

WASHINGTON (AP)—A jump of four-tenths of 1 per cent in June sent living costs to a record high and broke off a year-long spell of comparative price stability.

The consumer price advance announced Wednesday by the Labor Department give pay increases to 600,000 workers under cost-of-living escalator contracts. It also caused a slight drop in the real spending power of factory workers' earnings.

A sharp spurt in food prices, especially fresh fruits and vegetables, did most of the damage. Food rose 1 per cent from May, while the prices of almost all other goods and services in a typical city family's budget rose less spectacularly.

The increase was the greatest in any month since March 1958, but Commissioner Ewan Clague of the Bureau of Labor Statistics told reporters:

He predicted there might be some further rise in July, because of seasonal food increases, but that the harvest month of August would bring food prices down and result in a lowering of the over-all index.

The prices of fresh fruits and vegetables rose 10.9 per cent in June, concentrating in that month almost all the seasonal rise which normally is spread over April, May and June.

But other items in the average city-dwelling family's budget went up too. Housing costs rose one-tenth of 1 per cent. Transportation prices rose two-tenths of 1 per cent because of advances in gasoline and used cars.

Medical care rose three-tenths of 1 per cent, as did personal care —haircuts, beauty parlors, and similar expense items. About the only significant declines were in home repair and maintenance costs and fuel. Clothing prices held steady.

The spendable earnings of factory workers rose in June, but the price advance caused a net decline in the buying power of the worker's paycheck.

Spendable earnings—take-home pay after deduction of income and Social Security taxes — reached new records of $81.21 a week for the average factory worker with three dependents, and $73.66 for a worker without dependents.

These were increases of 18 cents and 17 cents, respectively. They resulted from more overtime work at premium pay.

Joyce Mathews Files Suit To Shed Billy Rose

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — The wife of Broadway producer Billy Rose, former showgirl, Joyce Mathews, filed suit in Juarez 1st Civil Court for a Mexican divorce Wednesday.

Miss Mathews, 36, asked for the divorce on the ground of incompatibility of characters. She said she and the 56-year-old Rose had made a property settlement July 15 in New York. The marriage three years ago in New York was her fourth and his third.

Their romance came to light in 1951, when Miss Mathews slashed her wrists and tried to jump out a window of Rose's apartment atop the Ziegfeld Theater.

Queen Wrinkles Nose On Visit

SASKATOON, Sask. (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II wrinkled her royal nose Wednesday as this prairie city gave her an all out welcome. The cause was an oil refinery. She also got a cinder in her eye at an old-time farm demonstration.

It was a rough day for the Queen's nostrils right from the start. When she and Prince Philip stepped from their special train to begin a two-hour visit, a stiff wind was blowing from the direction of the stockyards and slaughterhouse right toward the train.

During an eight-block drive to the Western Development Museum, the fumes of an oil refinery in full operation blew across the path of the process.

The museum houses more than 5,000 agricultural exhibits, horse-drawn transport vehicles and early vintage automobiles. In a field behind it several huge steam vehicles gave off clouds of black smoke as they clanked about in a demonstration for the royal couple.

But the Queen enjoyed the show so much that she was reluctant to leave. She watched with interest as old wood and straw-burning steam tractors, reapers, binders and combines passed by, wheezing, hissing, clanking and spitting cinders, one of which went into the Queen's right eye. She blinked it out unaided.

Woman Is Held In Man's Death

CANTON, N.Y. (UPI) — A 23-year-old woman was held for grand jury action Wednesday on a first degree murder charge in the slaying of golf professional Richard Smith.

Theresa de Francesco, an attractive brunette, waived examination before acting Police Justice James J. Crowley. The next county grand jury session is in September.

Smith, formerly of Binghamton, was found dead beside his car near the St. Lawrence Golf and Country Club. He had been shot once in the head and once in the shoulder.

GAZA (AP) — A United Arab Republic military spokesman said Israeli planes violated Arab air space twice Wednesday. A strong protest was lodged with the U.N. Armistice Commission.

Congress Passes Slashed Foreign Aid Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House and Senate, voting in quick succession with little debate, Wednesday passed and sent to President Eisenhower a compromise $3,556,200,000 foreign aid authorization bill.

The total is only $353,200,000 short—less than 10 per cent—of the $3,909,400,000 Eisenhower asked, despite vigorous efforts to slash it deeper. But that doesn't mean the President's troubles are over in getting most of the money he wants to help friendly nations stem the tide of communism through economic and military buildup. The bill merely sets spending ceilings.

A separate bill providing the money for the overseas aid is before the House Appropriations Committee and must be acted on by both the House and Senate. In past years, the actual money Congress provided has been cut below the authorization total.

The House passed the authorization bill first, by a 257-153 roll-call vote. In favor of it were 182 Democrats and 75 Republicans, with 86 Democrats and 67 Republicans voting against it.

The Senate, acting even more speedily, passed the bill by voice vote, sending the measure to the White House.

The final authorization measure was worked out in a Senate-House conference after the Senate and House voted different totals—the House $3,542,600,000 and the Senate $3,543,320,000.

Steelworkers Get Full Pay

BALTIMORE (AP) — Striking steelworkers received a week's pay Wednesday. But they won't get another full one until the walkout ends.

Some 26,000 employes of the Bethlehem Steel Co. got checks for salaries earned the week before the start of the nation-wide strike July 15.

Bethlehem's Baltimore mill has a monthly payroll of about $14,000,000. Wednesday's final payroll was estimated at about $3,500,000.

Next week the strikers will receive partial pay for days worked during the week the strike started.

Boy Slain After Shooting Into Crowd Of Children

NEW YORK (UPI) — An off-duty policeman shot and killed a teen-age boy Wednesday night moments after the boy fired a sawed-off shotgun at a crowd of children at play, wounding six persons.

Police said honor patrolman Walter Downs out drew the youth, identified as 16-year-old Carlos Rosario, when Rosario pointed the weapon at him.

The young gunman was believed to have a mental record, police said.

They said that Rosario fired one shot with his double-barrelled gun at a group of children playing near a Bronx intersection. Five of the children, boys aged 7 to 11, and a 23-year-old man were taken to Morrisania Hospital.

Downs, who was eating dinner with his wife, heard the screams of the children and raced from his first-floor apartment a half block to the scene where he encountered the Rosario youth, still holding the shotgun.

"Halt. I'm a police officer," he shouted.

He said the youth whirled around and leveled the shotgun at him. Downs whipped out his .32 caliber revolver and squeezed off one shot.

The youth fell dead.

Pushbuttons Seen Replacing Dials On Telephones

NEW YORK (AP)—Pushbuttons are being considered as a replacement for the present rotary dial in making telephone calls.

The Bell Telephone Laboratories said Wednesday it has developed a pushbutton mechanism that now is being tried out on home and office telephones in two communities.

Joint Steel Peace Talks Are Set Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal mediators have set up joint peace talks in the steel strike for next Monday—the first since the walkout began eight days ago.

"No special significance should be attached," said Joseph F. Finnegan, head of the Federal Mediation Service, in announcing the development Wednesday. He repeated his statement of a week ago that he foresaw no early or easy solution to the deadlock that has idled more than half a million workmen.

Finnegan and his aides stepped up their mediation efforts during the day. After his usual meetings of two hours with each side, the nation's mediation chief held a second conference with industry spokesmen—the first time he has met twice with them in a single day.

Finnegan said later "we feel we now have a better orientation on the differences" between the two sides.

He said he would meet with Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell in Washington Thursday.

The union struck July 14 in a demand for a 15-cent-an-hour wage and benefit package. Pre-strike wages averaged $3.10 an hour. The company balked at any wage increase, contending any further addition to production costs would prove inflationary to the nation's economy.

Besides half a million members of the United Steelworkers of America who are idle, the strike forced the layoff of about 45,000 employes in related fields—coal, railroads, trucking, shipping and construction.

Ten-Year Aid Pact Is Signed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Austria signed a 10-year pact Wednesday for expanded U.S. aid in the peaceful use of atomic energy. The new agreement, superceding an accord dated June 8, 1956, differs from the military atomic aid pacts recently concluded with seven NATO countries. This is strictly civilian. Austria is not a member of NATO.

West Berlin Faces New Red Action

Poland And Soviet To Support East Germany's Stand

GENEVA (AP)—The Big Four conference, already near the breaking point, was jolted Wednesday night by a new Soviet-Polish threat of Communist action against West Berlin.

The threat came shortly after Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko clashed over the terms of a Berlin truce. A semipublic session of the foreign ministers meeting failed to make any progress.

Word From Warsaw

Then came word from Warsaw of a joint communique by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Polish Communist party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka. It said that "if liquidation of the abnormal situation in West Berlin is not effected, then Poland and the Soviet Union will support East Germany in the measures which she may recognize as appropriate" to "liquidate the abnormal situation in Berlin."

There also was word that Khrushchev is reported planning a top-level conference of the Communist-bloc nations for the first week in August. The British Foreign Office said in London it had received reports that such a meeting would begin Aug. 3 in Moscow. There was no official confirmation.

The reported meeting was viewed as perhaps one of the real reasons Khrushchev called off a scheduled tour of Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Finland in August. He blamed "an unfavorable atmosphere" in Scandinavia.

Accuses Russia

At Wednesday's conference session, Herter accused the U.S.S.R. of trying to hold the 2¼ million residents of West Berlin as ransom for an ultimate Communist takeover of all Germany.

Herter told Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko the West never will be tricked into becoming "an unwitting accomplice." He referred to the Soviet proposal that the German reunification problem be handed over to a committee of East and West Germans with an 18-month time limit to get results.

Gromyko himself rejected Western counterproposals for continuing four-power negotiations on Germany. These proposals, he said, sought to impose a humiliating dictate on the German people.

Western spokesmen said Wednesday's plenary session of the Big Four foreign ministers made no progress whatever. French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville said the four powers remained as far removed from agreement as they were when the conference opened more than seven weeks ago.

Khrush Warns Of Aggravation

LONDON (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev warned Western powers Wednesday night that their stand at Geneva "may lead to aggravation of the (East-West) situation, pregnant with danger to the cause of peace in Europe."

The statement was made in a communique signed by Khrushchev and Polish Communist party leader Wladyslav Gomulka at the end of Khrushchev's visit to Poland, a dispatch from Warsaw said.

The communique declared:

If, despite the good will of East Germany and other Socialist Communists countries, liquidation of the abnormal situation in West Berlin is not effected, then Poland and the Soviet Union will support East Germany in the measures which she may recognize as appropriate within the framework of their sovereign rights to liquidate the abnormal situation in Berlin."

Fumigations Cause 11 False Alarms

TOKYO (AP) — White smoke belching from a restaurant's windows attracted a half dozen fire engines Tuesday. The restaurant was fumigating to kill cockroaches. It was the Tokyo fire department's 11th false alarm this month from fumigations. Firemen urged the citizenry to notify them before going after the insects.

Debutante, 21, Vanishes At New Jersey Airport

NEWARK, N. J. (UPI)—A pretty, 21-year old debutante daughter of the executive vice president of Colgate Palmolive Co. vanished mysteriously Wednesday and police said they were looking for four youths with ducktail haircuts for questioning.

Police Director Joseph Weldon told newsmen that the four youths were seen on a Newark airport observation deck about the time socially - prominent Jacqueline Gay Hart disappeared after seeing her fiance off on a plane.

He said the descriptions of the four were too vague to warrant broadcasting a teletype message. But he said police had found an abandoned auto in which the four were seen speeding away from the airport at about 11:30 p.m. Tuesday. According to Weldon, airport police tried unsuccessfully to stop the auto.

"I advance no theories on this," Weldon said. However, he said "kidnap is not being considered at this time."

As authorities stepped up their investigation, acting police Inspector Charles Kelly approved a suggestion for Jacqueline's father, Ralph, to make a special radio-television appeal for his daughter's safety. A time was not immediately disclosed.

Jacqueline vanished shortly after kissing her boyfriend goodbye and walking through a door of the airport terminal. Her parents later found her empty, unlocked auto in an airport parking lot. A 13-state missing persons alarm was broadcast.

Advance Sends Living Costs To Record High

WASHINGTON (AP)—A jump of four-tenths of 1 per cent in June sent living costs to a record high and broke off a year-long spell of comparative price stability.

The consumer price advance announced Wednesday by the Labor Department give pay increases to 600,000 workers under cost-of-living escalator contracts. It also caused a slight drop in the real spending power of factory workers' earnings.

A sharp spurt in food prices, especially fresh fruits and vegetables, did most of the damage. Food rose 1 per cent from May, while the prices of almost all other goods and services in a typical city family's budget rose less spectacularly.

The increase was the greatest in any month since March 1958, but Commissioner Ewan Clague of the Bureau of Labor Statistics told reporters:

He predicted there might be some further rise in July, because of seasonal food increases, but that the harvest month of August would bring food prices down and result in a lowering of the over-all index.

The prices of fresh fruits and vegetables rose 10.9 per cent in June, concentrating in that month almost all the seasonal rise which normally is spread over April, May and June.

But other items in the average city-dwelling family's budget went up too. Housing costs rose one-tenth of 1 per cent. Transportation prices rose two-tenths of 1 per cent because of advances in gasoline and used cars.

Medical care rose three-tenths of 1 per cent, as did personal care —haircuts, beauty parlors, and similar expense items. About the only significant declines were in home repair and maintenance costs and fuel. Clothing prices held steady.

The spendable earnings of factory workers rose in June, but the price advance caused a net decline in the buying power of the worker's paycheck.

Spendable earnings—take-home pay after deduction of income and Social Security taxes — reached new records of $81.21 a week for the average factory worker with three dependents, and $73.66 for a worker without dependents.

These were increases of 18 cents and 17 cents, respectively. They resulted from more overtime work at premium pay.

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — The wife of Broadway producer Billy Rose, former showgirl, Joyce Mathews, filed suit in Juarez 1st Civil Court for a Mexican divorce Wednesday.

Miss Mathews, 36, asked for the divorce on the ground of incompatibility of characters. She said she and the 56-year-old Rose had made a property settlement July 15 in New York. The marriage three years ago in New York was her fourth and his third.

Their romance came to light in 1951, when Miss Mathews slashed her wrists and tried to jump out a window of Rose's apartment atop the Ziegfeld Theater.

Queen Wrinkles Nose On Visit

SASKATOON, Sask. (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II wrinkled her royal nose Wednesday as this prairie city gave her an all out welcome. The cause was an oil refinery. She also got a cinder in her eye at an old-time farm demonstration.

It was a rough day for the Queen's nostrils right from the start. When she and Prince Philip stepped from their special train to begin a two-hour visit, a stiff wind was blowing from the direction of the stockyards and slaughterhouse right toward the train.

During an eight-block drive to the Western Development Museum, the fumes of an oil refinery in full operation blew across the path of the process.

The museum houses more than 5,000 agricultural exhibits, horse-drawn transport vehicles and early vintage automobiles. In a field behind it several huge steam vehicles gave off clouds of black smoke as they clanked about in a demonstration for the royal couple.

But the Queen enjoyed the show so much that she was reluctant to leave. She watched with interest as old wood and straw-burning steam tractors, reapers, binders and combines passed by, wheezing, hissing, clanking and spitting cinders, one of which went into the Queen's right eye. She blinked it out unaided.

Woman Is Held In Man's Death

CANTON, N.Y. (UPI) — A 23-year-old woman was held for grand jury action Wednesday on a first degree murder charge in the slaying of golf professional Richard Smith.

Theresa de Francesco, an attractive brunette, waived examination before acting Police Justice James J. Crowley. The next county grand jury session is in September.

Smith, formerly of Binghamton, was found dead beside his car near the St. Lawrence Golf and Country Club. He had been shot once in the head and once in the shoulder.

GAZA (AP) — A United Arab Republic military spokesman said Israeli planes violated Arab air space twice Wednesday. A strong protest was lodged with the U.N. Armistice Commission.

Congress Passes Slashed Foreign Aid Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House and Senate, voting in quick succession with little debate, Wednesday passed and sent to President Eisenhower a compromise $3,556,200,000 foreign aid authorization bill.

The total is only $353,200,000 short—less than 10 per cent—of the $3,909,400,000 Eisenhower asked, despite vigorous efforts to slash it deeper. But that doesn't mean the President's troubles are over in getting most of the money he wants to help friendly nations stem the tide of communism through economic and military buildup. The bill merely sets spending ceilings.

A separate bill providing the money for the overseas aid is before the House Appropriations Committee and must be acted on by both the House and Senate. In past years, the actual money Congress provided has been cut below the authorization total.

The House passed the authorization bill first, by a 257-153 roll-call vote. In favor of it were 182 Democrats and 75 Republicans, with 86 Democrats and 67 Republicans voting against it.

The Senate, acting even more speedily, passed the bill by voice vote, sending the measure to the White House.

The final authorization measure was worked out in a Senate-House conference after the Senate and House voted different totals—the House $3,542,600,000 and the Senate $3,543,320,000.

Steelworkers Get Full Pay

BALTIMORE (AP) — Striking steelworkers received a week's pay Wednesday. But they won't get another full one until the walkout ends.

Some 26,000 employes of the Bethlehem Steel Co. got checks for salaries earned the week before the start of the nation-wide strike July 15.

Bethlehem's Baltimore mill has a monthly payroll of about $14,000,000. Wednesday's final payroll was estimated at about $3,500,000.

Next week the strikers will receive partial pay for days worked during the week the strike started.

Pushbuttons Seen Replacing Dials On Telephones

NEW YORK (AP)—Pushbuttons are being considered as a replacement for the present rotary dial in making telephone calls.

The Bell Telephone Laboratories said Wednesday it has developed a pushbutton mechanism that now is being tried out on home and office telephones in two communities.

Joint Steel Peace Talks Are Set Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal mediators have set up joint peace talks in the steel strike for next Monday—the first since the walkout began eight days ago.

"No special significance should be attached," said Joseph F. Finnegan, head of the Federal Mediation Service, in announcing the development Wednesday. He repeated his statement of a week ago that he foresaw no early or easy solution to the deadlock that has idled more than half a million workmen.

Finnegan and his aides stepped up their mediation efforts during the day. After his usual meetings of two hours with each side, the nation's mediation chief held a second conference with industry spokesmen—the first time he has met twice with them in a single day.

Finnegan said later "we feel we now have a better orientation on the differences" between the two sides.

He said he would meet with Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell in Washington Thursday.

The union struck July 14 in a demand for a 15-cent-an-hour wage and benefit package. Pre-strike wages averaged $3.10 an hour. The company balked at any wage increase, contending any further addition to production costs would prove inflationary to the nation's economy.

Besides half a million members of the United Steelworkers of America who are idle, the strike forced the layoff of about 45,000 employes in related fields—coal, railroads, trucking, shipping and construction.

Ten-Year Aid Pact Is Signed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Austria signed a 10-year pact Wednesday for expanded U.S. aid in the peaceful use of atomic energy. The new agreement, superceding an accord dated June 8, 1956, differs from the military atomic aid pacts recently concluded with seven NATO countries. This is strictly civilian. Austria is not a member of NATO.

Boy Slain After Shooting Into Crowd Of Children

NEW YORK (UPI) — An off-duty policeman shot and killed a teen-age boy Wednesday night moments after the boy fired a sawed-off shotgun at a crowd of children at play, wounding six persons.

Police said honor patrolman Walter Downs out drew the youth, identified as 16-year-old Carlos Rosario, when Rosario pointed the weapon at him.

The young gunman was believed to have a mental record, police said.

They said that Rosario fired one shot with his double-barrelled gun at a group of children playing near a Bronx intersection. Five of the children, boys aged 7 to 11, and a 23-year-old man were taken to Morrisania Hospital.

Downs, who was eating dinner with his wife, heard the screams of the children and raced from his first-floor apartment a half block to the scene where he encountered the Rosario youth, still holding the shotgun.

"Halt. I'm a police officer," he shouted.

He said the youth whirled around and leveled the shotgun at him. Downs whipped out his .32 caliber revolver and squeezed off one shot.

The youth fell dead.

Poland And Soviet To Support East Germany's Stand

GENEVA (AP)—The Big Four conference, already near the breaking point, was jolted Wednesday night by a new Soviet-Polish threat of Communist action against West Berlin.

The threat came shortly after Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko clashed over the terms of a Berlin truce. A semipublic session of the foreign ministers meeting failed to make any progress.

Word From Warsaw

Then came word from Warsaw of a joint communique by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Polish Communist party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka. It said that "if liquidation of the abnormal situation in West Berlin is not effected, then Poland and the Soviet Union will support East Germany in the measures which she may recognize as appropriate" to "liquidate the abnormal situation in Berlin."

There also was word that Khrushchev is reported planning a top-level conference of the Communist-bloc nations for the first week in August. The British Foreign Office said in London it had received reports that such a meeting would begin Aug. 3 in Moscow. There was no official confirmation.

The reported meeting was viewed as perhaps one of the real reasons Khrushchev called off a scheduled tour of Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Finland in August. He blamed "an unfavorable atmosphere" in Scandinavia.

Accuses Russia

At Wednesday's conference session, Herter accused the U.S.S.R. of trying to hold the 2¼ million residents of West Berlin as ransom for an ultimate Communist takeover of all Germany.

Herter told Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko the West never will be tricked into becoming "an unwitting accomplice." He referred to the Soviet proposal that the German reunification problem be handed over to a committee of East and West Germans with an 18-month time limit to get results.

Gromyko himself rejected Western counterproposals for continuing four-power negotiations on Germany. These proposals, he said, sought to impose a humiliating dictate on the German people.

Western spokesmen said Wednesday's plenary session of the Big Four foreign ministers made no progress whatever. French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville said the four powers remained as far removed from agreement as they were when the conference opened more than seven weeks ago.

Khrush Warns Of Aggravation

LONDON (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev warned Western powers Wednesday night that their stand at Geneva "may lead to aggravation of the (East-West) situation, pregnant with danger to the cause of peace in Europe."

The statement was made in a communique signed by Khrushchev and Polish Communist party leader Wladyslav Gomulka at the end of Khrushchev's visit to Poland, a dispatch from Warsaw said.

The communique declared:

If, despite the good will of East Germany and other Socialist Communists countries, liquidation of the abnormal situation in West Berlin is not effected, then Poland and the Soviet Union will support East Germany in the measures which she may recognize as appropriate within the framework of their sovereign rights to liquidate the abnormal situation in Berlin."

Ex-Convict Shoots Man, Terrorizes His Family

JEANNETTE, Pa. (UPI) — An ex-convict shot and killed his former father-in-law Wednesday, terrorized his victim's family for four hours and then fled in an automobile.

Police said George P. Geiger, 27, of nearby Shawtown, shot Joseph Peters, 56, in the chest as he lay sleeping in bed because the older man would not allow him to see his ex-wife and 14-month-old daughter.

More than 50 state, county and local police set up roadblocks in a search for Geiger, who was believed still armed with the death weapon, a .30-06 deer rifle.

Before the shooting, police said, Geiger bound the dead man's wife, Josephine, 50; her daughter, Judith, 18, who divorced Gieger last November; Judith's cousin, Dennis Peters, 18; and a girl friend, Christine Crouse, 18.

Judith gave this account to police:

When she, Dennis and Christine returned from a local restaurant about 1 a.m. they found Mrs. Peters tied to a chair with Geiger sitting nearby with the rifle.

When they came in Geiger bound them to chairs. He then ranted on and off about his hatred for Mr. Peters and the family.

"You made me suffer while I was in jail. Now I'm going to let you suffer," he said at one point.

Judith learned later that Geiger had arrived at the home about midnight and had asked to see her. When Mrs. Peters told him she wasn't home, he forced his way into the house.

Judith said Geiger repeatedly threatened to shoot them. H e held the rifle to their heads and jabbed at their necks with a paring knife.

She said he untied them periodically and dared them to run while he menaced them with the rifle.

He then went up stairs and shot Judith's father. The baby, Pamela Ann, meanwhile, remained asleep in a nearby room.

While Geiger was upstairs, Miss Crouse slipped free of her bonds and fled from the house. She then called police. When the police arrived they were told that Geiger had fled in an automobile he had parked in a nearby alley.

Pravda Recalls Nixon Attacks In So. America

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda recalled Wednesday last year's mob attacks on U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon in Latin America and published a stinging critique of American foreign policy. The article raised doubts about the welcome Nixon will get when he arrives here Thursday.

The vice president plans to talk with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who said Tuesday he is puzzled why Nixon is coming here but "I suppose he has good intentions."

The main announced object of the Nixon trip is to open the U.S. exhibition in Moscow. Pravda warned the Soviet public to be alert against U.S. propaganda there.

What aroused Pravda most, however, was President Eisenhower's designation of this week as Captive Nations Week in the United States. Eisenhower, proclaiming the week in line with a congressional resolution, said, "Many nations throughout the world have been made captive by the imperialistic and aggressive policies of Soviet communism."

In World War II members of more than 30 individual religious bodies were listed as conscientious objectors.

Copter Crash Kills Three Men During Search

MT. MORRIS, N. Y. (AP)—Three Air Force men were killed Wednesday when a helicopter hit high-tension power lines and crashed into the rugged Genesee River gorge.

The helicopter was participating in a search for an 83-year-old professor emeritus of the University of Rochester, who disappeared while on a picnic.

The Air Force identified two of the victims as Maj. Leo J. Carbonneau, 37, of Arlington, Mass., and Capt. Victor A. Hanf, 35, of Baltimore, Md.

The name of the third was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The professor, Dr. Walter H. Bloor of Rochester, was found about three hours later, walking along an entrance road to Letchworth State Park. He said he became lost and spent the night in the woods.

Polio Strikes More Victims

WASHINGTON (AP)—Polio may be striking more victims this year than in any year since 1955 when the Salk vaccine became generally available.

The toll is still nothing like what it was before the new vaccine started to do its work.

However, the Public Health Service said Wednesday:

1. There were 174 cases, 105 of them paralytic, reported for the week ending July 4. The following week there were 179 cases, 111 of them paralytic. A still higher figure is expected for the week ended July 18.

2. Since Jan. 1, 1959 there have been 1,208 cases, 791 of them paralytic. In the same period of 1958 there were 754 cases, 385 of them paralytic. These figures were as of July 11.

It has not yet been possible to get an exact figure on how many of those stricken this year had received the recommended three shots of Salk vaccine. A Health Service study of 408 paralytic cases in 1959 listed only 55 as having received three shots.

Khrushchev Calls Top Level Talks For Communists

LONDON (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev Wednesday night was reported calling a top level conference of the Communist bloc for the first week in August.

The planned meeting was cited as one of the real reasons for Khrushchev's surprise decision to put off his scheduled tour of Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Finland.

The British Foreign office said it had received reports that the meeting would begin Aug. 3 in Moscow, but could give no independent confirmation.

Douglas McKay, Former Cabinet Member, Dies

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Douglas McKay, a confident little man who was one of President Eisenhower's original Cabinet members, died Wednesday of a heart ailment and kidney complications. He was 66.

He entered the cabinet as secretary of the interior in 1953 and resigned in 1956 in what was regarded as an administration - planned effort to get Wayne Morse —onetime Republican who turned Democrat—out of the U.S. Senate. However, McKay won with difficulty in his own Republican party primary and fell far short of beating Morse in the general election. It was the first political defeat ever suffered by McKay in a long series of contests climaxed by his 1948 election as Oregon governor.

McKay's appointment to the Cabinet was regarded as due primarily to his familiarity with and interest in hydroelectric power development and natural resources conservation. His support of private power and refusal to back a high federal dam in Hells Canyon of the Snake River brought bitter attacks from public power advocates in the Pacific Northwest.

His department's grant of a mining patent in a southern Oregon forest to the Al Sarena Co. of Alabama made the charge of "giveaway" a familiar—but disputed—one in the campaign with Morse.

Young Jew Hater Admits Setting Art Museum Fire

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — An 18-year-old youth, who police said is a known "hater of Jews" and an "avid follower of the Nazi doctrines of Adolf Hitler," has confessed setting fire to the Columbus Museum of Arts and Crafts, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Columbus Police Chief E. F. Moncrief said Richard Smith, alias Richard Renka, who recently moved to Columbus from Atlanta, also admitted painting Nazi swastikas in the museum and at two Jewish synagogues here last week.

He said the youth has been charged with second and third degree arson for the $150,000 blaze at the museum last Saturday night.

The statement by the police chief was released simultaneously to newsmen in Columbus and Atlanta. Moncrief and detective Capt. C.R. Adair were in Atlanta where the youth was believed held.

The fire at the museum and the swastika paintings at the two Jewish houses of worship were linked by Columbus police. It was at first believed that "thrill-seeking" vandals were responsible for the damage. A total of 165 valuable paintings and other art exhibits in the museum were destroyed.

A half-dozen Nazi swastikas were smeared on the museum walls in ink and charcoal.

Last Wednesday and again Friday, swastikas were smeared in yellow paint at the synagogues.

In prehistoric times a great lake city, built upon piles which may still be seen, existed where the waters from the Alpine lakes spread out over the plain before narrowing into the channel of the Rhone. This was the prehistoric Geneva, Switzerland.

GONDOLIERS WANTED—Four and one-half inches of rain at Miami Beach, Fla., made scenes like this a common sight at bus stops. Girls, bound for work, went barefoot to reach bus stops on Alton Road where the water overflowed the curb and seeped into some shops. Forecast was for more rain causing citizens to wonder if the Venice gondolier wouldn't be a boon. (AP Photofax)

Pravda Recalls Nixon Attacks In So. America

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda recalled Wednesday last year's mob attacks on U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon in Latin America and published a stinging critique of American foreign policy. The article raised doubts about the welcome Nixon will get when he arrives here Thursday.

The vice president plans to talk with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who said Tuesday he is puzzled why Nixon is coming here but "I suppose he has good intentions."

The main announced object of the Nixon trip is to open the U.S. exhibition in Moscow. Pravda warned the Soviet public to be alert against U.S. propaganda there.

What aroused Pravda most, however, was President Eisenhower's designation of this week as Captive Nations Week in the United States. Eisenhower, proclaiming the week in line with a congressional resolution, said, "Many nations throughout the world have been made captive by the imperialistic and aggressive policies of Soviet communism."

In World War II members of more than 30 individual religious bodies were listed as conscientious objectors.

Copter Crash Kills Three Men During Search

MT. MORRIS, N. Y. (AP)—Three Air Force men were killed Wednesday when a helicopter hit high-tension power lines and crashed into the rugged Genesee River gorge.

The helicopter was participating in a search for an 83-year-old professor emeritus of the University of Rochester, who disappeared while on a picnic.

The Air Force identified two of the victims as Maj. Leo J. Carbonneau, 37, of Arlington, Mass., and Capt. Victor A. Hanf, 35, of Baltimore, Md.

The name of the third was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The professor, Dr. Walter H. Bloor of Rochester, was found about three hours later, walking along an entrance road to Letchworth State Park. He said he became lost and spent the night in the woods.

Polio Strikes More Victims

WASHINGTON (AP)—Polio may be striking more victims this year than in any year since 1955 when the Salk vaccine became generally available.

The toll is still nothing like what it was before the new vaccine started to do its work.

However, the Public Health Service said Wednesday:

1. There were 174 cases, 105 of them paralytic, reported for the week ending July 4. The following week there were 179 cases, 111 of them paralytic. A still higher figure is expected for the week ended July 18.

2. Since Jan. 1, 1959 there have been 1,208 cases, 791 of them paralytic. In the same period of 1958 there were 754 cases, 385 of them paralytic. These figures were as of July 11.

It has not yet been possible to get an exact figure on how many of those stricken this year had received the recommended three shots of Salk vaccine. A Health Service study of 408 paralytic cases in 1959 listed only 55 as having received three shots.

Boy Sets Fire

VICTORIA, B.C. (UPI)—Radio station CKDA paid a 13-year-old boy two dollars Tuesday for the best news tip of the day when he reported the family barn on fire. However, the boy's father questioned the youth who admitted starting the blaze. "I couldn't get 25 cents to go to the movies," the youngster said.

Switch Believed Cause

OAKVILLE, Ont. (UPI) — Canadian National Railway officials said Wednesday an open switch might have caused the derailment of a Chicago-Toronto dayliner on Tuesday in which two women were killed.

Khrushchev Calls Top Level Talks For Communists

LONDON (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev Wednesday night was reported calling a top level conference of the Communist bloc for the first week in August.

The planned meeting was cited as one of the real reasons for Khrushchev's surprise decision to put off his scheduled tour of Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Finland.

The British Foreign office said it had received reports that the meeting would begin Aug. 3 in Moscow, but could give no independent confirmation.

Douglas McKay, Former Cabinet Member, Dies

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Douglas McKay, a confident little man who was one of President Eisenhower's original Cabinet members, died Wednesday of a heart ailment and kidney complications. He was 66.

He entered the cabinet as secretary of the interior in 1953 and resigned in 1956 in what was regarded as an administration - planned effort to get Wayne Morse —onetime Republican who turned Democrat—out of the U.S. Senate. However, McKay won with difficulty in his own Republican party primary and fell far short of beating Morse in the general election. It was the first political defeat ever suffered by McKay in a long series of contests climaxed by his 1948 election as Oregon governor.

McKay's appointment to the Cabinet was regarded as due primarily to his familiarity with and interest in hydroelectric power development and natural resources conservation. His support of private power and refusal to back a high federal dam in Hells Canyon of the Snake River brought bitter attacks from public power advocates in the Pacific Northwest.

His department's grant of a mining patent in a southern Oregon forest to the Al Sarena Co. of Alabama made the charge of "giveaway" a familiar—but disputed—one in the campaign with Morse.

Young Jew Hater Admits Setting Art Museum Fire

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — An 18-year-old youth, who police said is a known "hater of Jews" and an "avid follower of the Nazi doctrines of Adolf Hitler," has confessed setting fire to the Columbus Museum of Arts and Crafts, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Columbus Police Chief E. F. Moncrief said Richard Smith, alias Richard Renka, who recently moved to Columbus from Atlanta, also admitted painting Nazi swastikas in the museum and at two Jewish synagogues here last week.

He said the youth has been charged with second and third degree arson for the $150,000 blaze at the museum last Saturday night.

The statement by the police chief was released simultaneously to newsmen in Columbus and Atlanta. Moncrief and detective Capt. C.R. Adair were in Atlanta where the youth was believed held.

The fire at the museum and the swastika paintings at the two Jewish houses of worship were linked by Columbus police. It was at first believed that "thrill-seeking" vandals were responsible for the damage. A total of 165 valuable paintings and other art exhibits in the museum were destroyed.

A half-dozen Nazi swastikas were smeared on the museum walls in ink and charcoal.

Last Wednesday and again Friday, swastikas were smeared in yellow paint at the synagogues.

In prehistoric times a great lake city, built upon piles which may still be seen, existed where the waters from the Alpine lakes spread out over the plain before narrowing into the channel of the Rhone. This was the prehistoric Geneva, Switzerland.

Man Threatens Policeman With Ax, Is Shot Dead

BALTIMORE (AP) — A young Baltimore policeman saw a man walking along McMechen Street Wednesday, carrying a long woodcutter's ax in one hand and a hatchet in the other.

Suddenly, the man began running. Patrolman Ellis Baldwin, 25, gave chase, yelling: "Stop! Police!" and blowing his whistle.

A few blocks away, Baldwin said, "The man turned to me and raised the ax over his head as if he was going to strike me.

"I was 15 to 20 feet from him at the time. He said 'Don't come near me.' He turned and ran again."

"Don't come near me or I'll kill you," scramed the man with the ax, a Negro about 30 or 32 with a pencil-thin mustache.

Several blocks away, as the chase went on, two policemen in a car pulled up near the running man.

"Watch out!" Patrolman Baldwin yelled. "He's got an ax and he's trying to kill me."

Just then, the man threw the hatchet. Baldwin hit the dirt. The hatchet flew over his head and struck a parked car.

As Baldwin lay in the street, the man ran over to him and lifted the ax above his head. "I'll kill you," he screamed.

"Please, put it down," the patrolman said. The man stood firm.

From where he lay, Baldwin pulled his revolver and fired. Two policemen nearby also let go a volley of shots.

Man Is Fined In Assault Case

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—Men who live with women without benefit of marriage must accept some of the responsibilities of marriage, a magistrate ruled Tuesday.

Magistrate William J. Dwyer made the ruling in convicting Calvin L. Cook of assaulting Hilda M. Carter. Both are Negroes.

Cook testified he struck Miss Carter to prevent her from coming into his house. He said they had been living together as man and wife, but he decided to end the relationship.

Magistrate Dwyer noted that Maryland law does not recognize "common law" marriage, but he said he would try "to impose some of the same obligations on those who maintain such relationship."

"A married man can't kick out his wife because he's tired of her or angry with her," Dwyer said. "You can't just kick a woman out in the street if she has been living with you. If you decide to break up, it should be done peacefully and in a gentlemanly way."

He fined Cook $5.

Two Fugitives Held As Bank Theft Suspects

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two prison camp fugitives, suspects in a $39,000 bank robbery, were put in a lineup Wednesday.

Afterward, police said only that James E. Moore, 36, of Catonsville, and John E. Webb Jr., 40, of Baltimore, were still being held as suspects.

A branch of the Catonsville National Bank on U. S. 40 in suburban Catonsville was robbed of $38,931 Tuesday by two men who proved themselves fair amateur actors.

One of them posed as a prospective car buyer at an automobile agency to get the car used in the holdup. At the bank, one of them impersonated a loan applicant, was invited to sit down and discuss his problem by the manager, then pulled a gun on him.

Moore and Webb were captured late Tuesday night in a wooded area of Anne Arundel County after two Baltimore County officers fired at them.

Police said they escaped last Friday from a correctional camp near Salisbury on the Eastern Shore. Moore was serving a 10-year sentence for robbery and Webb was sentenced to 80 years—later reduced to 30 years — for armed robbery, burglary and assault.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two prison camp fugitives, suspects in a $39,000 bank robbery, were put in a lineup Wednesday.

Afterward, police said only that James E. Moore, 36, of Catonsville, and John E. Webb Jr., 40, of Baltimore, were still being held as suspects.

A branch of the Catonsville National Bank on U. S. 40 in suburban Catonsville was robbed of $38,931 Tuesday by two men who proved themselves fair amateur actors.

One of them posed as a prospective car buyer at an automobile agency to get the car used in the holdup. At the bank, one of them impersonated a loan applicant, was invited to sit down and discuss his problem by the manager, then pulled a gun on him.

Moore and Webb were captured late Tuesday night in a wooded area of Anne Arundel County after two Baltimore County officers fired at them.

Police said they escaped last Friday from a correctional camp near Salisbury on the Eastern Shore. Moore was serving a 10-year sentence for robbery and Webb was sentenced to 80 years—later reduced to 30 years — for armed robbery, burglary and assault.

Guard Unit To Take Train To Fort Knox

The First Medium Tank Battalion of the Maryland National Guard will travel "first class" when it entrains Friday night for two weeks of summer training at Fort Knox, Ky., according to Col. Robert C. Matlick, battalion commander.

The troops, formerly crack infantrymen, will receive their first camp training since their reassignment as armor cavalrymen in the new 29th Pentomic Division, Col. Matlick pointed out.

The men will board their special troop train at 11:15 p. m. Friday, the battalion commander stated, explaining that the train will consist of 14 Pullman cars, with 26 men assigned to a car. Two railroad kitchen cars will be handled by the battalion cooks so that the troops can be served hot, appetizing meals.

A Ridgeley area man was hospitalized Sunday in a highway accident on West Virginia Route 42 near Edom, W. Va.

Admitted to Rockingham Memorial Hospital was Carl (Dick) Fridley, 29, of RD 1, Ridgeley. He sustained lacerations of the face, bruises and a possible back injury.

State Trooper W. S. Hicklin said Fridley was traveling north on the highway when his auto went out of control, left the roadway, sideswiped a tree and nosed into an embankment.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Use Of The Wrong Word Can Make You Look Ridiculous

It is good to check yourself frequently on the words that are most frequently confused, the most common pitfalls of our language.

A few of the word-traps that are similar in sound, spelling or usage, but different in meaning, are given below. Underline the correct word and check your answers below to see how safe you are from making such errors.

1. Will this change (affect or effect) your plans?
2. She was very (eager or anxious) to wear her new clothes.
3. He would not give (advise or advice) to the young travelers.
4. There were only two persons there with (mutual or common) interests.
5. He was (all together or altogether) impossible.
6. The mother was always the (disinterested or uninterested) judge in the children's squabbles.
7. Only an (ingenious or ingenuous) child could have accomplished such a feat.
8. Springfield is the state (capital or capitol).
9. They had (already or all ready) procured a clubroom.
10. He was (alright or all right) when I last saw him.

Answers:

1. Affect, which means to influence. Effect means to produce, when used as a verb, and result, when used as a noun.
2. Eager is preferred. Anxious generally implies impending ill.
3. Advice. Advise is a verb.
4. Common, which means shared by two or more individuals. Mutual generally implies reciprocation and is frowned on by careful writers when used interchangeably with common.
5. Altogether, which as an adverb means wholly or thoroughly.
6. Disinterested. Uninterested means not concerned at all.
7. Ingenious. Ingenuous means frank.
8. Capital. Capitol refers to a building.
9. Already, meaning before. All ready means in readiness.
10. All right. There is no such word as alright.

If you were perfect, take a bow. If you made even one error be glad you were the one who discovered it and make sure the word never tricks you again!

Annual City Playlot Picnic Today To Feature Variety Of Activities

The program of activities for the annual intra-city playground picnic today at Constitution Park has been announced by C. Eugene Mason, recreation director.

The activities have been separated into two age-group categories, Mason said, explaining that the overall program will be under direction of Mrs. Eva Hogan, assistant director.

Group 1, for those from six through nine years of age, will open activities with a candy scramble. Other events will include a 50-yard hopping race, skipping contest, side-slide event, heel and toe race, bubble gum contest, peanut roll, balloon race, spoon and marble race, swing around event and baton race.

Mrs. Hogan said awards will be presented to the boy and girl winners in each event.

A candy scramble will also open the program for Group 2 for boys and girls in the 10 to 12-year age group. Other events scheduled are a 50-yard dash, newspaper baton race, peanut roll, side slide, crab race, sack race, balloon race, heel and toe race, relay and bubble gum contest.

Winners in these events will also receive individual awards, Mrs. Hogan said.

General swimming will be held from 1 to 2 p. m. after which an organized swimming program will be conducted. Prizes will be awarded the winners.

For the non-swimmers, events will include a breath-holding contest, "O'Grady in the Water" event — along follow-the-leader lines, and sunken treasure — diving for pennies.

The beginner swimmers will participate in a balloon pushing contest, 25-yard dash and relay race, while the program for the intermediate swimmers will feature a 25-yard dash, 50-yard dash and balloon race.

Leaders for non-swimmers will be Mildred White and Jane Burgess; Maryann Hoelzer and Ann Lee, beginners, and John Mills and John Turley, intermediates.

Mrs. Hogan said the children are to report to the ballfield parking area at 10 a.m. today, with the picnic scheduled to end at 3 p.m.

The opening event will be an all-star pigtail softball game at 10 a. m. with the picnic games scheduled to begin at 11 a. m. A treasure hunt will be staged at 11:30 a. m., with Jane Burgess, Jeannine meck, Maryann Hoelzer and Vera Twigg in charge.

Woman Pays Old Bill To Local Hospital

John A. Moberly, hospital superintendent, said he received a check for $300 yesterday to cover a bill recorded in 1930.

The woman informed Moberly that her mother was a patient in Memorial from September 30, 1930, to January 21, 1931. She said that during that depression period her father lost everything he owned, and they were unable to pay the bill.

Moberly said a check of records at the hospital revealed the woman sustained several fractures in a fall from a ladder September 30, 1930.

The Syracuse woman said that her mother died a few years ago, and that she is happy she is finally able to pay off her debts.

She said: "Both mother and I were always grateful for the wonderful treatment and kindness received at Memorial Hospital."

The men will board their special troop train at 11:15 p. m. Friday, the battalion commander stated, explaining that the train will consist of 14 Pullman cars, with 26 men assigned to a car. Two railroad kitchen cars will be handled by the battalion cooks so that the troops can be served hot, appetizing meals.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Use Of The Wrong Word Can Make You Look Ridiculous

It is good to check yourself frequently on the words that are most frequently confused, the most common pitfalls of our language.

A few of the word-traps that are similar in sound, spelling or usage, but different in meaning, are given below. Underline the correct word and check your answers below to see how safe you are from making such errors.

1. Will this change (affect or effect) your plans?
2. She was very (eager or anxious) to wear her new clothes.
3. He would not give (advise or advice) to the young travelers.
4. There were only two persons there with (mutual or common) interests.
5. He was (all together or altogether) impossible.
6. The mother was always the (disinterested or uninterested) judge in the children's squabbles.
7. Only an (ingenious or ingenuous) child could have accomplished such a feat.
8. Springfield is the state (capital or capitol).
9. They had (already or all ready) procured a clubroom.
10. He was (alright or all right) when I last saw him.

Answers:

1. Affect, which means to influence. Effect means to produce, when used as a verb, and result, when used as a noun.
2. Eager is preferred. Anxious generally implies impending ill.
3. Advice. Advise is a verb.
4. Common, which means shared by two or more individuals. Mutual generally implies reciprocation and is frowned on by careful writers when used interchangeably with common.
5. Altogether, which as an adverb means wholly or thoroughly.
6. Disinterested. Uninterested means not concerned at all.
7. Ingenious. Ingenuous means frank.
8. Capital. Capitol refers to a building.
9. Already, meaning before. All ready means in readiness.
10. All right. There is no such word as alright.

If you were perfect, take a bow. If you made even one error be glad you were the one who discovered it and make sure the word never tricks you again!

Woman Pays Old Bill To Local Hospital

John A. Moberly, hospital superintendent, said he received a check for $300 yesterday to cover a bill recorded in 1930.

The woman informed Moberly that her mother was a patient in Memorial from September 30, 1930, to January 21, 1931. She said that during that depression period her father lost everything he owned, and they were unable to pay the bill.

Moberly said a check of records at the hospital revealed the woman sustained several fractures in a fall from a ladder September 30, 1930.

The Syracuse woman said that her mother died a few years ago, and that she is happy she is finally able to pay off her debts.

She said: "Both mother and I were always grateful for the wonderful treatment and kindness received at Memorial Hospital."

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Peter Lawford has closed the deal to produce "The Life of Johnny Longden," the winningest jockey of the turf. And with Pete hoping to "parlay" this story onto Mickey Rooney as the star playing Longden—well that's a natural to "win."

There are as many heart tugs as there are thrills in Longden's story. In addition, Johnny himself has color motion pictures of his great turf wins including his capturing the triple crown (the Kentucky Derby, Belmont Stakes and Preakness) on Count Fleet in 1943.

Longden looks so young and rides so faultlessly you'd never suspect he's a grandfather. And a fine little gentleman, to boot—if you'll pardon the pun. Pete won't be in the picture but he plans to get it out of the starting gate early next year after he co-stars with Frank Sinatra in "Oceans 11."

One of the hottest actresses on the 20th lot is May Britt, who is being groomed for bigger and better roles. She's just been put into "Seven Thieves," the Sydney Boehm-Henry Hathaway picture which will be filmed in Cannes, Monte Carlo and Paris. It's based on Max Catto's novel, "Lions at the Kill."

I love Syd Boehm's description of May—"she's a virtuous stripper," he said, when she was in "Blue Angel." They seem to think on the 20th lot that May will follow in the footsteps of Garbo and Ingrid Bergman as an actress.

Out MGM way Benny Thau has taken a personal interest in handsome 24-year-old John Considine Jr., and has put him under contract. In verifying the story Benny said that John needs some experience, of course, and he will put him in the studio's dramatic school.

John, a nice boy, is very photogenic, and he certainly has a theatrical background. His grandfather, John Considine, owned a chain of theatres, and his father was for many years a prominent producer. Carmen Pantages Considine, John's beautiful mother, was reared in a theatrical atmosphere, her father, Alexander Pantages, having been the builder of the famed Pantages and other theatres.

Betsy Drake, who is the shyest person in the world, was bombarded with questions by reporters after the London Mail printed a story that Ray Austin, the chauffeur she and Cary Grant had a long time ago, would be Cary's witness in their divorce.

Betsy immediately telephoned Cary, who is in New York and he issued a statement for both of them. Betsy, who has been told not to talk about any settlement whatsoever, by her attorney, says there have been no plans for divorce either on her side or Carys.'

It's estimated by some of our financial geniuses that Cary is worth close to $4,000,000. He made a fortune with "To Catch a Thief," "Indiscreet," and "Operation Petticoat" in which he owns large percentages. He has several production companies in Switzerland.

Sue (Mrs. Alan) Ladd is never happier than when she is up to her neck in movies for Alan and young David, seeing her grandchild, planning weddings, and other family affairs. She told me that her son Laddie gets married Aug. 30 to Patty Beazley in the Hollywood Presbyterian Church with a reception following.

I asked Sue how it happened that she let 11-year-old David go to Holland without her while he's making "Dog of Flanders."

Sue said, "Because I felt my responsibilities were with Alan, who's also working on a very important picture 'All the Young Men.' A girl who has lived with us for several years is with David. The rushes are wonderful and we get such glowing letters from David's director."

Surplus Food Users To Get Dried Eggs

Residents of Allegany County who receive food under the donable food program will be given dried eggs instead of butter when the food is distributed next month, according to Grant A. Weibel, chairman of the program.

Mr. Weibel said he is trying to secure printed information on proper cooking with dried eggs since certain precautions should be used when cooking with this type of egg.

He said until each person receives a copy of the instructions on the use of dried eggs these rules should be followed:

Dishes made from dried eggs should be well-cooked in the oven in order to achieve uniform temperature. Cooking on top of the stove or with bouble boilers is not recommended.

Oven cooking is recommended for dishes made with dried eggs to help insure the safety of the product. This recommended procedure in cooking dried eggs is similar to that for cooking pork well-done and for boiling milk or water which might otherwise be unsafe.

A risk of bacterial contamination in dried eggs is one reason also for the recommendation to reconstitute only the amount needed at one time, and to use it within an hour.

Once the container of dried eggs is opened the remaining contents should be placed in a clean, dry jar that has a tight-fitting cover. The jar should be stored in the refrigerator or other cool place below 55 degrees.

Dried eggs should be used only in thoroughly cooked dishes like casseroles, breads, and baked desserts. They should not be used in egg-milk drinks, uncooked salad dressings, or egg dishes cooked on top of the stove.

The dried eggs are reconstituted by mixing sifted dried eggs with an equal amount of water. One egg equals two and one-half level tablespoons of sifted dried eggs with two and one-half tablespoons of water. The reconstituted eggs can be used just like fresh eggs in recipes for well-cooked dishes.

Mr. Weibel said he also hopes to get a list of recipes using the dried eggs so they may be distributed with the foodstuffs next month.

Over 8,000 Arthritics Register

More than 8,000 persons in Maryland suffering from arthritis have already registered at their neighborhood drug stores in response to the registration program being conducted this month by the Maryland Chapter of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation.

The program is being conducted to register all arthritics in the state in order that they may be supplied at no cost with medically approved information and directed to treatment facilities available to them.

According to the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, too many arthritics are needlessly crippled because they lack understanding and proper treatment. Medical science, the chapter states, can now prevent serious crippling in three out of four persons if symptoms are recognized early and treatment is begun promptly.

Registration will continue the rest of the month and cards may be obtained at any drug store. The cards merely request names and addresses and information as to whether the person is under the care of a doctor. Information received on the cards will remain confidential, the chapter stated.

Hearings To Consider Depreciation Setup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate subcommittee on taxation will open hearings Friday on legislation which would give small defense contractors and others a better break on depreciation allowances for equipment, Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.) said Wednesday.

The Senator said such contractors had complained of an inability to replace outdated equipment because of what they term an "unrealistic depreciation rate" in the present tax schedule.

Soil Supervisors Will Meet Friday

A budget for the fiscal year which started July 1 will be adopted when the Board of Supervisors of the Allegany Soil Conservation District meet at 1:30 p.m. Friday in the office of County Agent Joseph M. Steger in the Court House.

Plans for attendance at the annual summer meeting of the State Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors next week at Ocean City also will be discussed.

Apple Growers Form 4-State Sales Agency

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP)— Appalachian apple growers have formed a four-state cooperative sales agency to deal with fruit processors.

"The Eastern Fruit Marketers Cooperative" has been incorporated in Virginia with a membership of some 490 apple growers from Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

The movement for the cooperative started last season when growers said prices offered by processors were too low.

The new corporation is the outgrowth of similar agencies set up within each of the four states.

J. Kenneth Robinson of Winchester, Va., who spearheaded the preparations, is president of the cooperative.

Robinson said 5,600,000 bushels of processing apples are signed up with the organization. He estimated this as about half the belt's "free and available tonnage," not grown on orchards owned by processors or otherwise committed.

Members are free to deliver to processors independently until Aug. 1. Growers will be allowed to deal with the processors of their choice after the price has been established.

Other officers of the corporation are Fred C. Matson of Martinsburg, first vice president; William M. Lott of Gardners, Pa., second vice president, and Fred L. Glaize of Winchester, Va., secretary-treasurer.

9 Guardsmen Are Promoted

Nine enlisted men of Company C, First Medium Tank Battalion, 115th Armor, 29th Division, Maryland National Guard have been promoted on order by the unit commander, Capt. Eugene M. Light.

Promoted to the rank of specialist fourth class were Francis J. Horwath, William H. Howard, Russell A. Kifer and James W. Witt Jr. Advanced to private first class were George A. Capel Jr., Ronald F. Deter, Glenn L. Lambert, Dewey R. McDonald and Joseph R. Pope Jr.

Capt. Light said the advancements were based on length of service, time in grade of rank and regulations covering promotions of National Guard personnel. The unit commander said the youths were commended for the diligent participation and efforts displayed in their military duties in the unit.

The latest enlistment in the company is Pvt. Joseph W. Grahame Jr., 1211 Oldtown Road. Pvt. Grahame will leave next month for six months of active duty. He is a former member of Company D in Frostburg, and has been assigned as tank maintenance crewman.

Equity Suits Filed

Four equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Helen Y. Miller vs. Harvey J. Miller, Mary A. Walters vs. Howard W. Walters, Edith Weight vs. James K. Weight and George K. Stuby vs. Anna B. Stuby.

Donovan was president of Kentucky when Stahr was dean of the law school. He had a law office with Rinear in the years prior to World War II. And he was a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford with Smith.

Kiwanis To Hear Newfoundland Talk

Captain Robert A. Clarke, a member of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club, will discuss the "Fisheries of Newfoundland" at the Kiwanis meeting at 12:15 p. m. today at Central YMCA.

Captain Clarke was born in Newfoundland and spent his early days at sea in sailing vessels. He was in the British Navy for five-and-one-half years during World War I and served during World War II transporting troops and material. Between wars he served as captain of passenger ships for the Canadian National Steamship lines. In 1940 he was promoted to assistant general manager of that company and in 1945 became general manager. He retired in 1955 and has lived here since then.

A new vice president and director will be elected by the club, filling vacancies caused by the resignation of Dr. Richard E. Bolyard, president, who is moving August 1 to Grafton, W. Va., his home town. J. Daniel Eisenberger, who had been vice president, automatically moved into the presidency.

Polaris Work

facility for members of the press—the first ever held at ABL.

Newsmen were shown the new Polaris buildings, the test bays, and the largest known centrifuge for simulated flight-testing of rockets. They were shown no weapons or rocket components, however.

At the dedication ceremonies, held on a speakers' platform in front of the machine shop, both Admiral Raborn and Mr. Forster paid high tribute to the calibre of work being done at ABL.

Mr. Forster called the occasion "a great tribute to Hercules." He added:

"We have been entrusted with even greater responsibility, and charged by the Navy to achieve much more than we have in the past, and I would like to think that this is in recognition of our accomplishments in the past."

Reviewing ABL's work, Mr. Forster pointed out:

Faith Paid Off

"In 1946, when we began our long and close association with the Navy here at ABL, there didn't seem to be very much confidence in solid propellants for anything more than small and routine tasks.

"For the first decade of the 'missile era' liquid propellants were selected for use in all the glamor missiles, while solid propellants were indeed a Cinderella relegated to the kitchen in the family of missiles and rockets.

"It is greatly to the Navy's credit that with faith and confidence in solid propellants they continued investing funds for you people here at ABL to continually improve and expand the capabilities of Hercules double-base cast propellants.

"Your achievements and the Navy's faith are fully recognized in this new facility, for indeed when the time came to devise an extremely high-performance rocket engine for Polaris, which constitutes such a major element in our nation's defense capabilities, you at ABL were ready, willing, and able to undertake this most difficult assignment."

A Valuable Deterrent

Admiral Raborn said Polaris will be a valuable deterrent to major aggression.

"It is no secret," he said, "that in the next 15 to 20 years, unless we have a good major war deterrent we could be drawn into a conflict too terrible to talk about. Or we could be drawn into a Munich-type situation in which we would retreat, retreat, and still retreat, until we would be isolated from the rest of the world because we had allowed the Soviet Union to blackmail us into this position."

He said the Air Force's Strategic Air Command is a good deterrent, but that the advent of the intercontinental ballistic missile, which could be fired from Russia and land on Cumberland half an hour later, means that supplemental weapons are needed if America is to have efficient deterrents.

He said Polaris was conceived as one of these supplemental weapons. Despite the importance now attached to the missile, he said it was no easy matter to get the program under way.

He recalled his own efforts, and those of Captain Levering Smith, who accompanied him to the dedication yesterday, to raise money for the project over the objections of the Bureau of the Budget. Captain Smith is director of the technical division of the special projects office of the Bureau of Ordnance.

Duard H. Little, ABL plant manager, was master of ceremonies for the dedication. He said that Senator J. Glenn Beall and West Virginia's Rep. Harley O. Staggers had helped ABL considerably over the years. Neither was able to attend yesterday's ceremony.

Moorefield Man Heads W. Va. Education Board

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The State Board of Education interviewed seven applicants Wednesday for the presidency of Concord College, including President William B. Axtell of West Virginia Tech.

New board President James E. Ansel said there was a "possibility" the successor to Virgil Stewart at the Athens institution would be named Thursday.

Ansel, Moorefield attorney, moved up from the vice presidency to succeed Raymond Brewster, Huntington newspaper editor. Lacy I. Rice, Martinsburg businessman, was named vice president and H. K. Baer, Charleston, retained as secretary.

The board will close its two-day meeting Thursday. It will consider, among other things, a request by the Conservation Commission for a plot of land at the Schools for the Deaf & Blind at Romney.

In addition to Axtell, other applicants for the Concord post were Joseph F. Marsh Jr., 34, assistant professor of economics at Dartmouth; D. Banks Wilburn, 47, dean of the teachers college at Marshall; Irvin S. Maddy, 52, principal of Hinton High School now on leave of absence to obtain a doctorate at West Virginia University; Fletcher W. Mann, 60, Beckley attorney and an alumnus of Concord; George E. Moore, 43, former professor of history at Fairmont State College, and Earl R. Boggs, 54, dean of Longwood College, Farmville, Va.

Axtell, 51, and president of Tech for the past six years, told the board he desired the change because he "preferred" a small town such as Athens.

Marsh received the longest audience with the seven of the nine-member board present Wednesday. He spent some 45 minutes describing that he felt the $10,500 Concord post would be a personal challenge.

He is the son of J. Franklin Marsh Sr., president of Concord from 1928 through 1945. He was born in Charleston and attended Athens schools before matriculating at Concord, West Virginia University, Dartmouth, Harvard and Oxford.

Wilburn told the board he would welcome the opportunity to assume the administrative duties at Concord. He said he felt his 11 years at Marshall served as "excellent" background for such an undertaking.

Stewart recently resigned as Concord president after 14 years in that office. He has joined the Kanawha County public school system in an administrative capacity.

In other action Wednesday, the board approved recommendations by a committee of state college registrars on regulations defining resident and non-resident students for tuition purposes.

These rules will be turned over to the attorney general's office for approval before they are placed into effect next September.

Tuition for in-state residents is $50 per semester while non-resident students in the nine colleges under the board's supervision is $350 a semester.

The board approved Wednesday 10 scholarships for the American Legion oratorical regional oratorical contest winners and runners up.

Surplus Food Users To Get Dried Eggs

Residents of Allegany County who receive food under the donable food program will be given dried eggs instead of butter when the food is distributed next month, according to Grant A. Weibel, chairman of the program.

Mr. Weibel said he is trying to secure printed information on proper cooking with dried eggs since certain precautions should be used when cooking with this type of egg.

He said until each person receives a copy of the instructions on the use of dried eggs these rules should be followed:

Dishes made from dried eggs should be well-cooked in the oven in order to achieve uniform temperature. Cooking on top of the stove or with bouble boilers is not recommended.

Oven cooking is recommended for dishes made with dried eggs to help insure the safety of the product. This recommended procedure in cooking dried eggs is similar to that for cooking pork well-done and for boiling milk or water which might otherwise be unsafe.

A risk of bacterial contamination in dried eggs is one reason also for the recommendation to reconstitute only the amount needed at one time, and to use it within an hour.

Once the container of dried eggs is opened the remaining contents should be placed in a clean, dry jar that has a tight-fitting cover. The jar should be stored in the refrigerator or other cool place below 55 degrees.

Dried eggs should be used only in thoroughly cooked dishes like casseroles, breads, and baked desserts. They should not be used in egg-milk drinks, uncooked salad dressings, or egg dishes cooked on top of the stove.

The dried eggs are reconstituted by mixing sifted dried eggs with an equal amount of water. One egg equals two and one-half level tablespoons of sifted dried eggs with two and one-half tablespoons of water. The reconstituted eggs can be used just like fresh eggs in recipes for well-cooked dishes.

Mr. Weibel said he also hopes to get a list of recipes using the dried eggs so they may be distributed with the foodstuffs next month.

Over 8,000 Arthritics Register

More than 8,000 persons in Maryland suffering from arthritis have already registered at their neighborhood drug stores in response to the registration program being conducted this month by the Maryland Chapter of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation.

The program is being conducted to register all arthritics in the state in order that they may be supplied at no cost with medically approved information and directed to treatment facilities available to them.

According to the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, too many arthritics are needlessly crippled because they lack understanding and proper treatment. Medical science, the chapter states, can now prevent serious crippling in three out of four persons if symptoms are recognized early and treatment is begun promptly.

Registration will continue the rest of the month and cards may be obtained at any drug store. The cards merely request names and addresses and information as to whether the person is under the care of a doctor. Information received on the cards will remain confidential, the chapter stated.

Hearings To Consider Depreciation Setup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate subcommittee on taxation will open hearings Friday on legislation which would give small defense contractors and others a better break on depreciation allowances for equipment, Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.) said Wednesday.

The Senator said such contractors had complained of an inability to replace outdated equipment because of what they term an "unrealistic depreciation rate" in the present tax schedule.

Soil Supervisors Will Meet Friday

A budget for the fiscal year which started July 1 will be adopted when the Board of Supervisors of the Allegany Soil Conservation District meet at 1:30 p.m. Friday in the office of County Agent Joseph M. Steger in the Court House.

Plans for attendance at the annual summer meeting of the State Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors next week at Ocean City also will be discussed.

Apple Growers Form 4-State Sales Agency

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—Appalachian apple growers have formed a four-state cooperative sales agency to deal with fruit processors.

"The Eastern Fruit Marketers Cooperative" has been incorporated in Virginia with a membership of some 490 apple growers from Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

The movement for the cooperative started last season when growers said prices offered by processors were too low.

The new corporation is the outgrowth of similar agencies set up within each of the four states.

J. Kenneth Robinson of Winchester, Va., who spearheaded the preparations, is president of the cooperative.

Robinson said 5,600,000 bushels of processing apples are signed up with the organization. He estimated this as about half the belt's "free and available tonnage," not grown on orchards owned by processors or otherwise committed.

Members are free to deliver to processors independently until Aug. 1. Growers will be allowed to deal with the processors of their choice after the price has been established.

Other officers of the corporation are Fred C. Matson of Martinsburg, first vice president; William M. Lott of Gardners, Pa., second vice president, and Fred L. Glaize of Winchester, Va., secretary-treasurer.

9 Guardsmen Are Promoted

Nine enlisted men of Company C, First Medium Tank Battalion, 115th Armor, 29th Division, Maryland National Guard have been promoted on order by the unit commander, Capt. Eugene M. Light.

Promoted to the rank of specialist fourth class were Francis J. Horwath, William H. Howard, Russell A. Kifer and James W. Witt Jr. Advanced to private first class were George A. Capel Jr., Ronald F. Deter, Glenn L. Lambert, Dewey R. McDonald and Joseph R. Pope Jr.

Capt. Light said the advancements were based on length of service, time in grade of rank and regulations covering promotions of National Guard personnel. The unit commander said the youths were commended for the diligent participation and efforts displayed in their military duties in the unit.

The latest enlistment in the company is Pvt. Joseph W. Grahame Jr., 1211 Oldtown Road. Pvt. Grahame will leave next month for six months of active duty. He is a former member of Company D in Frostburg, and has been assigned as tank maintenance crewman.

facility for members of the press—the first ever held at ABL.

Newsmen were shown the new Polaris buildings, the test bays, and the largest known centrifuge for simulated flight-testing of rockets. They were shown no weapons or rocket components, however.

At the dedication ceremonies, held on a speakers' platform in front of the machine shop, both Admiral Raborn and Mr. Forster paid high tribute to the calibre of work being done at ABL.

Mr. Forster called the occasion "a great tribute to Hercules." He added:

"We have been entrusted with even greater responsibility, and charged by the Navy to achieve much more than we have in the past, and I would like to think that this is in recognition of our accomplishments in the past."

Reviewing ABL's work, Mr. Forster pointed out:

Faith Paid Off

"In 1946, when we began our long and close association with the Navy here at ABL, there didn't seem to be very much confidence in solid propellants for anything more than small and routine tasks.

"For the first decade of the 'missile era' liquid propellants were selected for use in all the glamor missiles, while solid propellants were indeed a Cinderella relegated to the kitchen in the family of missiles and rockets.

"It is greatly to the Navy's credit that with faith and confidence in solid propellants they continued investing funds for you people here at ABL to continually improve and expand the capabilities of Hercules double-base cast propellants.

"Your achievements and the Navy's faith are fully recognized in this new facility, for indeed when the time came to devise an extremely high-performance rocket engine for Polaris, which constitutes such a major element in our nation's defense capabilities, you at ABL were ready, willing, and able to undertake this most difficult assignment."

A Valuable Deterrent

Admiral Raborn said Polaris will be a valuable deterrent to major aggression.

"It is no secret," he said, "that in the next 15 to 20 years, unless we have a good major war deterrent we could be drawn into a conflict too terrible to talk about. Or we could be drawn into a Munich-type situation in which we would retreat, retreat, and still retreat, until we would be isolated from the rest of the world because we had allowed the Soviet Union to blackmail us into this position."

He said the Air Force's Strategic Air Command is a good deterrent, but that the advent of the intercontinental ballistic missile, which could be fired from Russia and land on Cumberland half an hour later, means that supplemental weapons are needed if America is to have efficient deterrents.

He said Polaris was conceived as one of these supplemental weapons. Despite the importance now attached to the missile, he said it was no easy matter to get the program under way.

He recalled his own efforts, and those of Captain Levering Smith, who accompanied him to the dedication yesterday, to raise money for the project over the objections of the Bureau of the Budget. Captain Smith is director of the technical division of the special projects office of the Bureau of Ordnance.

Duard H. Little, ABL plant manager, was master of ceremonies for the dedication. He said that Senator J. Glenn Beall and West Virginia's Rep. Harley O. Staggers had helped ABL considerably over the years. Neither was able to attend yesterday's ceremony.

The board approved Wednesday 10 scholarships for the American Legion oratorical regional oratorical contest winners and runners up.

The Refugees: Always With Us

Throughout all ages there have been recorded many pages of testimony to the failure of each succeeding civilization in its attempts to find some means of satisfying human antagonisms which seem to flourish in man's natural desire to build his social structure around a close association of fellow beings.

In each century of recorded life on this planet, a continual stream of refugees has been evident moving from one country to another, from one continent to another, in search of the elusive freedom all humans profess to seek, but for which few are willing to work.

Political discontents have founded more nations than any other force, and are constantly at work revamping and overhauling existent ones. The army of politically dissatisfied is a potent force at all times, because there has never been a period in history when all sections of the world recognized the freedom of the individual.

At times like the present, with more than half the land mass of the earth under domination by dictators, the problem of political refugees becomes acute. Until the Communist masters of East Germany tightened armed patrols and fences of their borders, thousands of refugees daily were fleeing their native homelands from the tyrants who had seized them. They preferred the uncertainties of the future as refugees to the subjugation of freedom.

No fences can adequately hold back the desire of all peoples to live their lives in individual dignity, as witnessed by the continued exodus from all satellites of the Kremlin. There are many more remaining behind who feel as do those leaving, but prefer the sentiments of Jan Masaryk — "maybe a corpse, but never a refugee."

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Loss Of Gold

The New Deal economists did not believe in a gold base for money. They fussed over the question and in a large measure had their way. President Roosevelt had the gold hoard of the country buried at Fort Knox; citizens were not permitted to have gold coins; gold certificates were removed from currency.

For a long time, however, the American dollar was the only stable currency in the world and the American dollar stood firm. Nevertheless, our gold hoard has been reduced by two processes—by export and by earmarking. We prefer to regard earmarked gold as still ours, although our relationship to it is only that of a caretaker who should relinquish it immediately when called upon. Professor Walter E. Spahr, one of America's greatest authorities on money, gives these startling figures:

> "Foreign withdrawals of Treasury gold . . . . began during the week following February 19, 1958. On that date Treasury gold stood at $22,785,000,000. For the week ending December 31, 1958, the Treasury's gold was down to $20,526,000,000, a decline of $2,259,000,000 in forty-five weeks. For the week ending May 13, 1959, the Treasury's stock was $20,251,000,000, down $2,534,000,000 during the sixty-four weeks since February 19, 1958."

Actually, earmarking has increased. According to Spahr, earmarked gold stood at $8,664,300,000 on March 31, 1959—an all-time high. One can go into considerable statistical material to indicate what has been happening to our gold. Suffice it to say along with Professor Spahr that the situation is serious. He bases such a statement on the following data:

". . . The withdrawal of gold in 1958 amounted to 12.3 percent of total foreign short-term dollar claims at the end of that year plus gold withdrawals for the year and involved 9.9 percent of our Treasury gold stock at the end of the year plus gold withdrawals for the year.

"Thus we have 12.3 percent of claims exercised and 9.9 percent of gold stock withdrawn in 1958 as compared with an average of 3.5 percent of claims exercised and 1.3 percent of gold withdrawn during the period 1922-1957."

Whereas, in this country we continue to ignore the importance of the gold standard, European countries are clearly preparing for such a restoration. They are strengthening their gold reserves and are seeking to build their own economic facilities by reinforcing the value of their currency.

The question that needs to be answered is how much gold can we afford to lose without the psychological effects setting in which could destroy the value of our currency. The value of the American dollar, as of any currency, must be premised on confidence and confidence is based on a complex of facts and assumptions, upon statistics but also upon rumors.

It is not sound statesmanship or competent banking to wait until it is imprudent to permit further export or earmarking of gold. Obviously it is too late to wait until an embargo must be placed on gold, as that would destroy confidence in the dollar altogether.

It does not make sense to continue to permit the piling up of foreign claims against our gold, particularly as Americans in the United States are not permitted to have any. But an American in Europe or in Asia can purchase gold or gold certificates and keep them in foreign banks.

> It is significant that most earmarked gold remains in the United States which displays confidence in our stability and in our future. There has been no flight of capital in this sense. There has, however, been a steady export of American capital abroad to evade high taxes, high American labor costs and the exclusion of American goods in the areas where preference is shown to products of area manufacture, as in the Common Market, for instance.

When the United States subscribes to the International Monetary Fund or to the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development or to foreign aid, it usually pays in whole or in part in gold. If goods manufactured in the United States are supplied, the payment is made in dollars.

It would not seem to be provident to permit claims against our gold hoard to pile up at a time when the hoard itself is being reduced. This is a case in which one agency of government is permitting itself the luxury of improvidence while another agency has to count its pennies.

Ike's Farming Partner Is Director Of Firm Getting Defense Contracts

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — When President Eisenhower lit into what he called the "Munitions Lobby" the other day, he probably didn't realize that he was hitting rather close to home.

For one of the most powerful munitions lobbies in Washington is the AVCO Manufacturing Company, of which his golfing-bridge-farming partner, George Allen, is a director. In addition, AVCO is close to Secretary Ezra Taft Benson and employs a battery of key generals and admirals, some of whom are now being investigated by Congressman Herbert's Armed Services Subcommittee.

They include:

Gen. Clarence S. Irvine, former Deputy Chief of Staff of the Air Force in charge of materiel. In this job General Irvine was top dog for all Air Force procurement, production and maintenance in the field. Since the Air Force plans for about ten years ahead, Irvine is in the position to use this expert knowledge while now working for AVCO.

Maj. Gen. Herbert M. Jones, the Adjutant General of the Army who stepped from this key post into AVCO.

Adm. Edward L. Woodyard, U. S. Navy.

One way or the other, through friends or otherwise, the AVCO Corporation was able to roll up a total of $102,000,000 worth of defense orders in 1958. This year, however, business has been looking up.

According to Moody's Industrial Manual, AVCO's backlog of defense orders in December 1958 totaled $99,000,000.

Three months later, however, the backlog of defense orders had zoomed up to $300,000,000. Since the total defense orders for the preceding year—1958—were only $102,000,000, something really gave a lift to AVCO's business.

Ike's Dinner Guest

AVCO is a far-flung company which manufactures everything from farm machinery to aviation engines to electronics to hydraulic loaders and chemical spreaders. It has factories in Coldwater, O., Ft. Dodge, Ia., Williamsport, Pa., Cincinnati, Richmond Ind. Evandale, O., Everett, Mass., and Chicago. Its chairman is Victor Emmanuel, who has been a guest at President Eisenhower's stag parties.

Significantly, in the rush of contracts which has helped swell AVCO's profits, there has been some very sloppy negotiating on the part of the Air Force. As a result, AVCO has been forced to make refunds.

On March 19, 1959, AVCO refunded $1,113,510 to the Air Force as the result of an error in the costs of a $15,000,000 AF contract for B-52 parts. It was explained that the error resulted from the fact that the Air Force accepted more than $1,000,000 of recorded costs which the contractors included in error.

Real fact is that the General Accounting Office caught the error, not AVCO, nor the Air Force. Without prodding from the accounting arm of Congress, the error might never have been discovered.

Another significant fact: AVCO owns a potent line-up of TV and radio stations, including WLW and WLW-TV in Cincinnati, WLW-C in Columbus, WLW-D in Dayton, WLW-A in Atlanta, and WLW-I, which is in dispute in Indianapolis. Network TV being what it is today, it's doubtful that any TV network would carry news programs critical of AVCO in regard either to its defense contracts or its brass hat lobbying. That kind of critical news doesn't get on TV unless officially announced by a Congressional committee or the White House which won't happen in the case of AVCO.

No Competitive Bids

It should be noted that practically all Pentagon contracts let to AVCO and other major contractors are on a cost-plus, negotiated basis. During the war, competitive bids were given up because of the necessity for speed. The war has been over fourteen years, but negotiated contracts are still the easy and customary mode of operation in the Pentagon. This is why ex-military officers can be so helpful, for when you have the No. 1 general once in charge of procurement on your payroll, the contracts officers who once served under him listen.

April 21, 1958—AVCO got $3,000,000 contract to its Lycoming Division for helicopter gas turbine engines, delivery to start January 1, 1959.

June 26—Lycoming got Air Force propjet contract, $6,000,000 for T-53-L-3 engines; plus $10,000,000 order for helicopter version of T-53-L-1.

June 30—Army and AF awarded four contracts to AVCO's Crosley Division, worth $8,500,000 for fire control systems, spares for B-52 bombers, and Navy contract for Navy missile engineering and missile parts for rocket motor.

July 14—Crosley got $5,000,000 in military orders, involving ground radar projects and Marine Corps radar units.

July 11—Air Materiel Command gave Crosley $1,620,000 fire control systems (guns).

July 21—AF announced that a group of five companies were selected for work on Minuteman ICBMs. AVCO was to do the nose cone. Cost not specified.

August 1—Lycoming got orders for more than 500 of its new 500-hp aircraft engines. Cost not announced.

September 30—AF gave $1,088,000 contract for reciprocating aircraft engines, installations, and spare parts H-13H and H-23H aircraft.

March 11, 1959—New contracts announced: $41,749,000 civilian and defense contracts for Crosley and Nashville Divisions. This included $24,458,000 to Crosley for ground radar system; $12,464,000 for Convair civil jet airliners, Nashville Division; $2,152,000 stabilizer and flipper for AF Falcon air-to-air missile; $2,675,000 from Army Signal Corps; communications equipment, engineering changes on AF projects and miscellaneous.

Scandinavia Wins Victory For Free World

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Nikita Khrushchev has failed in his attempt to secure control of the Scandinavian countries for Communist imperialism. He cancelled his carefully planned visit there when he learned that his threats were not succeeding and that he couldn't intimidate Norway, Sweden or Denmark. He tried to get them to agree to close the Baltic Sea to warships of the West and to bar all atomic weapons and missiles. He demanded that Norway and Denmark get out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

A letter to this correspondent a few days ago from a well-informed Swedish writer in Stockholm says:

"Khrushchev's invitation to come here after a hint about it a year ago has split the politicians into two groups in the three countries. As the Social-Democrats, with the help of the Communists, have a one-vote majority in the Swedish Parliament, the invitation was approved. The leader of the People's Party and the 'rightists' have declined the invitation to attend the banquet for the Russian visitors. Protest meetings have been held already and many more groups will be heard from. Dr. Bela Fabian (of Hungary) is here to let the Russians know that 1956 isn't forgotten.

"The pressure has been on to make the Baltic a rocket and nuclear-free zone. The East Germans have their propaganda in full swing with the object of having all nations facing the Baltic make it a 'free sea of peace.' Of course, the only nation which is in possession of nuclear weapons around the Baltic is Russia, and it is not likely that the Soviet Union intends to discard their installation around the Baltic, or anywhere else for that matter. In the meantime, they don't want anyone else to have any.

"What they want is to close the Baltic to every nation except those with a shore line. The result of such a move would be to make the Baltic Sea under the sole control of Russia,

"They started the 12-mile limit without asking anyone. It was not a matter of fishing rights, as in the case of Iceland. It is because they don't want anyone to see their installations. That is why they shot down an American and also a Swedish plane over international waters. When the Swedes asked the Russians to help them search for their missing flyers, they chased the Swedes away.

"Another object of the visit to Scandinavian countries is to put the pressure on Norway and Denmark to get out of NATO. That would be the end of their freedom and would later put the pressure on neutral Sweden."

The Moscow government's note "postponing" the Khrushchev visit to sometime later, "perhaps in a year," complains that, "according to reports in the Swedish press," there have been preparations for "anti-Soviet demonstrations and meetings." The note points to "the unfriendly attitude taken by the Scandinavian press" and by some Parliamentary leaders toward the proposed Khrushchev tour, and charges that large-circulation newspapers had been "permitted to make insulting attacks on the Soviet Union and the Soviet premier personally."

To all this, the premiers of Sweden and Denmark now have replied by reminding the Soviet leader that the press is free in their countries to criticize him or anyone else. The Swedish premier said the Swedish people regard freedom of press and opinion as "unforfeitable."

An editorial recently in "Dagens Nyheter," one of the leading newspapers in Stockholm, pointed specificially to Khrushchev's speech in Riga, Latvia, last month, in which he demanded that the Baltic be closed to Western war vessels, that atomic weapons be barred from Scandinavian countries and that Norway and Denmark get out of NATO. The editorial said:

"We hope that the Scandinavian governments' duty as hosts will not prevent them from making it clear to Khrushchev that any interference in Scandinavian politics is unacceptable, and that they are unconcerned about any camouflaged threats.

"Khrushchev's speech was delivered in Latvia, one of the Baltic states which Russia put under its rule during World War II. It brings to mind that the Russian leaders, before both wars, time after time turned to the Baltic countries with precisely the same reasoning that now is being brought to bear against Scandinavia. Russia demanded involuntary neutrality, interpreted any re-armament as a threat of aggression, and explained, exactly as Khrushchev is doing now, that 'It is an absurdity to believe that the Soviet Union has any aggressive plans against these lands.' These were the very methods used in preparation for occupations and suppressions. . . .

"So far as Sweden is concerned, Khrushchev's speech should be a new reminder of our need for tactical atomic weapons. True, there are groups in our land who believe the opposite, who even believe that a defenseless Sweden would be a security against Russian aggression. If these beliefs become dominant, the risk will become increasingly greater that one day we will meet the same fate as the oppressed and downtrodden Baltic peoples."

The conquest of Scandinavia is a military objective of Nikita Khrushchev and, as usual he hopes to accomplish his purpose by "peaceful infiltration." But he has struck a snag in the freedom-loving people of Norway, Sweden and Denmark who have become so aroused that the Soviet premier thought it best to call off his trip. This is a victory for the free world.

ABOUT THOSE RATTLESNAKES

Dear Sir:

In the July 14 issue of your newspaper appeared an article attributed to William H. Johnson, district forester, in which it was reported that rattlesnakes were "unusually numerous" in Garrett County this summer.

The impression was given that this county, and particularly the Swallow Falls area, abounded with the reptiles and that caution was needed when walking through woods to avoid them.

I have spent my life in Garrett County—in its woods and hills and glades, and so have my friends. It is difficult for me to recollect any menace from snakes, particularly in recent years, and I feel your article does a disservice to a beautiful and popular recreation area.

In checking with the men who should know, I am informed that there are some rattlesnakes in the county, but to my knowledge none in any area frequented by the public. In fact, one friend who spends considerable time actually looking for them reports them most difficult to find, even in certain remote areas where they are known to exist.

Actually, the rattlesnake is not the menace it is generally assumed to be. Unless cornered, attacked or provoked, it will run a hundred times quicker than it will strike.

Certainly, it would be foolish to contend that there are not snakes in Garrett County any more than it would be to say there are no snakes in Allegany County or elsewhere. But definitely the snake population is small, under control, and poses no menace to those who would take advantage of the area's recreational opportunities.

Mental Depression May Cause Poor Health

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many persons are mildly depressed because of repeated disappointments, frustrations, defeats, and misfortunes. It affects appetite, sleep, and energy. Unless the cause is recognized, the majority spend their time and money trying to regain their health and feeling of well-being.

A change in attitude does more than all the vitamins, tonic, health resorts, and examinations combined. The cause may be uncovered by going back to the first time depression was noted.

The clue may appear in the form of an unhappy incident, failure to reach a goal, a business reversal, or loss of property or a love one.

Sometimes the depression begins in a feeling of guilt. Improvement occurs when the cause is recognized and the individual starts with a clean slate.

A more severe depression may produce a variety of emotional and physical complaints. As Henry Maudsley wrote, "The sorrow that has no vent in tears may make other organs weep."

This may account for the chest pain or headaches that many depressed persons develop. These ailments are considered conversion symptoms. The mind has played a trick on the individual by converting his unpleasant depression into a more socially acceptable illness. Chest pain is an expression of a specific, emotional heartache.

In other instances, constipation or indigestion develops, in addition to loss of appetite. Lassitude becomes generalized and may affect sexual vigor, concentration, and emotional stability. The mental depression may be so disguised by these physical manifestations, it is difficult to recognize unless accompanied by feelings of dejection and confusion.

It is just as well these things happen to some persons because a severe depression that fails to convert into something else is difficult to live with. When this occurs, suicide is contemplated, especially when the depression is associated with deep feelings of guilt, anxiety, and confusion. Psychiatric care is needed.

WHISTLING CHEST

E. P. writes: What can I do about a whistle in my chest?

REPLY

Cough it up. Whistling usually stems from narrowing of an area in the windpipe, due to a plug of mucus. If the symptom persists. X-rays are needed to determine whether obstruction is traceable to another cause such as a growth.

ENVIRONMENT

R. D. writes: Is it true that nerotics come from homes where there was friction in childhood?

REPLY

RUBBER AND DAMPNESS

J. D. writes: Will wearing a rubber girdle cause damp kidneys?

REPLY

No, not even if you perspire.

TOMORROW: Natural food chemicals.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

When they brought in a gusher on his land, an elderly Indian in Oklahoma became a millionaire overnight, and immediately bought the most expensive automobile for sale in Tulsa. A few days later he limped back into the dealer's showroom, his face and hands covered with bruises and bandages. He wanted to buy another of those cars, he explained. "What happened to the other one?" gasped the dealer.

"Me drive him fine," explained the Indian. "Buy gallon white mule likker. Take coupla drinks. Step on gas. Trees and fences go by heap fast. Pretty soon see big bridge coming down road. Turn out to let big bridge pass. Splash! Car gone! I wan' another."

One of America's great real estate salesmen clinched the sale of a 10-acre estate in Springfield with this ingenious pitch: "Just think, Mr. Eustis, there are exactly ten different Springfields in the United States. They are stretched from Massachusetts to Oregon; from Minnesota to Florida. Relatives seeking to graft weekends will never even be able to find you!"

The Puzzling Market

By Leslie Gould

Where is the stock market headed?

Here is the answer right from the horse's mouth — so to speak.

"Prices have gone up, they have gone down in the last 25 years.

"In the presence of a free market, there is every indication that they will go up and down in the years to come.

"However, for reasons I have given, I am inclined to doubt that, in the absence of international catastrophe, we will see a repetition of the market of the early Thirties."

Then, this cautionary statement:

"Of course, I could be wrong."

Who said that?

Why Edward N. Gadsby, the chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, which bosses the securities markets.

The SEC not only bosses the markets, but it even has a man whose sole job is to sit glued to the stock ticker, observing every trade. This, to quote Gadsby, is to determine whether the "timing and nature of some price movements" suggest an informal inquiry to "determine why and what influences are at work to produce such an action."

While Gadsby was speaking, there were unusual and unexplained movements in quite a few stocks, as there has been for some months now in others traded on the Stock Exchange and on the American Stock Exchange.

Motor Products on the Stock Exchange had an $8 swing, closing off on that day $3.25. It touched $71 before falling back to $63. The closing was $65.75. The low this year is $30.75. It advanced $2 the next day.

J. R. Thompson on the same day ran up $5.25 to a new high.

There has yet to be an explanation for the big swing in one day in Motor Products.

The day after the J. R. Thompson run up, the president announced directors on July 21 would consider a proposal to split the stock two for one and increase the cash dividend from 25 cents a share to 30 cents. The stock went up another $3 on the announcement.

The president said the announcement was made to keep shareowners "informed," but those who sold out the day before were "uninformed" while some of those who bought the day before evidently had inside information as to the stock split proposal.

This was just a case of someone or ones having "inside" information.

There are other movements in the market — too many in fact — that have no such basis. These are the jiggles that are going on every day on both of the major exchanges, and increasingly so.

Yet, Gadsby says:

Also he says,

"The touter has not the freedom he once had to practice his art."

He adds to this:

"When the insider gains some secret information and seeks to take personal advantage of it by purchase or sale of his corporation's securities, he must disclose the transaction."

That is the law, but there is a legal delay of as long as 40 days on insider trading and the SEC does nothing when the "forgetful" insider lets months go by. A case in point on the insider reports were the delays by some of the old crowd in Penn-Texas in the days of Leopold D. Silberstein.

Gadsby also has this to say:

"I have already publicly expressed myself as to the sanity of amateurs who take speculative risks in the market with money they cannot afford to lose. They might just as well put up their money at Laurel (the race track in Maryland near Washington) or Las Vegas."

Well, on the same day Gadsby was speaking, an "expert" on race tracks and the chances for profit there had some interesting comment. He is Toney Betts of the Daily Mirror's sporting staff. Betts was replying to a track official who jocularly told him because of some of his criticism of the tracks: "I'll see your boss and tell him to lay you off."

Betts replied:

"I told him he would be doing me a favor if he had me fired. Through the years I have stacked up severance pay. With the severance pay I would play the stock market.

"It's much easier for a gambling man to beat the stock market (where there is real inside information) than it is for him to beat the horses at that bust-out joint on Baisley Boulevard known as Jamaica."

The Refugees: Always With Us

Throughout all ages there have been recorded many pages of testimony to the failure of each succeeding civilization in its attempts to find some means of satisfying human antagonisms which seem to flourish in man's natural desire to build his social structure around a close association of fellow beings.

In each century of recorded life on this planet, a continual stream of refugees has been evident moving from one country to another, from one continent to another, in search of the elusive freedom all humans profess to seek, but for which few are willing to work.

Political discontents have founded more nations than any other force, and are constantly at work revamping and overhauling existent ones. The army of politically dissatisfied is a potent force at all times, because there has never been a period in history when all sections of the world recognized the freedom of the individual.

At times like the present, with more than half the land mass of the earth under domination by dictators, the problem of political refugees becomes acute. Until the Communist masters of East Germany tightened armed patrols and fences of their borders, thousands of refugees daily were fleeing their native homelands from the tyrants who had seized them. They preferred the uncertainties of the future as refugees to the subjugation of freedom.

No fences can adequately hold back the desire of all peoples to live their lives in individual dignity, as witnessed by the continued exodus from all satellites of the Kremlin. There are many more remaining behind who feel as do those leaving, but prefer the sentiments of Jan Masaryk — "maybe a corpse, but never a refugee."

These Days

The Loss Of Gold

The New Deal economists did not believe in a gold base for money. They fussed over the question and in a large measure had their way. President Roosevelt had the gold hoard of the country buried at Fort Knox; citizens were not permitted to have gold coins; gold certificates were removed from currency.

For a long time, however, the American dollar was the only stable currency in the world and the American dollar stood firm. Nevertheless, our gold hoard has been reduced by two processes—by export and by earmarking. We prefer to regard earmarked gold as still ours, although our relationship to it is only that of a caretaker who should relinquish it immediately when called upon. Professor Walter E. Spahr, one of America's greatest authorities on money, gives these startling figures:

"Foreign withdrawals of Treasury gold . . . . began during the week following February 19, 1958. On that date Treasury gold stood at $22,785,000,000. For the week ending December 31, 1958, the Treasury's gold was down to $20,526,000,000, a decline of $2,259,000,000 in forty-five weeks. For the week ending May 13, 1959, the Treasury's stock was $20,251,000,000, down $2,534,000,000 during the sixty-four weeks since February 19, 1958."

Actually, earmarking has increased. According to Spahr, earmarked gold stood at $8,664,300,000 on March 31, 1959—an all-time high. One can go into considerable statistical material to indicate what has been happening to our gold. Suffice it to say along with Professor Spahr that the situation is serious. He bases such a statement on the following data:

". . . The withdrawal of gold in 1958 amounted to 12.3 percent of total foreign short-term dollar claims at the end of that year plus gold withdrawals for the year and involved 9.9 percent of our Treasury gold stock at the end of the year plus gold withdrawals for the year.

"Thus we have 12.3 percent of claims exercised and 9.9 percent of gold stock withdrawn in 1958 as compared with an average of 3.5 percent of claims exercised and 1.3 percent of gold withdrawn during the period 1922-1957."

Whereas, in this country we continue to ignore the importance of the gold standard, European countries are clearly preparing for such a restoration. They are strengthening their gold reserves and are seeking to build their own economic facilities by reinforcing the value of their currency.

The question that needs to be answered is how much gold can we afford to lose without the psychological effects setting in which could destroy the value of our currency. The value of the American dollar, as of any currency, must be premised on confidence and confidence is based on a complex of facts and assumptions, upon statistics but also upon rumors.

It is not sound statesmanship or competent banking to wait until it is imprudent to permit further export or earmarking of gold. Obviously it is too late to wait until an embargo must be placed on gold, as that would destroy confidence in the dollar altogether.

It does not make sense to continue to permit the piling up of foreign claims against our gold, particularly as Americans in the United States are not permitted to have any. But an American in Europe or in Asia can purchase gold or gold certificates and keep them in foreign banks.

It is significant that most earmarked gold remains in the United States which displays confidence in our stability and in our future. There has been no flight of capital in this sense. There has, however, been a steady export of American capital abroad to evade high taxes, high American labor costs and the exclusion of American goods in the areas where preference is shown to products of area manufacture, as in the Common Market, for instance.

When the United States subscribes to the International Monetary Fund or to the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development or to foreign aid, it usually pays in whole or in part in gold. If goods manufactured in the United States are supplied, the payment is made in dollars.

It would not seem to be provident to permit claims against our gold hoard to pile up at a time when the hoard itself is being reduced. This is a case in which one agency of government is permitting itself the luxury of improvidence while another agency has to count its pennies.

Ike's Farming Partner Is Director Of Firm Getting Defense Contracts

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — When President Eisenhower lit into what he called the "Munitions Lobby" the other day, he probably didn't realize that he was hitting rather close to home.

For one of the most powerful munitions lobbies in Washington is the AVCO Manufacturing Company, of which his golfing-bridge-farming partner, George Allen, is a director. In addition, AVCO is close to Secretary Ezra Taft Benson and employs a battery of key generals and admirals, some of whom are now being investigated by Congressman Herbert's Armed Services Subcommittee.

They include:

Gen. Clarence S. Irvine, former Deputy Chief of Staff of the Air Force in charge of materiel. In this job General Irvine was top dog for all Air Force procurement, production and maintenance in the field. Since the Air Force plans for about ten years ahead, Irvine is in the position to use this expert knowledge while now working for AVCO.

Maj. Gen. Herbert M. Jones, the Adjutant General of the Army who stepped from this key post into AVCO.

Brig. Gen. Munro MacCloskey, of the Air Force.

Adm. Edward L. Woodyard, U. S. Navy.

One way or the other, through friends or otherwise, the AVCO Corporation was able to roll up a total of $102,000,000 worth of defense orders in 1958. This year, however, business has been looking up.

According to Moody's Industrial Manual, AVCO's backlog of defense orders in December 1958 totaled $99,000,000.

Three months later, however, the backlog of defense orders had zoomed up to $300,000,000. Since the total defense orders for the preceding year—1958—were only $102,000,000, something really gave a lift to AVCO's business.

Ike's Dinner Guest

AVCO is a far-flung company which manufactures everything from farm machinery to aviation engines to electronics to hydraulic loaders and chemical spreaders. It has factories in Coldwater, O., Ft. Dodge, Ia., Williamsport, Pa., Cincinnati, Richmond Ind. Evandale, O., Everett, Mass., and Chicago. Its chairman is Victor Emmanuel, who has been a guest at President Eisenhower's stag parties.

Significantly, in the rush of contracts which has helped swell AVCO's profits, there has been some very sloppy negotiating on the part of the Air Force. As a result, AVCO has been forced to make refunds.

On March 19, 1959, AVCO refunded $1,113,510 to the Air Force as the result of an error in the costs of a $15,000,000 AF contract for B-52 parts. It was explained that the error resulted from the fact that the Air Force accepted more than $1,000,000 of recorded costs which the contractors included in error.

Real fact is that the General Accounting Office caught the error, not AVCO, nor the Air Force. Without prodding from the accounting arm of Congress, the error might never have been discovered.

Another significant fact: AVCO owns a potent line-up of TV and radio stations, including WLW and WLW-TV in Cincinnati, WLW-C in Columbus, WLW-D in Dayton, WLW-A in Atlanta, and WLW-I, which is in dispute in Indianapolis. Network TV being what it is today, it's doubtful that any TV network would carry news programs critical of AVCO in regard either to its defense contracts or its brass hat lobbying. That kind of critical news doesn't get on TV unless officially announced by a Congressional committee or the White House which won't happen in the case of AVCO.

No Competitive Bids

It should be noted that practically all Pentagon contracts let to AVCO and other major contractors are on a cost-plus, negotiated basis. During the war, competitive bids were given up because of the necessity for speed. The war has been over fourteen years, but negotiated contracts are still the easy and customary mode of operation in the Pentagon. This is why ex-military officers can be so helpful, for when you have the No. 1 general once in charge of procurement on your payroll, the contracts officers who once served under him listen.

April 21, 1958—AVCO got $3,000,000 contract to its lycoming Division for helicopter gas turbine engines, delivery to start January 1, 1959.

June 26—Lycoming got Air Force propjet contract, $6,000,000 for T-53-L-3 engines; plus $10,000,000 order for helicopter version of T-53-L-1.

June 30—Army and AF awarded four contracts to AVCO's Crosley Division, worth $8,500,000 for fire control systems, spares for B-52 bombers, and Navy contract for Navy missile engineering and missile parts for rocket motor.

July 14—Crosley got $5,000,000 in military orders, involving ground radar projects and Marine Corps radar units.

July 11—Air Materiel Command gave Crosley $1,620,000 fire control systems (guns).

July 21—AF announced that a group of five companies were selected for work on Minuteman ICBMs. AVCO was to do the nose cone. Cost not specified.

August 1—Lycoming got orders for more than 500 of its new 500-hp aircraft engines. Cost not announced.

September 30—AF gave $1,088,000 contract for reciprocating aircraft engines, installations, and spare parts H-13H and H-23H aircraft.

March 11, 1959—New contracts announced: $41,749,000 civilian and defense contracts for Crosley and Nashville Divisions. This included $24,458,000 to Crosley for ground radar system; $12,464,000 for Convair civil jet airliners, Nashville Division; $2,152,000 stabilizer and flipper for AF Falcon air-to-air missile; $2,675,000 from Army Signal Corps: communications equipment, engineering changes on AF projects and miscellaneous.

Scandinavia Wins Victory For Free World

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Nikita Khrushchev has failed in his attempt to secure control of the Scandinavian countries for Communist imperialism. He cancelled his carefully planned visit there when he learned that his threats were not succeeding and that he couldn't intimidate Norway, Sweden or Denmark. He tried to get them to agree to close the Baltic Sea to warships of the West and to bar all atomic weapons and missiles. He demanded that Norway and Denmark get out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

A letter to this correspondent a few days ago from a well-informed Swedish writer in Stockholm says:

"Khrushchev's invitation to come here after a hint about it a year ago has split the politicians into two groups in the three countries. As the Social-Democrats, with the help of the Communists, have a one-vote majority in the Swedish Parliament, the invitation was approved. The leader of the People's Party and the 'rightists' have declined the invitation to attend the banquet for the Russian visitors. Protest meetings have been held already and many more groups will be heard from. Dr. Bela Fabian (of Hungary) is here to let the Russians know that 1956 isn't forgotten.

"The pressure has been on to make the Baltic a rocket and nuclear-free zone. The East Germans have their propaganda in full swing with the object of having all nations facing the Baltic make it a 'free sea of peace.' Of course, the only nation which is in possession of nuclear weapons around the Baltic is Russia, and it is not likely that the Soviet Union intends to discard their installation around the Baltic, or anywhere else for that matter. In the meantime, they don't want anyone else to have any.

"What they want is to close the Baltic to every nation except those with a shore line. The result of such a move would be to make the Baltic Sea under the sole control of Russia.

"They started the 12-mile limit without asking anyone. It was not a matter of fishing rights, as in the case of Iceland. It is because they don't want anyone to see their installations. That is why they shot down an American and also a Swedish plane over international waters. When the Swedes asked the Russians to help them search for their missing flyers, they chased the Swedes away.

"Another object of the visit to Scandinavian countries is to put the pressure on Norway and Denmark to get out of NATO. That would be the end of their freedom and would later put the pressure on neutral Sweden."

The Moscow government's note "postponing" the Khrushchev visit to sometime later, "perhaps in a year," complains that, "according to reports in the Swedish press," there have been preparations for "anti-Soviet demonstrations and meetings." The note points to "the unfriendly attitude taken by the Scandinavian press" and by some Parliamentary leaders toward the proposed Khrushchev tour, and charges that large-circulation newspapers had been "permitted to make insulting attacks on the Soviet Union and the Soviet premier personally."

To all this, the premiers of Sweden and Denmark now have replied by reminding the Soviet leader that the press is free in their countries to criticize him or anyone else. The Swedish premier said the Swedish people regard freedom of press and opinion as "unforfeitable."

An editorial recently in "Dagens Nyheter," one of the leading newspapers in Stockholm, pointed specificially to Khrushchev's speech in Riga, Latvia, last month, in which he demanded that the Baltic be closed to Western war vessels, that atomic weapons be barred from Scandinavian countries and that Norway and Denmark get out of NATO. The editorial said:

"We hope that the Scandinavian governments' duty as hosts will not prevent them from making it clear to Khrushchev that any interference in Scandinavian politics is unacceptable, and that they are unconcerned about any camouflaged threats.

"Khrushchev's speech was delivered in Latvia, one of the Baltic states which Russia put under its rule during World War II. It brings to mind that the Russian leaders, before both wars, time after time turned to the Baltic countries with precisely the same reasoning that now is being brought to bear against Scandinavia. Russia demanded involuntary neutrality, interpreted any re-armament as a threat of aggression, and explained, exactly as Khrushchev is doing now, that 'It is an absurdity to believe that the Soviet Union has any aggressive plans against these lands.' These were the very methods used in preparation for occupations and suppressions. . . .

"So far as Sweden is concerned, Khrushchev's speech should be a new reminder of our need for tactical atomic weapons. True, there are groups in our land who believe the opposite, who even believe that a defenseless Sweden would be a security against Russian aggression. If these beliefs become dominant, the risk will become increasingly greater that one day we will meet the same fate as the oppressed and downtrodden Baltic peoples."

The conquest of Scandinavia is a military objective of Nikita Khrushchev and, as usual he hopes to accomplish his purpose by "peaceful infiltration." But he has struck a snag in the freedom-loving people of Norway, Sweden and Denmark who have become so aroused that the Soviet premier thought it best to call off his trip. This is a victory for the free world.

ABOUT THOSE RATTLESNAKES

Dear Sir:

In the July 14 issue of your newspaper appeared an article attributed to William H. Johnson, district forester, in which it was reported that rattlesnakes were "unusually numerous" in Garrett County this summer.

The impression was given that this county, and particularly the Swallow Falls area, abounded with the reptiles and that caution was needed when walking through woods to avoid them.

I have spent my life in Garrett County—in its woods and hills and glades, and so have my friends. It is difficult for me to recollect any menace from snakes, particularly in recent years, and I feel your article does a disservice to a beautiful and popular recreation area.

In checking with the men who should know, I am informed that there are some rattlesnakes in the county, but to my knowledge none in any area frequented by the public. In fact, one friend who spends considerable time actually looking for them reports them most difficult to find, even in certain remote areas where they are known to exist.

Actually, the rattlesnake is not the menace it is generally assumed to be. Unless cornered, attacked or provoked, it will run a hundred times quicker than it will strike.

Certainly, it would be foolish to contend that there are not snakes in Garrett County any more than it would be to say there are no snakes in Allegany County or elsewhere. But definitely the snake population is small, under control, and poses no menace to those who would take advantage of the area's recreational opportunities.

Mental Depression May Cause Poor Health

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many persons are mildly depressed because of repeated disappointments, frustrations, defeats, and misfortunes. It affects appetite, sleep, and energy. Unless the cause is recognized, the majority spend their time and money trying to regain their health and feeling of well-being.

A change in attitude does more than all the vitamins, tonic, health resorts, and examinations combined. The cause may be uncovered by going back to the first time depression was noted.

The clue may appear in the form of an unhappy incident, failure to reach a goal, a business reversal, or loss of property or a love one.

Sometimes the depression begins in a feeling of guilt. Improvement occurs when the cause is recognized and the individual starts with a clean slate.

A more severe depression may produce a variety of emotional and physical complaints. As Henry Maudsley wrote, "The sorrow that has no vent in tears may make other organs weep."

This may account for the chest pain or headaches that many depressed persons develop. These ailments are considered conversion symptoms. The mind has played a trick on the individual by converting his unpleasant depression into a more socially acceptable illness. Chest pain is an expression of a specific, emotional heartache.

In other instances, constipation or indigestion develops, in addition to loss of appetite. Lassitude becomes generalized and may affect sexual vigor, concentration, and emotional stability. The mental depression may be so disguised by these physical manifestations, it is difficult to recognize unless accompanied by feelings of dejection and confusion.

It is just as well these things happen to some persons because a severe depression that fails to convert into something else is difficult to live with. When this occurs, suicide is contemplated, especially when the depression is associated with deep feelings of guilt, anxiety, and confusion. Psychiatric care is needed.

WHISTLING CHEST

E. P. writes: What can I do about a whistle in my chest?

REPLY

Cough it up. Whistling usually stems from narrowing of an area in the windpipe, due to a plug of mucus. If the symptom persists. X-rays are needed to determine whether obstruction is traceable to another cause such as a growth.

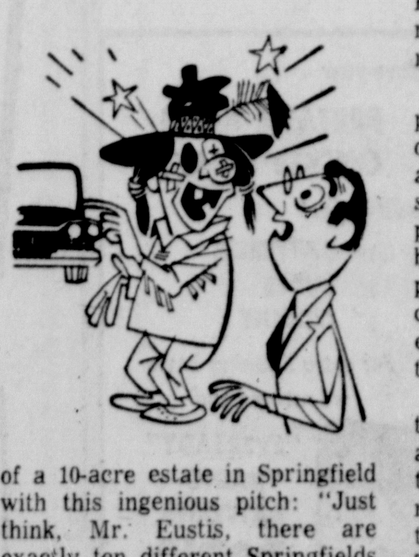
Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

When they brought in a gusher on his land, an elderly Indian in Oklahoma became a millionaire overnight, and immediately bought the most expensive automobile for sale in Tulsa. A few days later he limped back into the dealer's showroom, his face and hands covered with bruises and bandages. He wanted to buy another of those cars, he explained. "What happened to the other one?" gasped the dealer.

"Me drive him fine," explained the Indian. "Buy gallon white mule likker. Take coupla drinks. Step on gas. Trees and fences go by heap fast. Pretty soon see big bridge coming down road. Turn out to let big bridge pass. Splash! Car gone! I wan' another."



One of America's great real estate salesmen clinched the sale of a 10-acre estate in Springfield with this ingenious pitch: "Just think, Mr. Eustis, there are exactly ten different Springfields in the United States. They are stretched from Massachusetts to Oregon; from Minnesota to Florida. Relatives seeking to graft weekends will never even be able to find you!"

The Puzzling Market

By Leslie Gould

Where is the stock market headed?

Here is the answer right from the horse's mouth — so to speak.

"Prices have gone up, they have gone down in the last 25 years.

"In the presence of a free market, there is every indication that they will go up and down in the years to come.

"However, for reasons I have given, I am inclined to doubt that, in the absence of international catastrophe, we will see a repetition of the market of the early Thirties."

Then, this cautionary statement:

"Of course, I could be wrong."

Who said that?

Why Edward N. Gadsby, the chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, which bosses the securities markets.

The SEC not only bosses the markets, but it even has a man whose sole job is to sit glued to the stock ticker, observing every trade. This, to quote Gadsby, is to determine whether the "timing and nature of some price movements" suggest an informal inquiry to "determine why and what influences are at work to produce such an action."

While Gadsby was speaking, there were unusual and unexplained movements in quite a few stocks, as there has been for some months now in others traded on the Stock Exchange and on the American Stock Exchange.

Motor Products on the Stock Exchange had an $8 swing, closing off on that day $3.25. It touched $71 before falling back to $63. The closing was $65.75. The low this year is $30.75. It advanced $2 the next day.

J. R. Thompson on the same day ran up $5.25 to a new high.

There has yet to be an explanation for the big swing in one day in Motor Products.

The day after the J. R. Thompson run up, the president announced directors on July 21 would consider a proposal to split the stock two for one and increase the cash dividend from 25 cents a share to 30 cents. The stock went up another $3 on the announcement.

The president said the announcement was made to keep shareowners "informed," but those who sold out the day before were "uninformed" while some of those who bought the day before evidently had inside information as to the stock split proposal.

This was just a case of someone or ones having "inside" information.

There are other movements in the market — too many in fact — that have no such basis. These are the jiggles that are going on every day on both of the major exchanges, and increasingly so.

Yet, Gadsby says:

Also he says,

"The touter has not the freedom he once had to practice his art."

He adds to this:

That is the law, but there is a legal delay of as long as 40 days on insider trading and the SEC does nothing when the "forgetful" insider lets months go by. A case in point on the insider reports were the delays by some of the old crowd in Penn-Texas in the days of Leopold D. Silberstein.

Gadsby also has this to say:

"I have already publicly expressed myself as to the sanity of amateurs who take speculative risks in the market with money they cannot afford to lose. They might just as well put up their money at Laurel (the race track in Maryland near Washington) or Las Vegas."

Well, on the same day Gadsby was speaking, an "expert" on race tracks and the chances for profit there had some interesting comment. He is Toney Betts of the Daily Mirror's sporting staff. Betts was replying to a track official who jocularly told him because of some of his criticism of the tracks: "I'll see your boss and tell him to lay you off."

Betts replied:

"I told him he would be doing me a favor if he had me fired. Through the years I have stacked up severance pay. With the severance pay I would play the stock market.

"It's much easier for a gambling man to beat the stock market (where there is real inside information) than it is for him to beat the horses at that bust-out joint on Baisley Boulevard known as Jamaica."

Valley TV Files Application For 2 Translators

Work To Start On Antennas

MOOREFIELD — The application for a construction permit for two translators on top of Branch Mountain was forwarded to the Federal Communications Commission by the Valley TV Cooperative this week, according to the announcement of Charles Kuykendall, manager of the cooperative.

Kuykendall said that the required amount of cash and pledges had been reached to assure the installation of the two channels. He requested that all members pay their pledges as soon as possible in order to pay for the equipment. A total of $11,200 is needed to pay for the construction of the building, the erection of the antennas and the installation of the two translators.

A check for over $800 was sent to the Adler Company for engineering and for the initial payment on the equipment. The two ultra high frequency translators will broadcast channel 9 from WTOP in Washington and channel 6 from WJAC in Johnstown, Pa. Permission has been secured from both these stations to use their programs.

Approval from the FCC will take approximately 30 days and in the meantime construction of the building will be underway. The installation will be similar to the UHF translator installations in Frostburg, Md., which is now operating successfully.

Membership in the cooperative is only $50 with an estimated annual maintenance of $5. Additional members are needed to finance the installation of more channels. It is the objective of the cooperative to eventually have channels for four major networks.

The UHF broadcast is line of sight and can be received by Valley residents who are able to see the rotating FAA beacon on top of Branch mountain. The cooperative is already negotiating with residents of the Lost River Valley and with groups in both Pendleton and Grant counties. The latter communities will need a booster installation to pick up the signal to direct broadcasts into some sections of the two counties.

Funds and pledges have been available for several weeks sufficient to install one channel but the management decided to hold up until enough pledges were received for two channels in order to save engineering and installation costs.

Kuykendall requests that checks made out to the Valley TV Cooperative be sent in at once.

Lightning Cause Of $7,500 Loss

MOOREFIELD — Fire destroyed a barn belonging to Angus Cochenour at Baker, Sunday afternoon with a loss estimated at $7500. The blaze apparently was caused by a lightning bolt. The barn was full of hay and farm machinery, also destroyed in the blaze.

Valley TV Files Application For 2 Translators

Work To Start On Antennas

MOOREFIELD — The application for a construction permit for two translators on top of Branch Mountain was forwarded to the Federal Communications Commission by the Valley TV Cooperative this week, according to the announcement of Charles Kuykendall, manager of the cooperative.

Kuykendall said that the required amount of cash and pledges had been reached to assure the installation of the two channels. He requested that all members pay their pledges as soon as possible in order to pay for the equipment. A total of $11,200 is needed to pay for the construction of the building, the erection of the antennas and the installation of the two translators.

A check for over $800 was sent to the Adler Company for engineering and for the initial payment on the equipment. The two ultra high frequency translators will broadcast channel 9 from WTOP in Washington and channel 6 from WJAC in Johnstown, Pa. Permission has been secured from both these stations to use their programs.

Approval from the FCC will take approximately 30 days and in the meantime construction of the building will be underway. The installation will be similar to the UHF translator installations in Frostburg, Md., which is now operating successfully.

Membership in the cooperative is only $50 with an estimated annual maintenance of $5. Additional members are needed to finance the installation of more channels. It is the objective of the cooperative to eventually have channels for four major networks.

The UHF broadcast is line of sight and can be received by Valley residents who are able to see the rotating FAA beacon on top of Branch mountain. The cooperative is already negotiating with residents of the Lost River Valley and with groups in both Pendleton and Grant counties. The latter communities will need a booster installation to pick up the signal to direct broadcasts into some sections of the two counties.

Funds and pledges have been available for several weeks sufficient to install one channel but the management decided to hold up until enough pledges were received for two channels in order to save engineering and installation costs.

Kuykendall requests that checks made out to the Valley TV Cooperative be sent in at once.

Pennsy House Favors Change In Curfew Law

Would Knock Out Suspended Games

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The House of Representatives Wednesday cleared the way for the Pittsburgh Pirates and Philadelphia Phillies to finish Sunday double-headers without annoying suspensions due to the 7 p.m. curfew.

The House concurred in Senate amendments to a bill which permits Sunday games started before 6 p.m. e.d.t. to be completed. The House also concurred in the Senate amendments to extend the time provision to include communities in which minor league teams play.

The bill was returned to the Senate, where it will be signed when that chamber reconvenes next Monday. Gov. David L. Lawrence is expected to sign it into law without delay.

A Phillies spokesman said passage of the bill "will be welcome news to fans that games won't be interrupted."

He said suspended games brought complications and was "disappointing to fans here to have games they attended suspended without an immediate result."

A spokesman for the Pirates said "the ball club is very happy about it. We felt that the old law was outdated. It brought about many complications in team standings and scoring, and brought headaches not only to the ball club, but to the fans as well."

Turk Lown Victor Over Leo Kiely

CHICAGO (AP)—Sherm Lollar's ninth-inning single gave the Chicago White Sox a 5-4 triumph over the Boston Red Sox Wednesday in a game marked by quaint White Sox base running.

The victory gave Chicago a momentary hold on first place, pending the outcome of Wednesday night's Cleveland-New York game.

Lollar's single sent Nellie Fox scampering across from second with the winning run, hanging the defeat on Leo Kiely, third of four Boston pitchers.

Winning pitcher for Chicago was Turk Lown, now 6-2, who replaced starter Early Wynn at the start of the eighth.

Wynn failed in his bid to become the American League's winningest pitcher with 13 triumphs, but averted his possible seventh defeat.

Five times, the White Sox made base-running miscues, rookie Jim McAnany twice getting pegged out at the plate. Jim Landis was nailed trying for third after a third-inning double.

Norm Cash was picked off second in the scoreless Sox eighth in which McAnany later was speared at the plate for the second time. And in the seventh, Lollar was held up at third with a possible chance to score on Bill Goodman's double.

New Yorkers Get 14 Hits; Chicago Sox Move To Top

CLEVELAND (AP) — The New York Yankees rattled Municipal Stadium with 14 hits Wednesday night to overcome a 4-0 deficit, beat Cleveland 8-5, and dropped the Indians from the American League lead.

The Yankees' victory — their ninth in 16 games with Cleveland —followed Chicago's 5-4 victory over Boston and enabled the White Sox to move into first place by a one-game margin.

Herb Score had blanked the Yanks on three hits and fanned five for a 4-0 advantage when Mickey Mantle doubled in the sixth and was brought around by Hector Lopez' 14th home run.

A five-hit barrage that added three more runs chased the league's strikeout leader to the showers in the seventh inning with his eighth defeat against nine won.

Don Larsen pinch-singled after Fritz Brickell had singled, and Bobby Richardson doubled both runners home. Mickey Mantle walked, Elston Howard singled Richardson in, and Gary Bell replaced Score. Lopez singled off Vic Power's glove to fill the bases but Hank Bauer fouled for the final out.

Cleveland's first four runs came off Duke Maas, whose 8-5 record now includes four triumphs over Cleveland. Ryne Duren took over after Larsen pinch-hit for Maas in the seventh-inning rally. Duren gave up an eighth-inning run on a single by Minnie Minoso and a double by George Strickland.

Machen Stops Vargas In 6th

Reuben Helpless After Knockdown

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Eddie Machen of Portland scored a sixth round technical knockout over Reuben Vargas of San Francisco in a heavyweight fight here Wednesday night.

Machen weighed 197, Vargas 195.

Referee Ralph Gruman stopped the scheduled 10-round heavyweight fight at 1:55 of the sixth round after Vargas went down once and then lay almost helpless on the ropes as Machen pressed the attack.

Vargas had been in trouble in the third round, when the clever Machen hit him with lefts and then followed with quick rights. But Vargas weathered that storm and was not in serious trouble again until the sixth.

Vargas, pressing the attack to Machen's body, was unable to do much damage. At one point, Machen smiled at Vargas after a series of punches landed on Machen's side.

Senators Fall Before Slants Of Frank Lary

Tiger Hurler Hits Home Run, Wins 6-2

DETROIT (UPI) — Frank Lary backed up his pitching with a two-run homer Wednesday to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 6-2 victory over the Washington Senators.

Lary pitched hitless ball for the first five innings and faced only 21 batters through the first seven innings.

But he tired in the 87 - degree heat and needed help from Ray Narleski in the eighth when Roy Sievers led off with his 14th home run of the year, Jim Lemon walked and Fay Throneberry doubled.

Narleski retired six straight batters to preserve the victory, Lary's 11th against seven losses.

Lary's no-hit bid was spoiled in the sixth by Billy Consolo who beat out a slow roller to third base.

The Tigers were held hitless by Pedro Ramos until the fourth when an error, Harvey Kuenn's single and an infield out produced the first Tiger run. Frank Bolling hit his seventh homer of the year for another run in the fifth and Lary capped a three-run rally in the seventh with his first homer of the season.

It came after singles by Gail Harris and Bolling, and an error had produced one run. Detroit's final run came in the eighth off reliever Truman Clevenger on a single by Kuenn and a 415-foot double by Al Kaline.

The victory moved the Tigers into fifth place in the American League race, a half game ahead of Washington.

College All-Stars To Begin Training

CHICAGO (UPI)—College football's best players of 1958 draw uniforms Thursday for opening drills leading to the 26th annual game against the champions of the National Football League, this year the Baltimore Colts.

A squad of 52 collegians was expected to report to head coach Otto Graham at Northwestern University to begin training for the pro-college scrap on Aug. 14. Graham tutored the 1958 college team to an upset win last August.

Thursday players will get rooming assignments, go through the usual physical examinations and draw equipment before the first workout Friday morning.

Writers Favor Chicago To Cop Flag, Tribe 2nd

Only 11 Of 72 Pick Yankees; Milwaukee Still Their Choice

NEW YORK (AP) — The baseball writers are doing a little second guessing themselves on the outcomes of the major league pennant races.

In a preseason Associated Press poll members of the Baseball Writers Assn. picked the New York Yankees by a wide margin to win the American League championship. They liked the Milwaukee Braves to win the National League pennant, although with less enthusiasm.

At the half-way point in the races the league standings weren't quite as expected, so The AP conducted another poll of the writers to see if they had changed their minds.

They had. Now they still favor the Braves, but by a very slim margin. But the Yankees are out, as far as the writers are concerned. Of the 72 votes cast only 11 picked the Yankees to win.

The consensus now favors the Chicago White Sox to take the flag, with Cleveland second and New York third.

Cleveland got two more first place votes than Chicago, but on the 8-7-6 point-scoring basis the White Sox had a 526-516 edge. Milwaukee got nine more first-place votes than San Francisco, but led in points by only 514-500.

Phils Get 19 Hits To Rout Pirates, 11-4

Gene Conley Posts 8th Win Of Season

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Dave Philley drove in three runs and Ed Bouchee, Harry Anderson and Joe Lonnett each accounted for a pair to pace a 19-hit attack that eased the Philadelphia Phils to an 11-4 rout over the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday night.

The Phils manhandled four Pirate hurlers while Gene Conley, who went the distance to register his eighth victory of the season, collected three singles to help his own cause. Starter Ronnie Kline, who had notched all his seven victories at Forbes Field, lost before a home crowd for the first time this season.

Philley doubled home a pair of runs in the first inning and singled in another in the eighth inning. Bouchee slammed his 11th homer with Richie Ashburn on base in the fourth inning when Bennie Daniels was on the mound. Ashburn had a double, three singles and a walk and drove in a run. Lonnett had three singles to account for his rbi's.

The Phils scored at least once in the first four innings and picked up three in the eighth and one in the ninth.

The Pirates capitalized on two errors to score two runs in the third inning, one of them unearned. Daniels singled and advanced on Joe Koppe's error. Roberto Clemente scratched a single, and when Gene Freese overthrew first base, Daniels scored and Clemente advanced. Then Clemente scored after Dick Groat grounded out and Bob Skinner singled.

The Pirates scored a final pair of runs in the last inning on an error, two hits and a passed ball.

Pennsy House Favors Change In Curfew Law

Would Knock Out Suspended Games

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The House of Representatives Wednesday cleared the way for the Pittsburgh Pirates and Philadelphia Phillies to finish Sunday double-headers without annoying suspensions due to the 7 p.m. curfew.

The House concurred in Senate amendments to a bill which permits Sunday games started before 6 p.m. e.d.t. to be completed. The House also concurred in the Senate amendments to extend the time provision to include communities in which minor league teams play.

The bill was returned to the Senate, where it will be signed when that chamber reconvenes next Monday. Gov. David L. Lawrence is expected to sign it into law without delay.

A Phillies spokesman said passage of the bill "will be welcome news to fans that games won't be interrupted."

He said suspended games brought complications and was "disappointing to fans here to have games they attended suspended without an immediate result."

A spokesman for the Pirates said "the ball club is very happy about it. We felt that the old law was outdated. It brought about many complications in team standings and scoring, and brought headaches not only to the ball club, but to the fans as well."

Turk Lown Victor Over Leo Kiely

CHICAGO (AP)—Sherm Lollar's ninth-inning single gave the Chicago White Sox a 5-4 triumph over the Boston Red Sox Wednesday in a game marked by quaint White Sox base running.

The victory gave Chicago a momentary hold on first place, pending the outcome of Wednesday night's Cleveland-New York game.

Lollar's single sent Nellie Fox scampering across from second with the winning run, hanging the defeat on Leo Kiely, third of four Boston pitchers.

Winning pitcher for Chicago was Turk Lown, now 6-2, who replaced starter Early Wynn at the start of the eighth.

Wynn failed in his bid to become the American League's winningest pitcher with 13 triumphs, but averted his possible seventh defeat.

Five times, the White Sox made base-running miscues, rookie Jim McAnany twice getting pegged out at the plate. Jim Landis was nailed trying for third after a third-inning double.

Norm Cash was picked off second in the scoreless Sox eighth in which McAnany later was speared at the plate for the second time. And in the seventh, Lollar was held up at third with a possible chance to score on Bill Goodman's double.

Yanks Belt Score, 8-5, Cleveland Loses Lead

New Yorkers Get 14 Hits; Chicago Sox Move To Top

CLEVELAND (AP) — The New York Yankees rattled Municipal Stadium with 14 hits Wednesday night to overcome a 4-0 deficit, beat Cleveland 8-5, and dropped the Indians from the American League lead.

The Yankees' victory — their ninth in 16 games with Cleveland —followed Chicago's 5-4 victory over Boston and enabled the White Sox to move into first place by a one-game margin.

Herb Score had blanked the Yanks on three hits and fanned five for a 4-0 advantage when Mickey Mantle doubled in the sixth and was brought around by Hector Lopez' 14th home run.

A five-hit barrage that added three more runs chased the league's strikeout leader to the showers in the seventh inning with his eighth defeat against nine won.

Don Larsen pinch-singled after Fritz Brickell had singled, and Bobby Richardson doubled both runners home. Mickey Mantle walked. Elston Howard singled Richardson in, and Gary Bell replaced Score. Lopez singled off Vic Power's glove to fill the bases but Hank Bauer fouled for the final out.

Cleveland's first four runs came off Duke Maas, whose 8-5 record now includes four triumphs over Cleveland. Ryne Duren took over after Larsen pinch-hit for Maas in the seventh-inning rally. Duren gave up an eighth-inning run on a single by Minnie Minoso and a double by George Strickland.

Machen Stops Vargas In 6th

Reuben Helpless After Knockdown

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Eddie Machen of Portland scored a sixth round technical knockout over Reuben Vargas of San Francisco in a heavyweight fight here Wednesday night.

Machen weighed 197, Vargas 195.

Referee Ralph Gruman stopped the scheduled 10-round heavyweight fight at 1:55 of the sixth round after Vargas went down once and then lay almost helpless on the ropes as Machen pressed the attack.

Vargas had been in trouble in the third round, when the clever Machen hit him with lefts and then followed with quick rights. But Vargas weathered that storm and was not in serious trouble again until the sixth.

Again at the end of the third Machen had Vargas in trouble but Machen couldn't finish him off.

Vargas, pressing the attack to Machen's body, was unable to do much damage. At one point, Machen smiled at Vargas after a series of punches landed on Machen's side.

Senators Fall Before Slants Of Frank Lary

DETROIT (UPI) — Frank Lary backed up his pitching with a two-run homer Wednesday to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 6-2 victory over the Washington Senators.

Lary pitched hitless ball for the first five innings and faced only 21 batters through the first seven innings.

But he tired in the 87 - degree heat and needed help from Ray Narleski in the eighth when Roy Sievers led off with his 14th home run of the year. Jim Lemon walked and Fay Throneberry doubled.

Narleski retired six straight batters to preserve the victory, Lary's 11th against seven losses.

Lary's no-hit bid was spoiled in the sixth by Billy Consolo who beat out a slow roller to third base.

The Tigers were held hitless by Pedro Ramos until the fourth when an error, Harvey Kuenn's single and an infield out produced the first Tiger run. Frank Bolling hit his seventh homer of the year for another run in the fifth and Lary capped a three-run rally in the seventh with his first homer of the season.

It came after singles by Gail Harris and Bolling, and an error had produced one run. Detroit's final run came in the eighth off reliever Truman Clevenger on a single by Kuenn and a 415-foot double by Al Kaline.

The victory moved the Tigers into fifth place in the American League race, a half game ahead of Washington.

College All-Stars To Begin Training

CHICAGO (UPI)—College football's best players of 1958 draw uniforms Thursday for opening drills leading to the 26th annual game against the champions of the National Football League, this year the Baltimore Colts.

A squad of 52 collegians was expected to report to head coach Otto Graham at Northwestern University to begin training for the pro-college scrap on Aug. 14. Graham tutored the 1958 college team to an upset win last August.

Thursday players will get rooming assignments, go through the usual physical examinations and draw equipment before the first workout Friday morning.

NEW YORK (AP) — The baseball writers are doing a little second guessing themselves on the outcomes of the major league pennant races.

In a preseason Associated Press poll members of the Baseball Writers Assn. picked the New York Yankees by a wide margin to win the American League championship. They liked the Milwaukee Braves to win the National League pennant, although with less enthusiasm.

At the half-way point in the races the league standings weren't quite as expected, so The AP conducted another poll of the writers to see if they had changed their minds.

They had. Now they still favor the Braves, but by a very slim margin. But the Yankees are out, as far as the writers are concerned. Of the 72 votes cast only 11 picked the Yankees to win.

The consensus now favors the Chicago White Sox to take the flag, with Cleveland second and New York third.

Cleveland got two more first place votes than Chicago, but on the 8-7-6 point-scoring basis the White Sox had a 526-516 edge. Milwaukee got nine more first-place votes than San Francisco, but led in points by only 514-500.

Phils Get 19 Hits To Rout Pirates, 11-4

Gene Conley Posts 8th Win Of Season

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Dave Philley drove in three runs and Ed Bouchee, Harry Anderson and Joe Lonnett each accounted for a pair to pace a 19-hit attack that eased the Philadelphia Phils to an 11-4 rout over the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday night.

The Phils manhandled four Pirate hurlers while Gene Conley, who went the distance to register his eighth victory of the season, collected three singles to help his own cause. Starter Ronnie Kline, who had notched all his seven victories at Forbes Field, lost before a home crowd for the first time this season.

Philley doubled home a pair of runs in the first inning and singled in another in the eighth inning. Bouchee slammed his 11th homer with Richie Ashburn on base in the fourth inning when Bennie Daniels was on the mound. Ashburn had a double, three singles and a walk and drove in a run. Lonnett had three singles to account for his rbi's.

The Phils scored at least once in the first four innings and picked up three in the eighth and one in the ninth.

The Pirates capitalized on two errors to score two runs in the third inning, one of them unearned. Daniels singled and advanced on Joe Koppe's error. Roberto Clemente scratched a single, and when Gene Freese overthrew first base, Daniels scored and Clemente advanced. Then Clemente scored after Dick Groat grounded out and Bob Skinner singled.

The Pirates scored a final pair of runs in the last inning on an error, two hits and a passed ball.

Bedford Road's Optimist Club defeated the Lions Club last night at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 3-2 and increased its lead to 2½ games in the Hot Stove Baseball League.

Harold "Lefty" Hardinger, who pitched the first 4⅔ innings for Manager Ced Miller's league leaders got credit for the win. His brother, Homer, came on in the 5th and pitched the last 2⅓ frames. Harold struck out eight and Homer whiffed two. The "Brother Act" also shared four of the winners' six hits.

Bell Hits Homer

In the second game of the doubleheader, Manager Bill Withrow's Kiwanis Club tossers whipped the Jaycees by the score of 5-2 and moved within a half game of the deadlocked second place teams.

Wayne Jewell, who pitched until the fifth when he was relieved by Jimmy Powelson, got credit for the victory. Jewell struck out three while Powelson whiffed eight in three innings. Jack Morgan, Jaycee hurler, struck out ten, and gave up nine hits.

Shook Leads Attack

Doug Shook paced the Kiwanians at the plate with three hits, including a triple, while Leroy Hanekamp and Eddie Busch garnered two hits each. A two-bagger by Morgan was among the four hits credited to the Jaycees.

Whodunit Cops Rich Hollywood Race, Find Is Third

Jockey York Scores With 13 To 1 Shot

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Jan Burke's Whodunit came with a drive in the stretch Wednesday to win the $109,800 Sunset Handicap as the sentimental and betting favorite, 9-year-old Find, ran third in the closing day feature at Hollywood Park.

Jockey Ray York got the 6-year-old Kentucky colt into the lead midway down the stretch to win by about a half a length, with Elmendorf Farm's Day Court Second, just a step or so ahead of Alfred G. Vanderbilt's ageless wonder, Find.

38,000 Attend Race

A crowd estimated at 38,000 roared with approval as Find, seeking another victory in the long race he won two years ago, took a momentary lead at the head of the stretch.

But the old guy, with jockey Willie Shoemaker working his hardest to bring him in, couldn't stand the gaff of the mile and five-eighths struggle.

The time was 2:40 4-5, well off the world and track record of 2:38 1-5 set by Swaps in 1956.

Whodunit, a Princequillo colt, paid $28.60, $12.60 and $4.80; Day Court $8.20 and $3.60, and Find $2.40.

Find earned the role of favorite off the two close seconds he ran to C. W. Smith's Hillsdale in previous stakes here. With Hillsdale sitting this one out, Find and Terrang, racing for Lawrence Pollock and Roland Bond, were the one-two choices.

$63,700 To Winner

Whodunit carried 110 pounds to 118 for Find and 122 for Terrang.

Aussie Netmen To Play Canada

MONTREAL (UPI) — Australia's young tennis stars tackle Canada Friday in the second leg of their bid to reach the challenge round against the United States and regain the Davis Cup.

The best-of-five North American zone semifinal series will be held on the grass courts of the Mount Royal Tennis Club July 24-26. The winner will meet Cuba in the North American final on the same courts, July 31-Aug. 2.

Australia and the U.S. have enjoyed a monopoly in the international challenge round, meeting each other for the past 13 years. The Aussies have won the cup seven times and the U.S. six times.

Non-playing captain Harry Hopman brought his young and comparatively inexperienced team here after eliminating Mexico on Monday at Mexico City, 4-1. The Mexicans extended the Aussies in all four singles matches, winning one and losing the other three in five sets.

Republicans Win At Frostburg, 11-3

Danny Muir tossed a two-hitter against the Lions and struck out five batsmen.

The Republicans collected 13 hits, including a double and two singles each by Mike Kelly and Muir. Perry Saville and Gary Clark obtained the Lions' hits.

Today the Elks and K. of C., deadlocked for first place with 8-4 records, will clash at 6 p.m. Score:

Republican Club	340 004—11	13	6
Lions Club	020 001— 3	2	2

Horsemen Demand Larger Purses At Charles Town

HBPA Calls Special Meeting For Tuesday

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (AP) —Horse owners are demanding larger purses at Charles Town Race Track.

The Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Assn. has called a special meeting to discuss the matter for next Tuesday.

The meeting notice said:

"Come out and hear the full story of how much this track takes, while horsemen race for peanuts. Without horses, a race track is only so much real estate. It is time some operators found out the hard way."

The announcement noted that the HBPA had worked with former owners of the track to get larger purses.

"Just as we succeeded. . ., new management has decided to go back to 'cut-throat' days of old," the notice said.

The HBPA claims it gets 44 per cent of the track's take in purses at all other West Virginia tracks. It said the Charles Town management will not go above 41 per cent.

Japanese Swim Team Noses Out United States

Breaks Relay Mark In 41-38 Triumph

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese relay team, with powerful, slow-stroking Ysuyoshi Yamanaka swimming the anchor leg, smashed a world record in the final event Wednesday and gave Japan a 41-38 victory over the United States in the three-day Trans-Pacific meet.

The quartet of Takezo Umemoto, Tatsuo Fujimoto, Makoto Fukui and Yamanaka swam the 800-meter freestyle relay in 8 minutes 21.6 seconds, two seconds faster than the listed world record made by an Australian team in 1956. A crowd of 10,000, including Emporor Hirohito's sister-in-law, Imperial Princess Chichibu, saw the exciting finish of the meet.

Earlier Yamanaka had pushed Australia's Murray Rose to a 9:08.6 performance in the 800-meter record of 9:14.5, but Rose swam the distance in 9:13.5 last year and last January Konrads turned in an amazing 8:59.6 for 880 yards—about a foot longer than 800 meters—in the New South Wales championships.

Rose, a Southern California student, competed in the meet as a guest and his placings didn't score points for the U.S. team.

The United States drew even with Japan in the point scoring by taking the first two places in the 200-meter backstroke just before the final relay. Frank McKinney of Indianapolis bettered his own American record by winning in 2?19.3. His best previous mark was 2:21.7. Chuck Bittick of Los Angeles was second, 1½ lengths behind.

Howard Reynolds saw his two-year string of 39 scoreless innings broken yesterday but he pitched the Phillies to a 9-2 victory over the Giants in a Dapper Division game of the Dapper Dan Little League at Post Field.

The only hit yielded by Reynolds was a homer by Wilson following a base on balls to Seeders in the second inning. Notching his fourth win without a loss, Reynolds whiffed 14 and issued only one base on balls.

It was Reynolds' eleventh straight win in two years. In his three previous starts this season he beat the Pirates, 7-0, Red Sox 11-0 and Cardinals 16-0.

In addition to his stellar mound performance, Reynolds blasted a triple, double and single for a perfect day at bat, Mike Hixson rapped a triple and single, Mark Lindner had two hits in two trips and Olin Perkins slammed a homer.

Yesterday's victory was the ninth in ten starts for the Phillies and increased their lead to two games over the Cardinals with five games left to play. Score:

Baltimore Colts Obtain Matuszak

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The Green Bay Packers have traded linebacker Marv Matuszak to the Baltimore Colts for Fred Thurston, a 245-pound guard, General Manager Vince Lombardi announced Wednesday. Lombardi said the deal was a straight player swap between the two National Football League clubs. Green Bay acquired Matuszak from the San Francisco 49ers late last season.

JIMMY RIPPLE, former Middle Atlantic League and major leaguer, who died at Greensburg, Pa., last week, once figured in one of the strangest decisions in organized baseball.

Ripple was "discovered" playing on the sandlots of Delmont and Export, Pa., by Richard "Dick" Guy, sports editor of the old Pittsburgh Leader, and sponsor of the Pittsburgh Collegians, a traveling baseball team that played many times in Cumberland in bygone days.

Mr. Guy, who helped organize the Middle Atlantic League, and also the Pennsylvania State Association, owned the Greensburg Club in the latter circuit, and signed Ripple, a good hitter with a strong throwing arm, to a contract. "Dick" went to Ripple's home to get Jimmy to affix his signature to the pact.

Then the Jeannette Jays of the Mid-Atlantic League moved in and signed Ripple.

Guy took the matter up with Judge Landis, baseball commissioner, who went to Pittsburgh to hear the case.

The judge ruled that under baseball law Ripple plainly belonged to the Greensburg Club, which deserved the protection of the reserve clause, but because Guy had delivered the contract to Ripple's home in person instead of sending it by registered mail, he declared the player a free agent.

Ripple remained with Jeannette until he was sold by that club to Montreal. He also played with the Giants, Dodgers, Reds and Philadelphia A's.

Ripple played with Jeannette in 1929. That the year Johnny Byrnes was the Cumberland Colts' playing manager and Dr. Homer B. Walker was president of the local club which drew 34,792 paid admissions at Mid-City Park at Wineow street.

Among the players on the Colts' roster that season were Benny Artigiani, George Durning, Don Thomas, Dave Black, Ted Kleinhans, Steve Cozington, Eddie Seigel, Bobby Nork, Joe Conti, Tommy Cloonan, Pat Corrigan and last but not least, Irvin "Stub" Rase of Frostburg, who was a 22-game winner. "Stub" incidentally won more games than any other pitcher for the Colts. He hurled for Cumberland four seasons, appeared in over 100 games and had a .680 mark for 66 wins and 31 losses.

SHORTSTOP Jimmy High, of Barton in the Maryland-West Virginia Little League, who collected 16 consecutive hits before being stopped last Saturday on his fourth trip to the plate in the Ridgeley game, is a son of the late Harry Forrest "Gabby" High, Keyser outfielder, who died on the opening day of the Bi-State Baseball League season, April 29, 1951.

"Gabby" became ill in a game at Midland and died while en route to Miners Hospital, Frostburg. Death was attributed to a heart condition.

Jimmy's mother, who was Helen Budries, has remarried and resides in Pekin.

WHEN Moorefield met the Century Miners recently in a Mountain State Baseball League game Carl Wilfong did the pitching for the Barbour countians.

Eight years ago, Wilfong was a pitching sensation for the Keyser Firemen. In fact, he pitched Keyser to the pennant in the 1951 Bi-State League, winning his last 14 games to windup the campaign with a 14-3 record. Keyser won 25 and lost 10 that season.

Moorefield was extended to beat Wilfong eight years later in a 2-1 thriller.

SYLVESTER J. "Bucky" Dearbeck, 58, who has brought Westinghouse Apprentice School basketball teams into this section for many years to play Frostburg State Teachers College and Potomac State College, died in Pittsburgh on Friday.

"Bucky" had been employed by Westinghouse since the early 1920s and since 1934 had been coach of all athletic activities at Westinghouse Apprentice School in East Pittsburgh.

WATERFORD PARK managed to grab a good bit of publicity last Saturday by staging a mile and three-quarters race in which Chased Again beat Revenoor but that wasn't as long as the four-horse duel staged by Freddie Colwill at Fairgo nine years ago over the route of 2⅛ miles.

Reno Untried with Johnny Regalbuto up, won that one in 3:49 2/5, the longest race ever staged at the local half miler. Just Great was second, Bullsel, third, and Edna Lawless, fourth.

That endurance test was held June 24, 1950, the last race of the meeting.

WHEN Junior Brelsford, of the Homewood Tavern Old Exports, posted his ninth shutout victory on Tuesday in the County Softball League, he moved closer to the area all-time mark of 12 shutouts in a season credited to Al Sheetz of the Cumberland Amvets in the 1949 City League.

Sheetz, now twirling for the Caseys in the Rocking Chair League, pitched four no-run, no-hit games and was a 20-game winner that season. Brelsford has won 15 games this season.

WONDER IF Bill Hahn left the open date on the Fort Hill schedule so he could get Wheaton on there this season?

THE ONLY high school in Western Maryland that has played Wheaton in football is Frederick. The Cadets are 2-2 in their series with the Montgomery countians. Homer Brooks' last Frederick eleven beat Wheaton in 1954 by the score of 27-6. Wheaton, however, won the 1955 and 1956 games 33-7 and 19-6 against Frederick teams that failed to win a game both seasons. The last meeting was in 1957 when the Cadets won 18-6.

Richest Tourney For Women Golfers Will Open Today

MOUNT PROSPECT, Ill. (AP) —The richest tournament in women's pro golf history, the $20,000 Mount Prospect open, makes its debut Thursday with 32 players shooting for the $6,400 top prize.

The 72-hole medal play meet, concluding Sunday, will be played at Mount Prospect Country Club, a rolling 6,421-yard course with a feminine par of 37-37—74.

The top-flight field has only two notable absentees, Mrs. Jackie Pung and Wiffi Smith, both recovering from recent operations.

Power-hitting Mickey Wright and Betsy Rawls are rated the gals to beat, having won 10 of the 18 tourneys thus far played on the 1959 Ladies Professional Golf Assn. circuit. Betsy has won six and Mickey four.

The B'nai B'rith-Rotary game, postponed Monday on account of rain, has been rescheduled for today at 6 p.m., at Mason Road Field.

Monarchy Cops Lassie Stakes At Arlington

My Dear Girl 2nd, Heavenly Body 3rd

Monarchy, owned by Claiborne Farm, was ridden by Steve Brooks and was the third choice of the crowd of 18,138 at six to one. She was clocked at 1:10 for the six furlongs, compared to the record of 1:08 4-5.

Monarchy, winning her fourth race in six starts, added $61,800 to her earnings for a 2-year-old total of $68,880. She might have had a slightly better clocking except that rain began an hour before post time and continued during the run.

It was the first stake win for Monarchy, who won her first two races decisively but then ran fourth in the filly division of the National Stallion Stakes.

Monarchy never was far behind Wednesday and moved ahead in the stretch to nip My Dear Girl at the wire by a neck, while Cain Hoy Stables' Heavenly Body was third by a neck.

Heavenly Body, coupled with stable mate Make Sale, was the six to five favorite of the crowd, and My Dear Girl was the two to one second choice. My Dear Girl won $20,000 for second money, Heavenly Body received $12,000 for third, and Make Sale, fourth by a length and a half, received $6,000.

Monarchy returned $15, $6.20, and $3, My Dear Girl $3.80 and $2.60, and Heavenly Body $2.20.

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Jan Burke's Whodunit came with a drive in the stretch Wednesday to win the $109,800 Sunset Handicap as the sentimental and betting favorite, 9-year-old Find, ran third in the closing day feature at Hollywood Park.

Jockey Ray York got the 6-year-old Kentucky colt into the lead midway down the stretch to win by about a half a length, with Elmendorf Farm's Day Court Second, just a step or so ahead of Alfred G. Vanderbilt's ageless wonder, Find.

38,000 Attend Race

A crowd estimated at 38,000 roared with approval as Find, seeking another victory in the long race he won two years ago, took a momentary lead at the head of the stretch.

But the old guy, with jockey Willie Shoemaker working his hardest to bring him in, couldn't stand the gaff of the mile and five-eighths struggle.

The time was 2:40 4-5, well off the world and track record of 2:38 1-5 set by Swaps in 1956.

Whodunit, a Princequillo colt, paid $28.60, $12.60 and $4.80; Day Court $8.20 and $3.60, and Find $2.40.

Find earned the role of favorite off the two close seconds he ran to C. W. Smith's Hillsdale in previous stakes here. With Hillsdale sitting this one out, Find and Terrang, racing for Lawrence Pollock and Roland Bond, were the one-two choices.

$63,700 To Winner

Whodunit carried 110 pounds to 118 for Find and 122 for Terrang.

Aussie Netmen To Play Canada

MONTREAL (UPI) — Australia's young tennis stars tackle Canada Friday in the second leg of their bid to reach the challenge round against the United States and regain the Davis Cup.

The best-of-five North American zone semifinal series will be held on the grass courts of the Mount Royal Tennis Club July 24-26. The winner will meet Cuba in the North American final on the same courts, July 31-Aug. 2.

Australia and the U.S. have enjoyed a monopoly in the international challenge round, meeting each other for the past 13 years. The Aussies have won the cup seven times and the U.S. six times.

Non-playing captain Harry Hopman brought his young and comparatively inexperienced team here after eliminating Mexico on Monday at Mexico City, 4-1. The Mexicans extended the Aussies in all four singles matches, winning one and losing the other three in five sets.

Republicans Win At Frostburg, 11-3

Danny Muir tossed a two-hitter against the Lions and struck out five batsmen.

The Republicans collected 13 hits, including a double and two singles each by Mike Kelly and Muir. Perry Saville and Gary Clark obtained the Lions' hits.

Today the Elks and K. of C., deadlocked for first place with 8-4 records, will clash at 6 p.m.

Yanks Sign Scout

NEW YORK (AP) — Hugh E. Wise, father of former major league infielder Casey Wise, was signed as a scout with the New York Yankees Wednesday. He will handle the Southeast, with headquarters in Hollywood, Fla. He resigned recently from the Milwaukee Braves organization after 15 years about the time the Braves released his son.

Japanese Swim Team Noses Out United States

Breaks Relay Mark In 41-38 Triumph

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese relay team, with powerful, slow-stroking Ysuyoshi Yamanaka swimming the anchor leg, smashed a world record in the final event Wednesday and gave Japan a 41-38 victory over the United States in the three-day Trans-Pacific meet.

The quartet of Takezo Umemoto, Tatsuo Fujimoto, Makoto Fukui and Yamanaka swam the 800-meter freestyle relay in 8 minutes 21.6 seconds, two seconds faster than the listed world record made by an Australian team in 1956. A crowd of 10,000, including Emporor Hirohito's sister-in-law, Imperial Princess Chichibu, saw the exciting finish of the meet.

Earlier Yamanaka had pushed Australia's Murray Rose to a 9:08.6 performance in the 800-meter record of 9:14.5, but Rose swam the distance in 9:13.5 last year and last January Konrads turned in an amazing 8:59.6 for 880 yards—about a foot longer than 800 meters—in the New South Wales championships.

Rose, a Southern California student, competed in the meet as a guest and his placings didn't score points for the U.S. team.

The United States drew even with Japan in the point scoring by taking the first two places in the 200-meter backstroke just before the final relay. Frank McKinney of Indianapolis bettered his own American record by winning in 2?19.3. His best previous mark was 2:21.7. Chuck Bittick of Los Angeles was second, 1½ lengths behind.

Howard Reynolds saw his two-year string of 39 scoreless innings broken yesterday but he pitched the Phillies to a 9-2 victory over the Giants in a Dapper Division game of the Dapper Dan Little League at Post Field.

The only hit yielded by Reynolds was a homer by Wilson following a base on balls to Seeders in the second inning. Notching his fourth win without a loss, Reynolds whiffed 14 and issued only one base on balls.

It was Reynolds' eleventh straight win in two years. In his three previous starts this season he beat the Pirates, 7-0, Red Sox 11-0 and Cardinals 16-0.

In addition to his stellar mound performance, Reynolds blasted a triple, double and single for a perfect day at bat, Mike Hixson rapped a triple and single, Mark Lindner had two hits in two trips and Olin Perkins slammed a homer.

Yesterday's victory was the ninth in ten starts for the Phillies and increased their lead to two games over the Cardinals with five games left to play. Score:

Baltimore Colts Obtain Matuszak

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The Green Bay Packers have traded linebacker Marv Matuszak to the Baltimore Colts for Fred Thurston, a 245-pound guard, General Manager Vince Lombardi announced Wednesday. Lombardi said the deal was a straight player swap between the two National Football League clubs. Green Bay acquired Matuszak from the San Francisco 49ers late last season.

"Bucky" Dies At 58
12 Shutouts Record

By C. V. BURNS

JIMMY RIPPLE, former Middle Atlantic League and major leaguer, who died at Greensburg, Pa., last week, once figured in one of the strangest decisions in organized baseball.

Ripple was "discovered" playing on the sandlots of Delmont and Export, Pa., by Richard "Dick" Guy, sports editor of the old Pittsburgh Leader, and sponsor of the Pittsburgh Collegians, a traveling baseball team that played many times in Cumberland in bygone days.

Mr. Guy, who helped organize the Middle Atlantic League, and also the Pennsylvania State Association, owned the Greensburg Club in the latter circuit, and signed Ripple, a good hitter with a strong throwing arm, to a contract. "Dick" went to Ripple's home to get Jimmy to affix his signature to the pact.

Then the Jeannette Jays of the Mid-Atlantic League moved in and signed Ripple.

Guy took the matter up with Judge Landis, baseball commissioner, who went to Pittsburgh to hear the case.

The judge ruled that under baseball law Ripple plainly belonged to the Greensburg Club, which deserved the protection of the reserve clause, but because Guy had delivered the contract to Ripple's home in person instead of sending it by registered mail, he declared the player a free agent.

Ripple remained with Jeannette until he was sold by that club to Montreal. He also played with the Giants, Dodgers, Reds and Philadelphia A's.

Ripple played with Jeannette in 1929. That the year Johnny Byrnes was the Cumberland Colts' playing manager and Dr. Homer B. Walker was president of the local club which drew 34,792 paid admissions at Mid-City Park at Wineow street.

Among the players on the Colts' roster that season were Benny Artigiani, George Durning, Don Thomas, Dave Black, Ted Kleinhans, Steve Cozington, Eddie Seigel, Bobby Nork, Joe Conti, Tommy Cloonan, Pat Corrigan and last but not least, Irvin "Stub" Rase of Frostburg, who was a 22-game winner. "Stub" incidentally won more games than any other pitcher for the Colts. He hurled for Cumberland four seasons, appeared in over 100 games and had a .680 mark for 66 wins and 31 losses.

SHORTSTOP Jimmy High, of Barton in the Maryland-West Virginia Little League, who collected 16 consecutive hits before being stopped last Saturday on his fourth trip to the plate in the Ridgeley game, is a son of the late Harry Forrest "Gabby" High, Keyser outfielder, who died on the opening day of the Bi-State Baseball League season, April 29, 1951.

"Gabby" became ill in a game at Midland and died while en route to Miners Hospital, Frostburg. Death was attributed to a heart condition.

Jimmy's mother, who was Helen Budries, has remarried and resides in Pekin.

WHEN Moorefield met the Century Miners recently in a Mountain State Baseball League game Carl Wilfong did the pitching for the Barbour countians.

Eight years ago, Wilfong was a pitching sensation for the Keyser Firemen. In fact, he pitched Keyser to the pennant in the 1951 Bi-State League, winning his last 14 games to windup the campaign with a 14-3 record. Keyser won 25 and lost 10 that season.

Moorefield was extended to beat Wilfong eight years later in a 2-1 thriller.

SYLVESTER J. "Bucky" Dearbeck, 58, who has brought Westinghouse Apprentice School basketball teams into this section for many years to play Frostburg State Teachers College and Potomac State College, died in Pittsburgh on Friday.

"Bucky" had been employed by Westinghouse since the early 1920s and since 1934 had been coach of all athletic activities at Westinghouse Apprentice School in East Pittsburgh.

WATERFORD PARK managed to grab a good bit of publicity last Saturday by staging a mile and three-quarters race in which Chased Again beat Revenoor but that wasn't as long as the four-horse duel staged by Freddie Colwill at Fairgo nine years ago over the route of 2⅛ miles.

Reno Untried with Johnny Regalbuto up, won that one in 3:49 2/5, the longest race ever staged at the local half miler. Just Great was second, Bullsel, third, and Edna Lawless, fourth.

That endurance test was held June 24, 1950, the last race of the meeting.

WHEN Junior Brelsford, of the Homewood Tavern Old Exports, posted his ninth shutout victory on Tuesday in the County Softball League, he moved closer to the area all-time mark of 12 shutouts in a season credited to Al Sheetz of the Cumberland Amvets in the 1949 City League.

Sheetz, now twirling for the Caseys in the Rocking Chair League, pitched four no-run, no-hit games and was a 20-game winner that season. Brelsford has won 15 games this season.

WONDER IF Bill Hahn left the open date on the Fort Hill schedule so he could get Wheaton on there this season?

THE ONLY high school in Western Maryland that has played Wheaton in football is Frederick. The Cadets are 2-2 in their series with the Montgomery countians. Homer Brooks' last Frederick eleven beat Wheaton in 1954 by the score of 27-6. Wheaton, however, won the 1955 and 1956 games 33-7 and 19-6 against Frederick teams that failed to win a game both seasons. The last meeting was in 1957 when the Cadets won 18-6.

Richest Tourney For Women Golfers Will Open Today

MOUNT PROSPECT, Ill. (AP)—The richest tournament in women's pro golf history, the $20,000 Mount Prospect open, makes its debut Thursday with 32 players shooting for the $6,400 top prize.

The 72-hole medal play meet, concluding Sunday, will be played at Mount Prospect Country Club, a rolling 6,421-yard course with a feminine par of 37-37—74.

The top-flight field has only two notable absentees, Mrs. Jackie Pung and Wiffi Smith, both recovering from recent operations.

Power-hitting Mickey Wright and Betsy Rawls are rated the gals to beat, having won 10 of the 18 tourneys thus far played on the 1959 Ladies Professional Golf Assn. circuit. Betsy has won six and Mickey four.

Monarchy Cops Lassie Stakes At Arlington

My Dear Girl 2nd, Heavenly Body 3rd

Monarchy, owned by Claiborne Farm, was ridden by Steve Brooks and was the third choice of the crowd of 18,138 at six to one. She was clocked at 1:10 for the six furlongs, compared to the record of 1:08 4-5.

Monarchy, winning her fourth race in six starts, added $61,800 to her earnings for a 2-year-old total of $68,880. She might have had a slightly better clocking except that rain began an hour before post time and continued during the run.

It was the first stake win for Monarchy, who won her first two races decisively but then ran fourth in the filly division of the National Stallion Stakes.

Monarchy never was far behind Wednesday and moved ahead in the stretch to nip My Dear Girl at the wire by a neck, while Cain Hoy Stables' Heavenly Body was third by a neck.

Heavenly Body, coupled with stable mate Make Sale, was the six to five favorite of the crowd, and My Dear Girl was the two to one second choice. My Dear Girl won $20,000 for second money, Heavenly Body received $12,000 for third, and Make Sale, fourth by a length and a half, received $6,000.

Monarchy returned $15, $6.20, and $3, My Dear Girl $3.80 and $2.60, and Heavenly Body $2.20.

State Clarifies Police Jurisdiction

WESTERNPORT — The state's attorney's office has advised Police Officer Arlie Cosner that his jurisdiction extends a half-mile beyond the corporate limits of Westernport.

A ruling on the extent of his jurisdiction was asked following a complaint at last week's council meeting when Gilbert and Herbert Barton said Cosner had come to their property outside the town limits to conduct an investigation.

The investigation was made at the request of the State Police, Officer Cosner informed the council. The ruling of the state's attorney's office places the Barton property within the limits of the policeman's jurisdiction.

Girl Is Leader In Tennis Test

Sharon Kasecamp of North End Playground has been declared the leader in competitive tests in fundamental skills conducted in connection with the Recreation Department's summer tennis program.

Miss Kasecamp tallied 96 out of a possible 100 points to lead both her group and the city. Other high scorers were Thomas Hammersmith of Gephart Playground, 84; Robert Messmer, Gephart, 76; Benjamin Broome, Pine Avenue, 68; and Janet Hartung, Gephart, 64.

Recreation Director C. Eugene Mason said teenagers can still register for classes and be eligible to compete in the tournament. Classes are held as follows: Monday, West Side teenagers at North End courts; Tuesday, East End; and Friday, South End teenagers at Fort Hill courts. All classes are from 10 a. m. to noon.

State Clarifies Police Jurisdiction

WESTERNPORT — The state's attorney's office has advised Police Officer Arlie Cosner that his jurisdiction extends a half-mile beyond the corporate limits of Westernport.

A ruling on the extent of his jurisdiction was asked following a complaint at last week's council meeting when Gilbert and Herbert Barton said Cosner had come to their property outside the town limits to conduct an investigation.

The investigation was made at the request of the State Police, Officer Cosner informed the council. The ruling of the state's attorney's office places the Barton property within the limits of the policeman's jurisdiction.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Danny DeVault, who departed this life 3 years ago today, July 23, 1956.
Always in our memory.
More and more each day we miss him.
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
Missed so very, very much by his
MOTHER, DAD AND BROTHERS.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Danny DeVault, who departed this life 3 years ago today, July 23, 1956.
Always in our memory.
More and more each day we miss him.
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
Lies within our hearts concealed.
Missed so very, very much by his
MOTHER, DAD AND BROTHERS.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains were irregular Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ½ to up ½; corn off ½ to up 2⅜; oats off 1½ to up ¼; new oats off ⅜ to ⅞; rye off ½ to up ⅝ and soybeans off 3¼ to up 1⅛.

Trading closed Wednesday in the July contracts, and most of the activity centered in those grains. July corn closed strong, while oats and rye were weak and soybeans off as much as 3⅞ cents a bushel at one point. July wheat was easier.

Hedge sales increased in wheat, particularly in the December, and had an easing effect. The market was quiet, with slow and scattered buying. The deferred contracts were firm.

Corn was mostly easier, although commission and cash house buying firmed the July around noon. Offerings of July by elevator houses were heavy.

In soybeans, trade was not as active as earlier in the week, as traders hesitated on the possibility of showers in the dry areas. Outside markets were mixed. The range:

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains were irregular Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ½ to up ½; corn off ½ to up 2⅜; oats off 1½ to up ¼; new oats off ⅜ to ⅞; rye off ½ to up ⅝ and soybeans off 3¼ to up 1⅛.

Trading closed Wednesday in the July contracts, and most of the activity centered in those grains. July corn closed strong, while oats and rye were weak and soybeans off as much as 3⅞ cents a bushel at one point. July wheat was easier.

Hedge sales increased in wheat, particularly in the December, and had an easing effect. The market was quiet, with slow and scattered buying. The deferred contracts were firm.

Corn was mostly easier, although commission and cash house buying firmed the July around noon. Offerings of July by elevator houses were heavy.

In soybeans, trade was not as active as earlier in the week, as traders hesitated on the possibility of showers in the dry areas. Outside markets were mixed. The range:

Industrial Stocks Reach Record High In Big Rally

NEW YORK (UPI) — Industrial stocks shot to record highs Wednesday as investors gave the nation's economy a booming vote of confidence.

The strong rally, stepped off to the tune of increased trading, brought the over-all gain the past two sessions to more than $3,500,000,000 in stock values.

Industrial stocks, ringing up gains running to more than 4 points in some issues, ended the session at a new all-time high. The utility average hit its highest point since May 29.

The market was aided once again by some excellent earnings reports for the second quarter and first half and by strong investor confidence in the strength of the nation's economy.

Volume Wednesday expanded to 3,310,000 shares—the best since July 13—from 2,950,000 shares Tuesday. Brokers said the increase in volume in a rising market underscores the technical strength of the market.

Gains of more than 3 points in Owens Illinois Glass, 2 or more in Allied Chemical, Alcoa and General Foods and around 1 or more in Eastman Kodak, Westinghouse and Union Carbide were responsible for pushing the industrial average to a new peak.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube sprutted more than 4 and Allegheny-Ludlum more 3 in the steels. Vick added more than 3 while American Home Products and Plough added 2 or more each in the drugs. Motorola was up 4¼, General Time 3½, Litton 3⅜ and Zenith 2¾ in the electronics.

Gains of 2 or more also appeared in Walt Disney, Kendall, White Stores, Martin and Hewitt-Robins. Pittsburgh Plate Glass rose 4 and Eaton Manufacturing climbed 4⅞.

Hupp Corp. led the market in activity once again, easing slightly in the process. Studebaker was next in line followed by Colorado Fuel, Glen Alden, Aluminium, Detroit Steel and John R. Morrell.

Of the 1,245 issues traded, 609 advanced, 414 declined and 222 held unchanged. New highs were set by 63 stocks and new lows by only 10.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT.	Pass	2 NT.	Pass
3 NT.	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♦.

South found himself in a contract of three no trump today on natural bidding. When the dummy came down, he could count four diamond tricks, two hearts, a spade, and with a little luck a club. If an attempt were made to establish two club tricks, the enemy would surely wake up to the necessity for a shift to spades, which declarer would find most distaseful, so he planned a little ruse.

The opening lead of the six of diamonds was taken in dummy with the ace, East playing the four, suggesting that partner take his mind off the diamond suit. Declarer immediately led the five of spades. East played low, South put in ten and West won with the jack.

It was difficult for West to diagnose that spades should be continued. While it is true that East might have played one of his higher spades, he is not open to censure. There was no reasonable way for him to deduce that the spade suit was defenders' best weapon, particularly when declarer selected it for the opening shot of his campaign. Had East split his honors it might have worked out disastrously if South had a some what different spade holding.

Since apparently East was asking for a shift and inasmuch as the dummy held four clubs, West elected to lead the six of hearts. East played the king, and promptly returned the ten, finessing against West's queen. Dummy was entered with a heart and now everything depended upon the favorable location of the ace of clubs. When East showed up with that card, the king of clubs provided the ninth trick.

It seems reasonable to assume that had defenders been left to their own resources a spade shift would most likely have come from either of them.

Industrial Stocks Reach Record High In Big Rally

NEW YORK (UPI) — Industrial stocks shot to record highs Wednesday as investors gave the nation's economy a booming vote of confidence.

The strong rally, stepped off to the tune of increased trading, brought the over-all gain the past two sessions to more than $3,500,000,000 in stock values.

Industrial stocks, ringing up gains running to more than 4 points in some issues, ended the session at a new all-time high. The utility average hit its highest point since May 29.

The market was aided once again by some excellent earnings reports for the second quarter and first half and by strong investor confidence in the strength of the nation's economy.

Volume Wednesday expanded to 3,310,000 shares—the best since July 13—from 2,950,000 shares Tuesday. Brokers said the increase in volume in a rising market underscores the technical strength of the market.

Gains of more than 3 points in Owens Illinois Glass, 2 or more in Allied Chemical, Alcoa and General Foods and around 1 or more in Eastman Kodak, Westinghouse and Union Carbide were responsible for pushing the industrial average to a new peak.

An excellent earnings report sent Ford up 2 points in the motors. A dividend hike pushed Bayuk Cigars up more than 2.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube sprutted more than 4 and Allegheny-Ludlum more 3 in the steels. Vick added more than 3 while American Home Products and Plough added 2 or more each in the drugs. Motorola was up 4¼. General Time 3½, Litton 3⅜ and Zenith 2¾ in the electronics.

Gains of 2 or more also appeared in Walt Disney, Kendall, White Stores, Martin and Hewitt-Robins. Pittsburgh Plate Glass rose 4 and Eaton Manufacturing climbed 4⅞.

Fractional advances predominated in the rails and utilities.

Hupp Corp. led the market in activity once again, easing slightly in the process. Studebaker was next in line followed by Colorado Fuel, Glen Alden, Aluminium, Detroit Steel and John R. Morrell.

Of the 1,245 issues traded, 609 advanced, 414 declined and 222 held unchanged. New highs were set by 63 stocks and new lows by only 10.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT.	Pass	2 NT.	Pass
3 NT.	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♦.

South found himself in a contract of three no trump today on natural bidding. When the dummy came down, he could count four diamond tricks, two hearts, a spade, and with a little luck a club. If an attempt were made to establish two club tricks, the enemy would surely wake up to the necessity for a shift to spades, which declarer would find most distaseful, so he planned a little ruse.

The opening lead of the six of diamonds was taken in dummy with the ace, East playing the four, suggesting that partner take his mind off the diamond suit. Declarer immediately led the five of spades. East played low, South put in ten and West won with the jack.

It was difficult for West to diagnose that spades should be continued. While it is true that East might have played one of his higher spades, he is not open to censure. There was no reasonable way for him to deduce that the spade suit was defenders' best weapon, particularly when declarer selected it for the opening shot of his campaign. Had East split his honors it might have worked out disastrously if South had a some what different spade holding.

Since apparently East was asking for a shift and inasmuch as the dummy held four clubs, West elected to lead the six of hearts. East played the king, and promptly returned the ten, finessing against West's queen. Dummy was entered with a heart and now everything depended upon the favorable location of the ace of clubs. When East showed up with that card, the king of clubs provided the ninth trick.

Polaris Work On Schedule, Says Admiral

Cites ABL's Vital Role In Speeding Submarine Missile

Allegany Ballistics Laboratory has played a leading role in the twice-accelerated Polaris missile project, Rear Admiral W. F. Raborn, director of special projects for the Navy's Bureau of Ordnance, said yesterday.

The Polaris, a submarine-launched missile capable of carrying a conventional or nuclear warhead "to any significant military target on the face of the earth," will be operational — ready for use—by the fall of 1960, Admiral Raborn said.

The admiral held a brief press conference in the ABL cafeteria yesterday after he and Albert E. Forster, president of Hercules Powder Company, had dedicated ABL's new $5,000,000 Polaris facilities.

Hercules, which operates ABL for the Navy, has been working on development of the second-stage rocket motor for Polaris for more than a year. The facilities dedicated yesterday will help speed up research and development of the weapon.

Admiral Raborn said the Polaris was first scheduled to be operational in 1965. Then the date was moved up to 1963. A second speedup required completion by 1960.

Whole Project On Schedule

Despite the speedups and the innate problems of developing such a missile, he said, the whole project is on schedule—missile, submarines and personnel.

The Polaris is designed for launching from atomic-powered submarines of almost unlimited range. Admiral Raborn said it would be impractical to convert conventional subs for Polaris firing. The Navy already has launched nuclear subs, and more are being built.

In answer to a question, Admiral Raborn said that the competition in development of Polaris by ABL and by Aerojet-General Corp., of California, will give the Navy the best available Polaris. He said the outcome of this competition will have a bearing on the award of the contract for actual production of the developed missile.

Already Tested

Allegany Ballistics expects to have Polaris motors ready for flight-testing soon, if they are needed. Full-scale Polaris units already have been statically-fired successfully. (In static firing, a rocket engine is locked into a test bay and ignited, so that delicate instruments can record vital data about it. The rocket is not actually "flown".)

The Polaris building project at ABL was begun last September because the research station lacked facilities to handle the large grains of propellant needed for the new weapon. (A grain is a mass of propellant material cast into one piece for use in a rocket engine).

Involved in the big expansion program were construction of 14 buildings, with work done mostly by the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company of Cumberland and the Charles H. Tompkins Company of Washington; addition of half a million dollars' worth of ballistic data instruments, and a 25-million-electron-volt Betatron X-ray machine for finding flaws in cast grains.

The facilities have been built to be capable of producing any rocket motor that might be needed in the Polaris program.

Celanese Firm Adds Engineer To Staff Here

Robert G. Walters has joined the staff of the Quality Control Section at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America as a senior engineer, according to Hudson Nix, personnel manager.

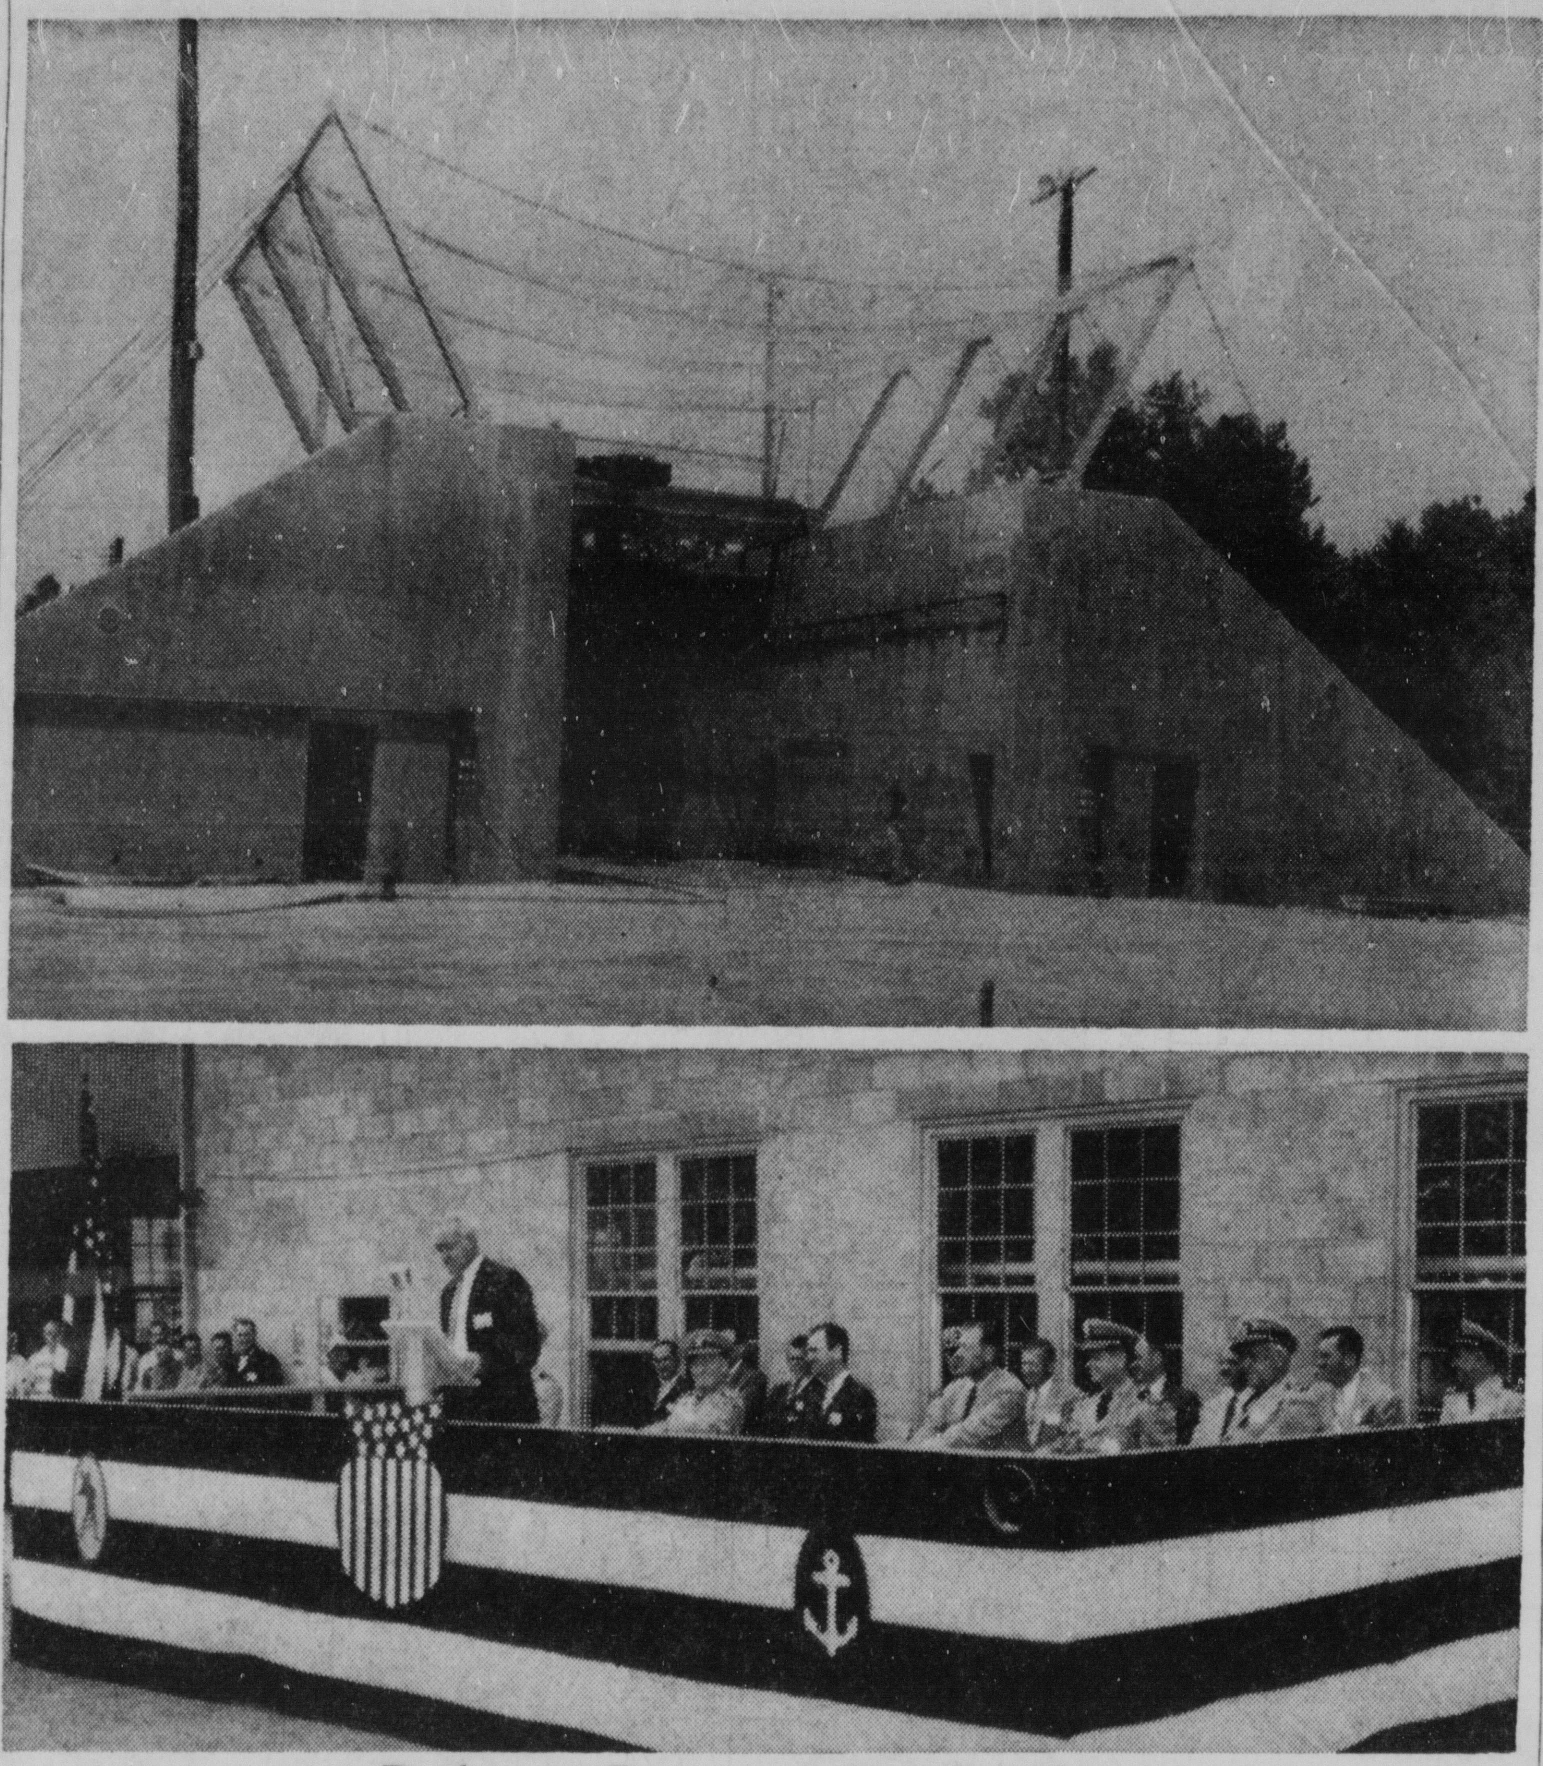
A native of Pittsburgh, Mr. Walters attended high school and Carnegie Institute of Technology, receiving a B.S. degree in industrial management in 1951.

He comes to the local plant after eight years with DuPont Company. Following his graduation from college, he joined the DuPont firm's nylon plant at Seaford, Del., where he worked in production supervision before being promoted to the position of methods and planning engineer.

In 1956 he was promoted to the position of standards engineer at the company's Chambers Works in New Jersey, and later was elevated to the position of special studies, engineer which he held until he resigned last month to join the Amcelle staff.

Mr. Walters did graduate work in business administration at the University of Delaware while residing in that state. He served with the Air Force for two years prior to attending Carnegie Tech.

Mr. and Mrs. Walters and their small children moved into a house on Carrick Place, LaVale, last week.



Polaris Project Dedicated

Navy and Hercules Powder Company officials yesterday dedicated $5,000,000 worth of expanded facilities at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory in connection with the development there of the second stage of the submarine-launched Polaris missile. Top photo shows Bay 2 of the test range area, where rocket motors are static-tested by being nosed into a block at the rear, lashed down and then ignited, while scores of delicate instruments record firing data. Lower photo shows Albert E. Forster, president of Hercules, speaking at dedication ceremonies at ABL yesterday morning.

Juvenile Study Group To Meet August 18

The board of directors of the Allegany County Youth Commission will meet Tuesday, August 18, at the Maryland Department of Employment Security building, 239 North Mechanic Street.

Former Chief Judge George Henderson, who is chairman of the commission, pointed out in a letter to board members and committee chairmen that this will probably be the last meeting of the board prior to the annual meeting in October.

Chairman Henderson said that at a meeting in May, the report of the detention committee showed progress toward an arrangement whereby the detention quarters in the County Infirmary will no longer be used.

Juveniles requiring confinement will be housed on the upper floor of the County Jail—but not in contact with the adult inmates.

He said juveniles not requiring confinement will be put under the supervision of the Welfare Board and housed in suitable quarters in private homes pending their final disposition. Ultimately, many will be placed in foster homes.

Mr. Henderson said this suggested arrangement has been approved in principal by the Board of County Commissioners and the State Welfare Board.

Many details, he said, have to be settled before final approval will be given by these two public authorities; however, there is in sight a proper solution to this detention problem, which has given so much concern to the Juvenile Court, the County Infirmary, the sheriff, the Welfare Board, the County Commissioners and the general public.

Vice chairman of the commission is Edward McPartland; Mrs. Jennie Grahame is secretary and John H. Jeffreys, treasurer.

City Employes' Picnic Sunday

The annual picnic for city employes and their families, sponsored by the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association, will be held Sunday at the SS. Peter and Paul picnic grounds on Mason Road.

The outing will be held from 10 a.m. until 9 p.m. A program of games will be sponsored by the association.

Children under 12 years of age will be admitted free. There will be free food and drinks.

Jury To Get Strike Plot Case Today

By PHIL CORNER

HENDERSON, N. C. (AP) — Lawyers for eight textile union members, on trial for allegedly plotting to dynamite installations of the struck Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills, concentrated their fire Wednesday on the testimony of a State Police informant.

The defense presented no witnesses or other evidence. In closing arguments it attacked the credibility of Harold Aaron, allegedly hired by the Textile Workers Union of America members as a dynamite expert.

Superior Court Judge Raymond Mallard will charge the jury Thursday morning.

"The state brought in an ordinary drunk and an ordinary thief and called him the truth . . . . Aaron likes to get people in trouble." Ledford pointed out that in 1947 Aaron was convicted of stealing a police car and halting traffic by pretending to be an officer.

Aaron testified during the trial that he met or talked with the eight defendants — including the union's Carolinas director, Boyd E. Payton — at various times to plot dynamiting a boiler room, office building and power substaiton of the company's South Henderson plant.

(Payton is a former resident of Cumberland.)

The defendants are charged on three counts each of conspiracy. Conviction carries maximum penalty of 45 years in prison.

Besides the 51-year-old Payton, other defendants are Lawrence Gore, 42, of Greensboro, an aide to Payton; Charles Auslander, 47, of Reidsville, a minor TWUA official; Johnny Martin, 57; Robert Edward Abbott, 21; Warren Walker, 38; Malcolm Jarrell, 23, and Calvin Ray Pegram, 22, all of Henderson.

The state was balked in its effort to introduce tape recordings made secretly at a Roanoke Rapids motel where the defendants allegedly met to discuss their plan. But the defense lost out in its other objections, including 24 motions Tuesday to throw out the charges.

Playlot Dance Set At Columbia Street

The children will attend the intra-city picnic at Constitution Park today. Shirley Poland, playlot director, said the movies will be sponsored by the playground association.

The pre-teen-age club will meet at 2:30 p.m. Monday. Winners of the recent button show were Jan Kauffman, Jennie Miller, Pat Kauffman, Charles Miller, Diane Kauffman and Tony Herath.

County To Get More Revenue From Gasoline

Allegany County will receive more gasoline tax money for the fiscal year which ended June 30 than originally was estimated but the exact amount of the increase was not available here last night.

When the Board of County Commissioners approved the annual levy list for the 1958-59 fiscal year on April 15, 1958, it estimated that the funds from the State Roads Commission for lateral roads would amount to $422,873.17.

Yesterday in Annapolis, State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced that Maryland's gasoline tax produced $50,974,854 for the fiscal year which ended June 30, some $3,393,337 above the previous year.

County Roads Supervisor Harry T. Skelly last night said that he had received no word as to the amount Allegany County will get, but figured it might be as much as $3,000 above the original estimate.

When the new Board of County Commissioners approved the levy list for 1959-60 on April 21 of this year, it was estimated that $425,000 would be received for lateral roads.

Under a division of the fuel tax revenues as set forth by law, $25,375,280 went to the State Roads Commission, $15,225,168 to Baltimore City and $10,150,112 to the counties. Distributions were made after deducting $224,293 for operation of the gasoline tax division.

The 7 per cent jump in net revenue over fiscal 1958 was $1,644,854 higher than had been anticipated in official estimates.

The roads commission received $1,696,788 more than it did the previous year. Baltimore City's 30 per cent share was up $1,018,073 and the counties and municipalities got $678,715 more than the previous year.

7 Counties Will Send Campers

At least seven Maryland counties are expected to be represented at the 4-H older youth week-end camp starting Saturday at the Western Maryland 4-H Center better known as Pleasant Valley near Bittinger in Garrett County.

The camp, which runs from 2 p. m. Saturday until 1 p. m. Monday, is primarily for 4-H members 15 years and older from Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties. However, an invitation was extended to each of Maryland's 20 other counties to send two delegates to the camp.

Prince George's and Howard Counties already have notified James B. Arnold, Allegany County's assistant agent, that they will send two delegates each to the camp. Prince George's will be represented by Carolyn Buck and Saundra Maust, and Howard County by Larry Curtis and Lenora Keyser.

Mr. Arnold, who will be co-director of the camp along with Miss Joan Kershner, Washington County assistant home demonstration agent, said about 25 Allegany countians are expected. Cecil and Frederick counties also have indicated they will send delegates too.

Other personnel for the camp will include Miss Nancy Marsteller, assistant home demonstration agent here; Mrs. Johanna M. Stull, assistant home demonstration agent in Garrett County; Rankin Lusby, assistant county agent in Garrett County, and Philip Beeman, lifeguard.

Special activities at the week-end camp will include swimming both Saturday and Sunday afternoons, a square dance Saturday night, vespers Sunday morning, softball, volleyball and a scavenger hunt.

CUF Could Help Attract Industry, Sanner Says

County United Fund is one of the area's biggest assets in attracting new industries, C. M. Sanner, chairman of the Cumberland Industrial Development Corporation's current drive for industrial promotion funds, said yesterday.

Pointing out that one of the first things a prospective new industry looks for is a healthy social program, Mr. Sanner said that County United Fund meets all the requirements on that score.

The social problems of every community of the area are met by family service units of CUF, the CIDC chairman cited, while there is hardly a health, youth, recreation, GI, community safety or other problem that is not met by CUF participating services.

Mr. Sanner lauded employes of the area's major industrial plants as being "way out front in supporting the social as well as the economic life of our communities."

"Their pay checks are not only the source of all other jobs in the area, but indirectly they support schools, hospitals, churches, and government of all categories, as well as wholesalers and national firms doing business in the area," he said.

To top all this off, the chairman stated, employes in the seven major industries contribute $100,000 or nearly a third of the total support of the 32 health, welfare, youth and community services of County United Fund.

"They are thus providing a large part of the community insurance policy that will help to attract more industries and create more jobs. They set the example, through their budget giving programs, for all other employed persons in the area," Mr. Sanner said.

Gas Company Plans Fourteen New W.Va. Wells

$600,000 Marked For Expansion

Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company is investing over $600,000 this year to drill 14 wells and lay pipeline to move the produced gas into the firm's supply network.

The wells will be drilled in Lewis, Upshur, and Barbour counties of West Virginia, according to an announcement by C. C. Robbins, manager here, and production foreman Harold Critchfield.

Three Upshur wells have been completed as successful producers. Drilling operations are in progress on four wells. Location plans are now being readied for the other seven.

Between five and six miles of new pipeline will be built to tie the new wells into C. & A.'s existing gathering system which connects with the Weston to Cumberland "backbone" supply line, the manager said.

"This drilling program is another phase of our continuous effort to secure sufficient supplies of local gas to help meet the increased customer requirements in cold weather," Mr. Robbins said.

Mr. Critchfield and his staff are supervising the well-drilling operations and pipeline construction. R. E. Lee, of Hundred, W. Va., is division superintendent of production and transmission operations for this area.

The emphasis C. & A. places on local gas production is shown by the total 1959 construction program of $2,000,000, with the cost of West Virginia well-drilling and gathering line construction representing one-third of the overall expenditures in both Maryland and West Virginia, the manager pointed out.

"Each year West Virginia drilling increases the amount of our local gas. However, wintertime demand surpasses this local supply and requires us to purchase pipeline gas to meet our customer's hourly and daily demands in cold weather," Mr. Robbins noted.

Bicycle License Tag Deadline Next Wednesday

Local youngsters with bicycles have until Wednesday, July 29, to procure their 1959 license tags, according to Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney, who has extended the final deadline until next week.

He said that after the 29th any bicycle found without the new tags will be picked up by the police department. Tags are on sale at police headquarters. Each bicycle is inspected before licenses are issued.

Mrs. James Sisk, clerk in the traffic bureau who has been issuing tags, said yesterday that 1,500 tags have been purchased.

The issuance of tags is running ahead of last year, according to Mrs. Sisk, who said it was in October of 1958 when the 1,500 figure was reached. Last year 1,790 tags were sold, she said.

Post Playlot Will Have Bus To Park Picnic

Youngsters of Post Playground will travel by bus to Constitution Park this morning to attend the intra-city picnic being sponsored by the Cumberland Recreation Department.

Charles Smith, playlot leader, said the bus will leave the playground at 9:45 a.m., and will leave the park at 3 p.m. for the return trip.

During softball games yesterday the Nutty Nuts beat the Chestnuts 17 to 9 and the Peanuts won over the Pecans, 13 to 12.

Winners in a recent doll show have been announced. Sherry Hamilton had the largest doll and the second and third place winners were Wanda Cline and Janet Poland. Sandy McDonald had the smallest doll. Bonnie Parks and Carl Whisner placed second and third. The three youngsters having the prettiest dolls were Vickie Baer, Ruth Miller and Bonnie Parks. Janie Reynolds and Diana McDonald had the largest collection of dolls. Tommy Merritt, Joyce Carter and Janice Standsberry had the most unusual dolls. There were 180 dolls entered in the show.

Taxi Catches Fire On Centre Street

The driver pulled the cab over to the side of the street, according to firemen, who said the carburetor of the auto caught fire. They received a call at 12:25 p.m.

Mrs. Keene was graduated from Beall High School in Frostburg in 1943 and the University of Maryland in 1947. She has nine years teaching experience. She taught seven years in Prince George's County and taught at Mt. Savage High School from September 1952 until June 1954.

She resigned after that to move to Philadelphia, Pa., where her husband had accepted a position. The family recently moved back to Mt. Savage, where Mrs. Keene's mother resides.

Civic Campaign For College Is Proposed

Would Help Area's Growth, Raborn Says

Expanded higher education opportunities in Allegany County would be a boon to the area's future economic growth, a high-ranking Navy officer predicted yesterday.

Rear Admiral W. F. Raborn, director of special projects for the Navy's Bureau of Ordnance, said he thinks local industrial and civic leaders should launch a campaign to get a four-year liberal arts college for the county.

He said companies like to locate in communities where they can find college-trained personnel, and that graduate schools in plant towns help fill the need for advanced study by technical workers.

One College In County

At present, Allegany County has but one four-year college — Frostburg State Teachers College, which offers a bachelor's degree only in education. The school also has a junior college program.

"You're going to need it if you're going to grow," he said.

Three years ago, the Western Maryland Branch of the American Chemical Society conducted a campaign for a college, which caused the General Assembly to adopt a resolution calling upon the State Department of Education to study Allegany County's higher education needs.

In October 1957, the Department of Education completed its study and filed a 22-page report, in which it failed to recommend establishing a liberal arts college in the county.

Instead, the report suggested abandoning the present two-year junior college course at Frostburg State and replacing it with a junior college in Cumberland. The authors of the report saw no adequate demand for a four-year college.

AAUW Disagrees

Just this month, however, the committee on higher education of the Frostburg-Georges Creek Branch of the American Association of University Women took issue with this report.

The committee's chairman, Miss Gertrude A. C. Williams, teacher at Beall High School in Frostburg, said the AAUW favors an expanded junior college program at State Teachers College, rather than a new junior college at Cumberland.

Meanwhile, the Allegany County Board of Education is keeping in mind the unused Carver School building as a possible site for a future junior college, if one is to be started here.

If the recommendations of the State Department of Education are followed, any such college would be under jurisdiction of the county school board, rather than under direct state control.

Man Sought In Beating Of Woman

Mrs. Rachel Gormer Struck On Head, Is Hospitalized

A Mineral County (W.Va.) man is suspected by city police as being the assailant who inflicted a severe head injury on a 38-year-old local woman late Tuesday night near the intersection of Washington and Lee streets.

Mrs. Rachel Gormer, 306 Washington Street, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital, where her condition last night was reported as "fair." Authorities said 14 sutures were required to close the wound in the back of the woman's head.

About 11:45 p.m. Tuesday she was found lying on the sidewalk near her home. She was taken to the hospital by Wellington Reinhart, a Washington Street neighbor who said he heard Mrs. Gormer calling for help.

Several Questioned

Mr. Reinhart was walking along the street when he heard the call for help and found the badly bleeding woman in front of 308 Washington Street.

Last night Mrs. Gormer was questioned at the hospital by Assistant Police Chief John E. Sherry and Detective Kenneth Morrissey.

Detective Morrissey said Mrs. Gormer told them she was grabbed from behind by an assailant who had got out of a car near the intersection.

After striking her on the head, the assailant got back into the car and drove up Lee Street. She said that previous to being assaulted she had been in a West Side tavern.

The tavern proprietor said the woman had been in his place of business for about 40 minutes, and left alone. An occupant of an apartment house in the neighborhood said he saw her walking along the street and there was no one following her.

Husband At Work

After questioning Mrs. Gormer, Detective Morrissey and Assistant Chief Sherry questioned her husband at police headquarters. Mr. Gormer told police he was at work at a local brewery when the beating occurred.

Mr. Gormer told police that on July 4 a man who reportedly lives in Mineral County broke three windows of his car while Mrs. Gormer was seated in the parked auto near Fort Ashby, where the Gormers had gone together.

Local police said a warrant has been issued for the West Virginian and authorities of that state will be contacted to pick him up.

Machine Shop Trainees Hired For Local Jobs

The six-month machine shop training course for adults at the Allegany Trade School on Paca Street will end about September 1, and J. D. Lonnholm, supervisor of vocational, industrial and adult education in Allegany County, said yesterday that a number of the trainees already have obtained employment.

Mr. Lonnholm said two of them have obtained jobs in local industries. They are John Stull, hired by National Jet Company, LaVale, and Donald McCoy, now employed by Allegany Instrument Company on Wills Mountain. Allegany Ballistics Laboratory also has expressed interest in hiring some of the trainees, although none actually has been employed.

Other trainees, who were on furlough, have been recalled and still others have found jobs in such places as Baltimore and Cleveland.

Eighty-six originally registered for the training program which started March 1 and 40 were accepted into training. Wallace M. Walker, who started a machine shop class for about 20 Allegany High School boys at the Paca Street building last September, is the instructor.

From the time of its beginning March 1 until the end of the regular school term there were week-day sessions from 2 until 5 p.m. Since June the sessions have been from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m. each day.

A night class for machine shop training will be started about October 1 under present plans, Mr. Lonnholm said.

Polaris Work On Schedule, Says Admiral

Cites ABL's Vital Role In Speeding Submarine Missile

Allegany Ballistics Laboratory has played a leading role in the twice-accelerated Polaris missile project, Rear Admiral W. F. Raborn, director of special projects for the Navy's Bureau of Ordnance, said yesterday.

The Polaris, a submarine-launched missile capable of carrying a conventional or nuclear warhead "to any significant military target on the face of the earth," will be operational — ready for use—by the fall of 1960, Admiral Raborn said.

The admiral held a brief press conference in the ABL cafeteria yesterday after he and Albert E. Forster, president of Hercules Powder Company, had dedicated ABL's new $5,000,000 Polaris facilities.

Hercules, which operates ABL for the Navy, has been working on development of the second-stage rocket motor for Polaris for more than a year. The facilities dedicated yesterday will help speed up research and development of the weapon.

Admiral Raborn said the Polaris was first scheduled to be operational in 1965. Then the date was moved up to 1963. A second speedup required completion by 1960.

Whole Project On Schedule

Despite the speedups and the innate problems of developing such a missile, he said, the whole project is on schedule—missile, submarines and personnel.

The Polaris is designed for launching from atomic-powered submarines of almost unlimited range. Admiral Raborn said it would be impractical to convert conventional subs for Polaris firing. The Navy already has launched nuclear subs, and more are being built.

In answer to a question, Admiral Raborn said that the competition in development of Polaris by ABL and by Aerojet-General Corp., of California, will give the Navy the best available Polaris. He said the outcome of this competition will have a bearing on the award of the contract for actual production of the developed missile.

Already Tested

Allegany Ballistics expects to have Polaris motors ready for flight-testing soon, if they are needed. Full-scale Polaris units already have been statically-fired successfully. (In static firing, a rocket engine is locked into a test bay and ignited, so that delicate instruments can record vital data about it. The rocket is not actually "flown".)

The Polaris building project at ABL was begun last September because the research station lacked facilities to handle the large grains of propellant needed for the new weapon. (A grain is a mass of propellant material cast into one piece for use in a rocket engine).

Involved in the big expansion program were construction of 14 buildings, with work done mostly by the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company of Cumberland and the Charles H. Tompkins Company of Washington; addition of half a million dollars' worth of ballistic data instruments, and a 25-million-electron-volt Betatron X-ray machine for finding flaws in cast grains.

The facilities have been built to be capable of producing any rocket motor that might be needed in the Polaris program.

Celanese Firm Adds Engineer To Staff Here

Robert G. Walters has joined the staff of the Quality Control Section at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America as a senior engineer, according to Hudson Nix, personnel manager.

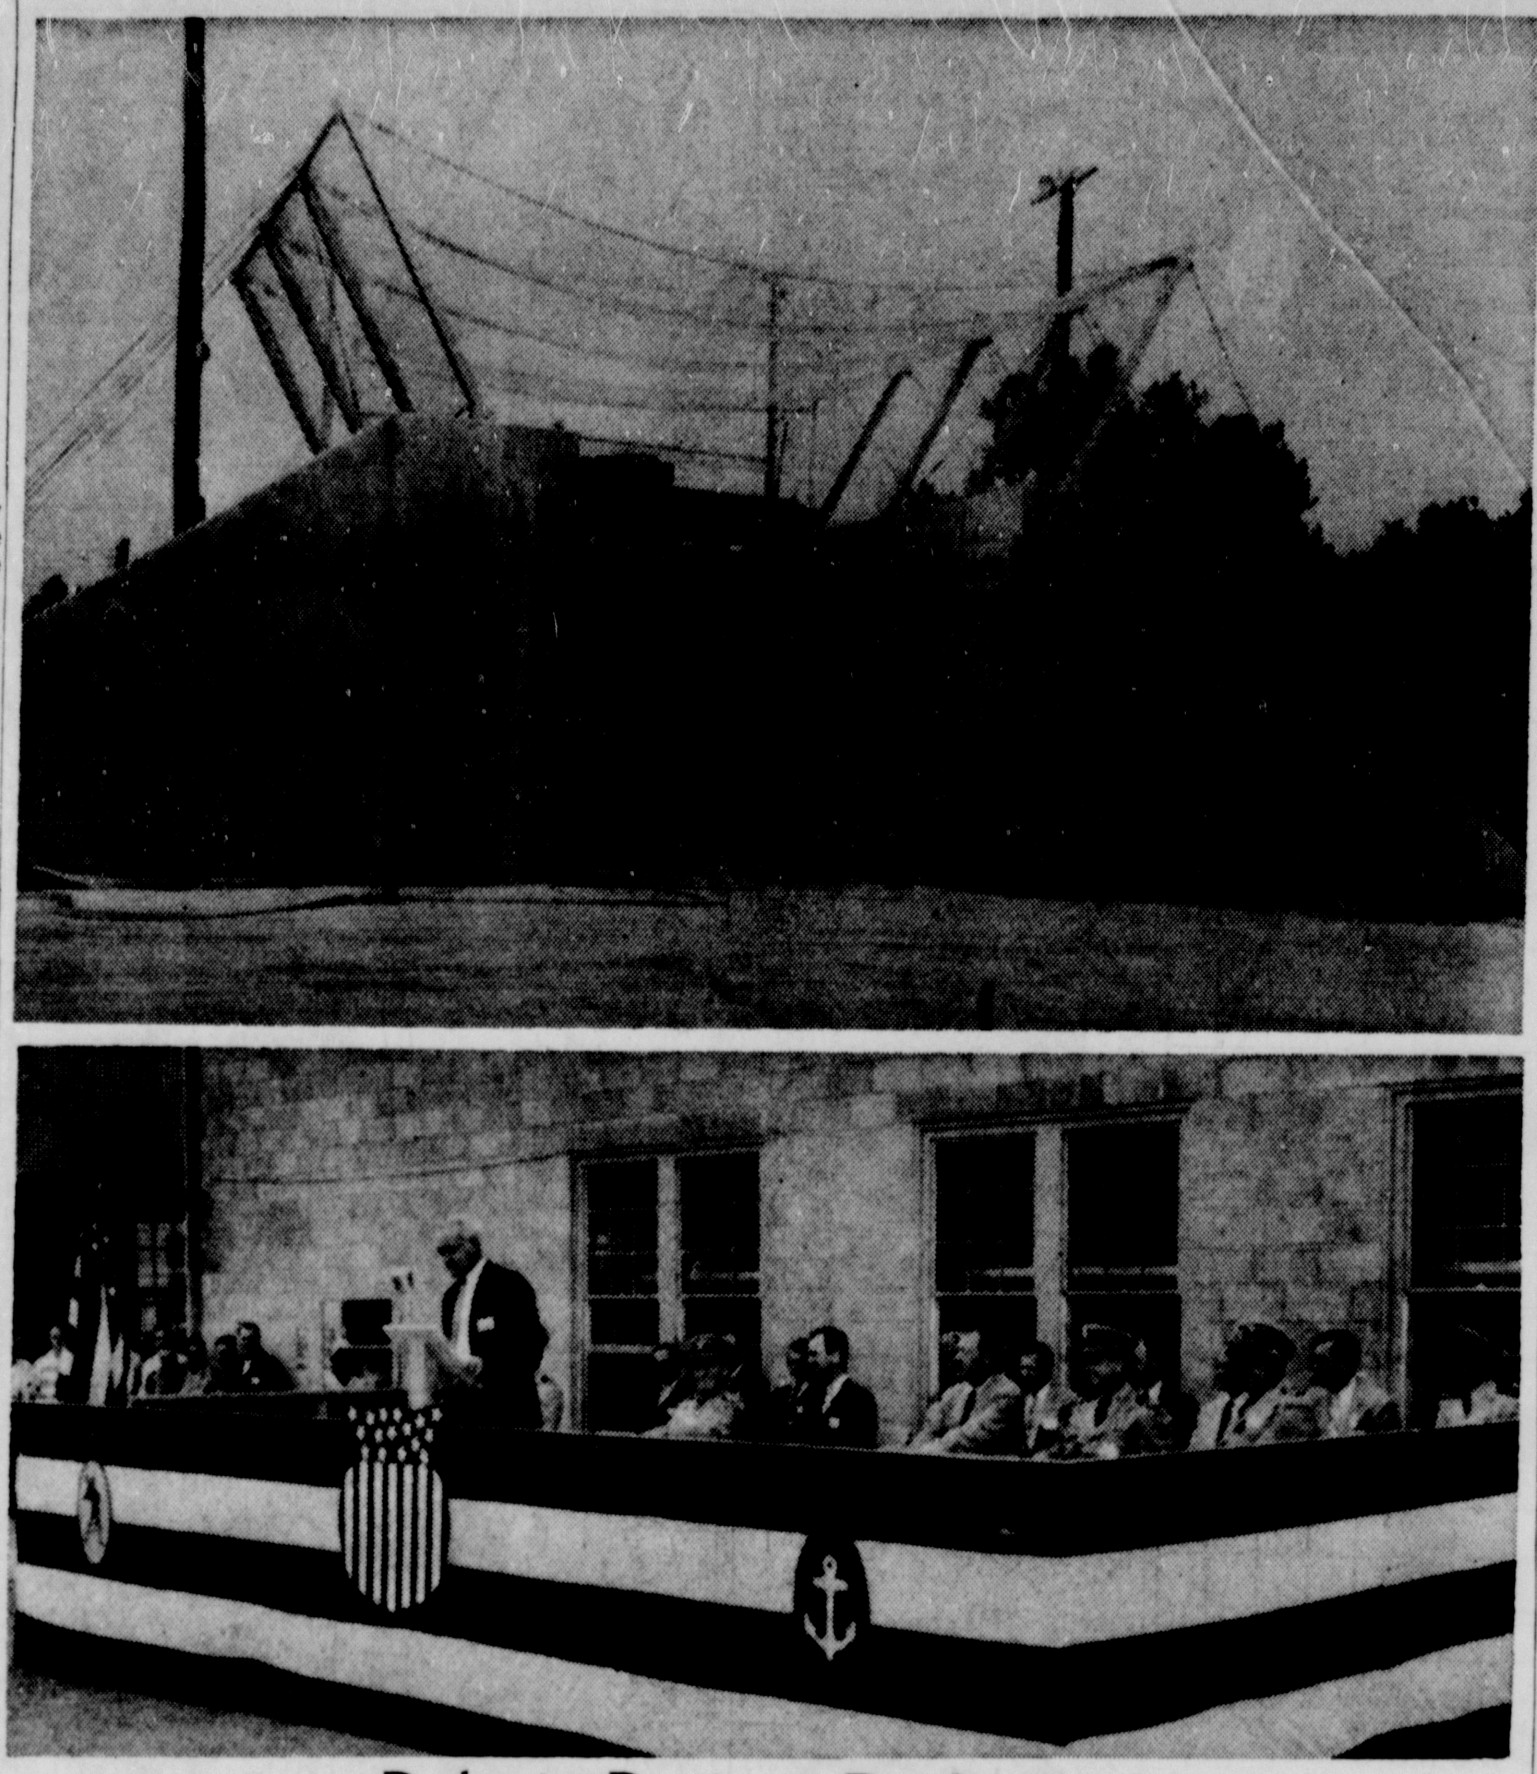
A native of Pittsburgh, Mr. Walters attended high school and Carnegie Institute of Technology, receiving a B.S. degree in industrial management in 1951.

He comes to the local plant after eight years with DuPont Company. Following his graduation from college, he joined the DuPont firm's nylon plant at Seaford, Del., where he worked in production supervision before being promoted to the position of methods and planning engineer.

In 1956 he was promoted to the position of standards engineer at the company's Chambers Works in New Jersey, and later was elevated to the position of special studies, engineer which he held until he resigned last month to join the Amcelle staff.

Mr. Walters did graduate work in business administration at the University of Delaware while residing in that state. He served with the Air Force for two years prior to attending Carnegie Tech.

Mr. and Mrs. Walters and their small children moved into a house on Carrick Place, LaVale, last week.



Polaris Project Dedicated

Navy and Hercules Powder Company officials yesterday dedicated $5,000,000 worth of expanded facilities at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory in connection with the development there of the second stage of the submarine-launched Polaris missile. Top photo shows Bay 2 of the test range area, where rocket motors are static-tested by being nosed into a block at the rear, lashed down and then ignited, while scores of delicate instruments record firing data. Lower photo shows Albert E. Forster, president of Hercules, speaking at dedication ceremonies at ABL yesterday morning.

Juvenile Study Group To Meet August 18

The board of directors of the Allegany County Youth Commission will meet Tuesday, August 18, at the Maryland Department of Employment Security building, 239 North Mechanic Street.

Former Chief Judge George Henderson, who is chairman of the commission, pointed out in a letter to board members and committee chairmen that this will probably be the last meeting of the board prior to the annual meeting in October.

He is urging all committee chairmen to be ready to present reports at the August meeting.

Chairman Henderson said that at a meeting in May, the report of the detention committee showed progress toward an arrangement whereby the detention quarters in the County Infirmary will no longer be used.

Juveniles requiring confinement will be housed on the upper floor of the County Jail—but not in contact with the adult inmates.

He said juveniles not requiring confinement will be put under the supervision of the Welfare Board and housed in suitable quarters in private homes pending their final disposition. Ultimately, many will be placed in foster homes.

Mr. Henderson said this suggested arrangement has been approved in principal by the Board of County Commissioners and the State Welfare Board.

Many details, he said, have to be settled before final approval will be given by these two public authorities; however, there is in sight a proper solution to this detention problem, which has given so much concern to the Juvenile Court, the County Infirmary, the sheriff, the Welfare Board, the County Commissioners and the general public.

Vice chairman of the commission is Edward McPartland; Mrs. Jennie Grahame is secretary and John H. Jeffreys, treasurer.

City Employes' Picnic Sunday

The annual picnic for city employes and their families, sponsored by the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association, will be held Sunday at the SS. Peter and Paul picnic grounds on Mason Road.

The outing will be held from 10 a.m. until 9 p.m. A program of games will be sponsored by the association.

Children under 12 years of age will be admitted free. There will be free food and drinks.

Jury To Get Strike Plot Case Today

By PHIL CORNER

HENDERSON, N. C. (AP) — Lawyers for eight textile union members, on trial for allegedly plotting to dynamite installations of the struck Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills, concentrated their fire Wednesday on the testimony of a State Police informant.

The defense presented no witnesses or other evidence. In closing arguments it attacked the credibility of Harold Aaron, allegedly hired by the Textile Workers Union of America members as a dynamite expert.

Superior Court Judge Raymond Mallard will charge the jury Thursday morning.

"The state brought in an ordinary drunk and an ordinary thief and called him the truth . . . . Aaron likes to get people in trouble." Ledford pointed out that in 1947 Aaron was convicted of stealing a police car and halting traffic by pretending to be an officer.

Aaron testified during the trial that he met or talked with the eight defendants — including the union's Carolinas director, Boyd E. Payton — at various times to plot dynamiting a boiler room, office building and power substaiton of the company's South Henderson plant.

(Payton is a former resident of Cumberland.)

The defendants are charged on three counts each of conspiracy. Conviction carries maximum penalty of 45 years in prison.

Besides the 51-year-old Payton, other defendants are Lawrence Gore, 42, of Greensboro, an aide to Payton; Charles Auslander, 47, of Reidsville, a minor TWUA official; Johnny Martin, 57; Robert Edward Abbott, 21; Warren Walker, 38; Malcolm Jarrell, 23, and Calvin Ray Pegram, 22, all of Henderson.

The state was balked in its effort to introduce tape recordings made secretly at a Roanoke Rapids motel where the defendants allegedly met to discuss their plan. But the defense lost out in its other objections, including 24 motions Tuesday to throw out the charges.

Playlot Dance Set At Columbia Street

Columbia Street Playground activities include a dance tomorrow evening and movies on Monday night.

The children will attend the intra-city picnic at Constitution Park today. Shirley Poland, playlot director, said the movies will be sponsored by the playground association.

The pre-teen-age club will meet at 2:30 p.m. Monday. Winners of the recent button show were Jan Kauffman, Jennie Miller, Pat Kauffman, Charles Miller, Diane Kauffman and Tony Herath.

County To Get More Revenue From Gasoline

Allegany County will receive more gasoline tax money for the fiscal year which ended June 30 than originally was estimated but the exact amount of the increase was not available here last night.

When the Board of County Commissioners approved the annual levy list for the 1958-59 fiscal year on April 15, 1958, it estimated that the funds from the State Roads Commission for lateral roads would amount to $422,873.17.

Yesterday in Annapolis, State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced that Maryland's gasoline tax produced $50,974,854 for the fiscal year which ended June 30, some $3,393,337 above the previous year.

County Roads Supervisor Harry T. Skelly last night said that he had received no word as to the amount Allegany County will get, but figured it might be as much as $3,000 above the original estimate.

When the new Board of County Commissioners approved the levy list for 1959-60 on April 21 of this year, it was estimated that $425,000 would be received for lateral roads.

Under a division of the fuel tax revenues as set forth by law, $25,375,280 went to the State Roads Commission, $15,225,168 to Baltimore City and $10,150,112 to the counties. Distributions were made after deducting $224,293 for operation of the gasoline tax division.

The 7 per cent jump in net revenue over fiscal 1958 was $1,644,854 higher than had been anticipated in official estimates.

The roads commission received $1,696,788 more than it did the previous year. Baltimore City's 30 per cent share was up $1,018,073 and the counties and municipalities got $678,715 more than the previous year.

7 Counties Will Send Campers

At least seven Maryland counties are expected to be represented at the 4-H older youth week-end camp starting Saturday at the Western Maryland 4-H Center better known as Pleasant Valley near Bittinger in Garrett County.

The camp, which runs from 2 p. m. Saturday until 1 p. m. Monday, is primarily for 4-H members 15 years and older from Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties. However, an invitation was extended to each of Maryland's 20 other counties to send two delegates to the camp.

Prince George's and Howard Counties already have notified James B. Arnold, Allegany County's assistant agent, that they will send two delegates each to the camp. Prince George's will be represented by Carolyn Buck and Saundra Maust, and Howard County by Larry Curtis and Lenora Keyser.

Mr. Arnold, who will be co-director of the camp along with Miss Joan Kershner, Washington County assistant home demonstration agent, said about 25 Allegany countians are expected. Cecil and Frederick counties also have indicated they will send delegates too.

Other personnel for the camp will include Miss Nancy Marsteller, assistant home demonstration agent here; Mrs. Johanna M. Stull, assistant home demonstration agent in Garrett County; Rankin Lusby, assistant county agent in Garrett County, and Philip Beeman, lifeguard.

Special activities at the week-end camp will include swimming both Saturday and Sunday afternoons, a square dance Saturday night, vespers Sunday morning, softball, volleyball and a scavenger hunt.

CUF Could Help Attract Industry, Sanner Says

County United Fund is one of the area's biggest assets in attracting new industries, C. M. Sanner, chairman of the Cumberland Industrial Development Corporation's current drive for industrial promotion funds, said yesterday.

Pointing out that one of the first things a prospective new industry looks for is a healthy social program, Mr. Sanner said that County United Fund meets all the requirements on that score.

The social problems of every community of the area are met by family service units of CUF, the CIDC chairman cited, while there is hardly a health, youth, recreation, GI, community safety or other problem that is not met by CUF participating services.

Mr. Sanner lauded employes of the area's major industrial plants as being "way out front in supporting the social as well as the economic life of our communities."

"Their pay checks are not only the source of all other jobs in the area, but indirectly they support schools, hospitals, churches, and government of all categories, as well as wholesalers and national firms doing business in the area," he said.

To top all this off, the chairman stated, employes in the seven major industries contribute $100,000 or nearly a third of the total support of the 32 health, welfare, youth and community services of County United Fund.

"They are thus providing a large part of the community insurance policy that will help to attract more industries and create more jobs. They set the example, through their budget giving programs, for all other employed persons in the area," Mr. Sanner said.

Gas Company Plans Fourteen New W.Va. Wells

$600,000 Marked For Expansion

Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company is investing over $600,000 this year to drill 14 wells and lay pipeline to move the produced gas into the firm's supply network.

The wells will be drilled in Lewis, Upshur, and Barbour counties of West Virginia, according to an announcement by C. C. Robbins, manager here, and production foreman Harold Critchfield.

Three Upshur wells have been completed as successful producers. Drilling operations are in progress on four wells. Location plans are now being readied for the other seven.

Between five and six miles of new pipeline will be built to tie the new wells into C. & A.'s existing gathering system which connects with the Weston to Cumberland "backbone" supply line, the manager said.

"This drilling program is another phase of our continuous effort to secure sufficient supplies of local gas to help meet the increased customer requirements in cold weather," Mr. Robbins said.

Mr. Critchfield and his staff are supervising the well-drilling operations and pipeline construction. R. E. Lee, of Hundred, W. Va., is division superintendent of production and transmission operations for this area.

The emphasis C. & A. places on local gas production is shown by the total 1959 construction program of $2,000,000, with the cost of West Virginia well-drilling and gathering line construction representing one-third of the overall expenditures in both Maryland and West Virginia, the manager pointed out.

"Each year West Virginia drilling increases the amount of our local gas. However, wintertime demand surpasses this local supply and requires us to purchase pipeline gas to meet our customer's hourly and daily demands in cold weather," Mr. Robbins noted.

Bicycle License Tag Deadline Next Wednesday

Local youngsters with bicycles have until Wednesday, July 29, to procure their 1959 license tags, according to Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney, who has extended the final deadline until next week.

He said that after the 29th any bicycle found without the new tags will be picked up by the police department. Tags are on sale at police headquarters. Each bicycle is inspected before licenses are issued.

Mrs. James Sisk, clerk in the traffic bureau who has been issuing tags, said yesterday that 1,500 tags have been purchased.

The issuance of tags is running ahead of last year, according to Mrs. Sisk, who said it was in October of 1958 when the 1,500 figure was reached. Last year 1,790 tags were sold, she said.

Post Playlot Will Have Bus To Park Picnic

Youngsters of Post Playground will travel by bus to Constitution Park this morning to attend the intra-city picnic being sponsored by the Cumberland Recreation Department.

Charles Smith, playlot leader, said the bus will leave the playground at 9:45 a.m., and will leave the park at 3 p.m. for the return trip.

During softball games yesterday the Nutty Nuts beat the Chestnuts 17 to 9 and the Peanuts won over the Pecans, 13 to 12.

Winners in a recent doll show have been announced. Sherry Hamilton had the largest doll and the second and third place winners were Wanda Cline and Janet Poland. Sandy McDonald had the smallest doll. Bonnie Parks and Carl Whisner placed second and third. The three youngsters having the prettiest dolls were Vickie Baer, Ruth Miller and Bonnie Parks. Janie Reynolds and Diana McDonald had the largest collection of dolls. Tommy Merritt, Joyce Carter and Janice Standsberry had the most unusual dolls. There were 180 dolls entered in the show.

Taxi Catches Fire On Centre Street

Engine Company No. 1 at Central station yesterday afternoon was called to North Centre Street near the Frederick Street intersection when a local taxicab caught fire.

The driver pulled the cab over to the side of the street, according to firemen, who said the carburetor of the auto caught fire. They received a call at 12:25 p.m.

MRS. MARIANNE KEENE

New Mt. Savage Home Economics Teacher Named

Mrs. Marianne Keene of Mt. Savage has been appointed to teach home economics at Mt. Savage High School in the 1959-60 school year, Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer announced yesterday.

Mrs. Keene was graduated from Beall High School in Frostburg in 1943 and the University of Maryland in 1947. She has nine years teaching experience. She taught seven years in Prince George's County and taught at Mt. Savage High School from September 1952 until June 1954.

She resigned after that to move to Philadelphia, Pa., where her husband had accepted a position. The family recently moved back to Mt. Savage, where Mrs. Keene's mother resides.

Civic Campaign For College Is Proposed

Would Help Area's Growth, Raborn Says

Expanded higher education opportunities in Allegany County would be a boon to the area's future economic growth, a high-ranking Navy officer predicted yesterday.

Rear Admiral W. F. Raborn, director of special projects for the Navy's Bureau of Ordnance, said he thinks local industrial and civic leaders should launch a campaign to get a four-year liberal arts college for the county.

The admiral predicted that the existence of more institutions of higher education would be a potent factor in attracting new industries.

He said companies like to locate in communities where they can find college-trained personnel, and that graduate schools in plant towns help fill the need for advanced study by technical workers.

One College In County

At present, Allegany County has but one four-year college — Frostburg State Teachers College, which offers a bachelor's degree only in education. The school also has a junior college program.

Admiral Raborn suggested that a community-wide effort might help bring about the eventual establishment of a four-year college.

"You're going to need it if you're going to grow," he said.

Three years ago, the Western Maryland Branch of the American Chemical Society conducted a campaign for a college, which caused the General Assembly to adopt a resolution calling upon the State Department of Education to study Allegany County's higher education needs.

In October 1957, the Department of Education completed its study and filed a 22-page report, in which it failed to recommend establishing a liberal arts college in the county.

Instead, the report suggested abandoning the present two-year junior college course at Frostburg State and replacing it with a junior college in Cumberland. The authors of the report saw no adequate demand for a four-year college.

AAUW Disagrees

Just this month, however, the committee on higher education of the Frostburg-Georges Creek Branch of the American Association of University Women took issue with this report.

The committee's chairman, Miss Gertrude A. C. Williams, teacher at Beall High School in Frostburg, said the AAUW favors an expanded junior college program at State Teachers College, rather than a new junior college at Cumberland.

Meanwhile, the Allegany County Board of Education is keeping in mind the unused Carver School building as a possible site for a future junior college, if one is to be started here.

If the recommendations of the State Department of Education are followed, any such college would be under jurisdiction of the county school board, rather than under direct state control.

Man Sought In Beating Of Woman

Mrs. Rachel Gormer Struck On Head, Is Hospitalized

A Mineral County (W.Va.) man is suspected by city police as being the assailant who inflicted a severe head injury on a 38-year-old local woman late Tuesday night near the intersection of Washington and Lee streets.

Mrs. Rachel Gormer, 306 Washington Street, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital, where her condition last night was reported as "fair." Authorities said 14 sutures were required to close the wound in the back of the woman's head.

About 11:45 p.m. Tuesday she was found lying on the sidewalk near her home. She was taken to the hospital by Wellington Reinhart, a Washington Street neighbor who said he heard Mrs. Gormer calling for help.

Several Questioned

Mr. Reinhart was walking along the street when he heard the call for help and found the badly bleeding woman in front of 308 Washington Street.

Last night Mrs. Gormer was questioned at the hospital by Assistant Police Chief John E. Sherry and Detective Kenneth Morrissey.

Detective Morrissey said Mrs. Gormer told them she was grabbed from behind by an assailant who had got out of a car near the intersection.

After striking her on the head, the assailant got back into the car and drove up Lee Street. She said that previous to being assaulted she had been in a West Side tavern.
